Dairy Families, Support Providers Tell Ongoing Stories Of Success

Carissa Itle Westrick accompanies a new calf at Vale Wood Farms, Cambria County. The Itle family processes and markets milk from their own 200-cow herd and from four nearby herds. Chocolate fudge, nuts, strawberries, or all three? Twins Maya, front, and Liana Smith, Palmyra, enjoyed tasting topping combinations on their vanilla ice cream. Their bowls are only a small part of a 90-gallon sundae constructed Tuesday on the Capitol steps in Harrisburg to kick off June Dairy Month. The twins' older sister, Sarandon, was also at the event as a Lebanon County Li'l Dairy Miss. They are the daughters of Tom, ADADC Mid East/PDPP, and Sandi Smith. See story on page A24.

Compared to Thursday, Lean slaughter cows sold steady to .50 lower. However, Breaking and Boning cows sold 1.00-3.00 lower as buyer demand was light. The quality of the run could have been a factor in the lower prices, as the majority of the run was not as fancy as Thursday's. Slaughter bulls sold 2.00-3.00 higher as the supply was comprised of some very nice stock. The cattle supply included 61 percent cows, with 13 percent slaughter bulls.

Compared to Thursday, Choice slaughter steers sold steady to firm, with a fancy high Choice and Prime supply trading .50 to nearly 1.00 higher. Prices continue to wow even the seasoned cattle buyers as there were fat steers that sold up to 90.00. It is hard to imagine a packer being able to cut enough meat out of a 1250.00-1300.00 steer to pay the bills, but that is the situation local buyers are faced with as prices continue to soar. The quality of the two-day run was very nice, and even with the inclement weather steers are weighing up good. Slaughter Holstein steers sold steady, instances weaker. There were not enough slaughter heifers for a market test. Lean slaughter cows sold fully 1.00 lower, with sales up to 2.00 lower at times. Breaking and Boning cows sold fully 4.00 lower when compared to Thursday's very active market. Buyer attendance was lighter at the Tuesday run as a few packers are taking a back seat for a while to try and wait out the current high market; they could be on to something if the border opens and Canadian cows flood the U.S. market.

Slaughter bulls sold mostly steady on a light test. The two-day run included 414 steers, 42 heifers, 363 cows, 26 bulls, with 18 head of feeder cattle.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1165-1460 lbs 86.00-89.00, several individuals 1310-1445 lbs 89.00-90.00. Slaughter Bulls: Yield Grade 1-2 1110-2035 lbs 55.00-59.75, high dressing up to 70.00 on Monday.

Calves: Compared to Thursday's graded sale, veal calves sold steady to 7.00 lower. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold sharply lower in fairly inactive trading. Prices were 20.00-75.00 lower, as special-fed buyers are beginning to show concern about Canada sending fat calves into the U.S., as talks are underway to import calves in the near future. The PA Department of Ag graded 511 head of bulls and heifers for the graded sale, with around 92 percent of the graded run going back on feed.

Veal Calves: Standard and Utility 60-130 lbs 20.00-40.00, weaker 11.00-15.00. Returning to Feed: Graded Number One Holstein Bulls 120-125 lbs 137.00-140.00; 90-120 lbs 165.00-175.00; 80-85 lbs 152.00-160.00. Compared to Tuesday, slaughter steers sold fully 2.00-3.00 lower, with sporadic sales up to 4.00 lower throughout the day. The run included some fancy cattle; the only problem was there were too many. When the supply doubles from one week to the next there are usually bound to be problems. This was the case on Thursday as nearly 900 head of steers were on offer, compared to 435 last week, which led to the supply outweighing the demand. The runs have been pretty light over the past week and a half, with prices for Prime steers as high as 89.00 last Thursday and up to 90.00 during the Monday and Tuesday runs of this week, and it was pretty obvious producers were chomping at the bit to get in on the high market as there was a line of trucks a half mile long waiting to unload early Thursday morning in New Holland. However, even with a lower market no one is hanging their heads too low as this time a year ago prices for high Choice and Prime steers were from mostly 68.00-72.00, with Choice steers bringing from 67.00-69.00. Holstein steers sold 1.00-2.00 lower, with not enough slaughter heifers early in the week to test the late week run. Due to the late start, slaughter cows were not fully tested early. However, opening sales of all classes were weak to 2.00 lower. Slaughter bulls sold with a lower undertone. The supply included 882 head of slaughter steers, 567 cows, 111 heifers, 74 bulls, with 206 head of feeder cattle.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1120-1480 lbs 82.00-87.00, mostly 83.00-86.00 with three singles from 88.00-88.25, late in the sale mostly 80.00-84.75. Choice 2-3 1055-1480 lbs 79.00-83.25, mostly 80.00-83.00, Charolais-crosses 80.00-85.00, few heavyweights 1495-1545 lbs 78.75-80.00. Choice 4 few full 1110-1335 lbs 77.00-80.00. National Broiler Market At A Glance
Atlanta, Ga.
Report Supplied By USDA

Trade sentiment was firm in the West, at least steady in the East, and steady with some caution in the Midwest. Retail demand was moderate at best with few features, and food service was fair to good with strongest interest into fast food. Continuous rain and cooler temperatures in the Northeast and Midwest restricted buying activity. In the East, heavier weight product was well cleared and smaller sizes were more available; however, in other locations, larger sizes were fully sufficient and lighter weights were in balance. In the parts structure, trading was fair. Breast items were at least adequate and frequently discounted to help clear. Wings were adequate to ample, but dark meat was balanced and moving. In production areas, live supplies were moderate. Weights were mostly desirable, but at times slightly heavier.

Young Turkey Parts And Bulk Meat

Des Moines, Iowa
June 3, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL YOUNG TURKEY PARTS AND BULK MEAT, Frozen, unless specified, cents per lb, delivered first receivers, part and full trucklots, as of June 3.

The trade sentiment of tom drums and tom full-cut wings was steady instances fully steady, necks steady. Demand was light to instances fair. Offerings of tom drums and full-cut wings ranged from light to adequate with supplies tightest in the East, tom necks adequate. Due to the price differential between wing meat and full-cut wings, some processors have switched from producing full-cut wings to making wing meat with skin resulting in better balanced full-cut wing inventories. The undertone on hen parts was mostly steady. Demand light for the adequate inventories. Some cautious optimism was noted on thigh meat with trading noted at mostly steady price levels. Trading centered on fair volumes of fresh 4-8 lb breasts for domestic shipments and tom full-cut wings for export, balance slow. For domestic: fresh hen drums 18, fresh wing meat 46 and Grade A non-basted 16-18 lb breasts 93 delivered. Tom necks traded at 19 cents delivered export.

PIT POWER

Farmers and composters - Here is a breakdown for compost and manure pits and manure piles! Pit Power is bacteria and bacteria feeders that break down solids in manure pits and septic tanks and breakdown compost faster.

Clean out your pit with ease, use Pit Power! One gallon of Pit Power per 10,000 to 20,000 gal of pit volume. Should be repeated approx. 2 times a year! If aeration of the pit is possible, it will help the bacteria to grow and work faster to break down solids. Pit Power's purpose is to add life (bacteria) in the manure, which then is returned to the soil where a bacteria is working. The smell of pit manure is not so strong. Pit Power is a non-toxic product - Life to Feed Life!

Price is $58.00 per gallon

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

THIS WEEK WITH

TRY A PAPAYA

Why a papaya? Because it's King Kamehameha I Day (June 11) in Hawaii, honoring the warrior king who unified the Hawaiian chain of islands early in the 19th century. Festivities in Hawaii run at least a week, from the lei-draping of the Kamehameha statue in Honolulu to various parades, surfboarding and windsurfing events, and music festivals. The Fourth of July also traditionally marks a great series of events, including the paniolo (Hawaiian cowboys) hosting their famous rodeos. The Makawao Rodeo, in the Maui town of Makawao, is just one of many, with riding, roping, country music, dancing, and Hawaiian-style rodeo clowns.

You can lead a horse to water, but you can't make him float.

The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If St. Vitus Day (June 15) be rainy weather, it will rain for thirty days together

TIP OF THE WEEK

PINEAPPLE SALAD

1 large pineapple
2 bananas
1 teaspoon lemon or orange juice
2 oranges and/or kiwis, peeled and sliced
1 cup sliced fresh strawberries
1/4 cup honey
1/2 cup orange juice

Cut pineapple in half, lengthwise, leaving the fronds intact. Carve out the pineapple pulp and discard the core, set shells aside. Chop the pineapple pulp, slice the bananas, and mix in the teaspoon of lemon or orange juice so that the banana doesn't brown. Put these in the pineapple "boats." Cover with sliced oranges and/or kiwis, and finally a layer of strawberries. Mix honey with the 1/2 cup orange juice, and pour this over the fruit. Chill well.

Makes 6 servings

OPINION

McMilk

Hoard's Dairyman recently reported that McDonald's Restaurants will offer more Happy Meals milk in Sacramento, Calif., home of a state that is simply overproducing milk.

Dairy promotional organizations are working to push milk in the fast-food chains and franchises. A release at this time last year from the "Got Milk?" Milk Mustache Campaign revealed that restaurant-goers want milk if it's promoted more in restaurants.

Interesting note: Did you know that a salesman named Raymond Albert Kroc started McDonald's Restaurants? Kroc became an exclusive distributor of a five-spindled milkshake maker called the "Multimixer." The first McDonald's opened in Des Plaines, Ill., in 1955 with the milkshake maker.

How about that! McDonald's has been selling dairy products since day one!

But why no flavored milk at McDonald's? They have a lowfat white milk item, according to their Website, in addition to several dairy freezer products.

We spoke with Ross Wladis, communications manager with McDonald's East Division out of Philadelphia, on Tuesday this week. Wladis noted there could be a chocolate milk option in the restaurants "potentially by the end of the year," he said — all depending on the evaluation process conducted at Oakbrook, Ill.

Right now, McDonald's customers can order 1 percent milk; milk shakes in chocolate, vanilla, and strawberry; and customers can even order a "Finding Nemo" (based on the Disney film) raspberry milkshake. Of course, there is always the cheese on the burgers, and they offer ice cream cones.

McDonald's offers a single-carton 1 percent white milk item on their menus. Some (not all, because they are franchise stores) include milk with their trademarked Kids Happy Meals.

But why not flavored milk, a hot item in many schools? Why not at least chocolate milk, a favorite of many, or vanilla and strawberry? With their market clout, surely McDonald's could push up demand for the product by offering a lot more variety than that, especially to children. After all, when you make an impression on children, results can be long lasting.

When we phoned, McDonald's marketing employees were undergoing extensive training at several meetings. Maybe they are working on these kinds of strategies. It will be fascinating to see what McDonald's (and other restaurants) intend to do in these interesting dairy times. After all, McDonald's claims to be the "world's leading food service retailer with more than 30,000 restaurants in 118 countries serving 46 million customers each day," according to their Website.

We suggest to them: offer flavored milk and boost demand! Boosting demand for wholesome milk is sure to improve these dismal at-the-farm prices.

Lancaster County Extension Director

To Evaluate Options For Late Corn Planting

The continuing wet weather has delayed the completion of corn planting for many Pennsylvania corn producers. With the prospects of mid-June or later planting for many fields this year, corn growers should think carefully about several management decisions. Dr. Greg Roth, extension corn specialist, shares the following thoughts.

In many areas it is appropriate to consider switching to a shorter season maturity hybrid. Full-season hybrids planted late will likely not mature and will result in a late harvest and lower test weight grain. Generally, by mid-June we need to be thinking about using hybrids that are about 10 days or more earlier than the full-season hybrids planted in that area.

For Lancaster County, where 115- to 120-day hybrids are adapted, you need to be considering 105- to 110-day hybrids. In central Pennsylvania, 95-day hybrids are more appropriate. For specific recommendations, consult your seed dealer or visit Penn State's Website at http://cornandsoybeans.psu.edu/GDDhybrids.html.

Conventional thinking is that slightly longer season hybrids can be planted for silage, but sometimes these can result in immature, low grain corn silages at harvest. This year, low quality corn silage is something we should try to avoid, given the lower quality hay crop forages that are being produced on many farms.

Although no one likes to plant in wetter-than-desired conditions, we have reached that point in the growing season where we need to make compromises and get the crop in the ground. Place a priority on planting and keep other preplant tillage and fertilizer applications to a minimum. Many growers like to no-till double-crop corn following hay, but this year some may want to reconsider this practice given the later potential planting dates and increased potential for soil compaction from harvesting hay crops under wet soil conditions. Consider tilling the soil or leaving the field in hay under these conditions.

As we progress toward late June and early July, think about switching to other crops. For grain, soybeans are the most popular option. For silage, consider sorghum-sudangrass, forage sorghum, or soybeans. These crops can produce reasonable silage yields with good quality and lower risk than corn, especially on soils with lower yield potentials.

On the bright side, it is still possible to produce good silage and grain yields with June-planted corn in many areas, provided we get adequate moisture and sunshine. We certainly have a good start in the moisture department.

To Understand The Crop Insurance Implications Of Late Planting

The significant delay in planting corn and soybean crops this year has implications for crop insurance coverage. Gene Gantz, risk management specialist with the USDA, points out that the crop insurance program has established normal planting deadlines of June 10 for corn and June 20 for soybeans. Insured producers who do not get their crops planted by these dates have two choices.

First, they can continue to plant for an additional 25 days, and the crop insurance protection will decline 1 percent each day after the normal deadline. A second alternative available is to apply for a prevented planting payment provided they do not plant a crop on the acreage this year (for other than conservation).

If you elect to continue planting after the normal deadline, keep a record by calendar date of the acreage planted on each farm. Otherwise coverage will be reduced on all acreage according to the last date that all planting was completed.

If you decide to apply for a prevented planting payment, contact your insurance agent immediately for complete details. Keep in mind that basic prevented planting coverage is 60 percent of the amount of protection on timely planted acreage. Also, be sure to report the prevented planting acreage for each farm on your acreage report, which must be filed with your insurance agent by July 15 (list the acreage separately for each intended crop that you were prevented from planting).

To Update Your West Nile Virus Vaccinations For Your Horses

West Nile Virus (WNV) got an early start again this year. An American crow collected on April 28 in Philadelphia tested positive for the virus. With the wet weather creating ideal conditions for mosquitoes, it is important to vaccinate your horses to protect them from this disease.

The vaccine manufacturer recommends that horses that were vaccinated in 2002 receive a spring booster, and suggests considering another booster just before peak transmission season, which is expected in September. According to Fort Dodge Laboratories, unvaccinated horses should be given two initial doses in early spring, followed by a booster just before peak season. The vaccine is available only through veterinarians.

The editorial, "What Will Slots Do To/For Pa?", in the May 31 edition of the Lancaster Farming contains some incorrect information, most importantly the assertion that "critics point out: What about the inevitable gambling debts and bankruptcy court that having slots will entail?

There is not a shred of evidence for this assertion; indeed, what evidence there is is exactly to the contrary! See, for example, Delaware's and West Virginia's experiences with slot machines at their race tracks. The incidence of gambling problems is well under one percent in both states.

Secondly, you entirely overlook the fact that this state has promoted its lottery system for

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE GREAT SHOUT

Background Scripture:
Ezra 3 through 4.
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 100:1-5.

Although we speak of The Return of the Jews from their Babylonian Exile, there appear to be actually four different returns to Jerusalem.

The first of these was under the decree of Cyrus the Great in approximately 538 BC under the leadership of Sheshbazzar, who commenced the rebuilding of the temple, but was eventually forced to halt it because of opposition from various local peoples.

The second return was some years later during the reign of Darius I (521-485 BC) under the leadership of Zerubbabel and Jeshua. Encouraged by the prophets Haggai and Zechariah, they completed the temple despite local opposition.

A third return during the reign of Artaxerxes I (464-423), under the leadership of Nehemiah, is responsible for the rebuilding of the walls of Jerusalem.

During the reign of Artaxerxes II (404-358), the fourth return was under the leadership of Ezra.

The First Step

Chapters 3 and 4 of the Book of Ezra are set during the second return under the leadership of Jeshua and Zerubbabel. Their first step is to build an altar where they can worship God and offer sacrifices. The reason that they do this first is so that they may seek God's help in protecting them from the hostility of the various peoples who live in the area.

The locals are not pleased with the return of the Jews to Jerusalem. So the returned Jews begin their traditional worship with burnt offerings morning and evening, the feast of the booths, "the offerings at the new moon and at all the appointed feasts of the Lord," including the freewill offerings.

Having begun once again the traditional worship of God, they hire builders and artisans to lay the foundations of the new temple to arise on the same location as the destroyed temple of Solomon. At last, the returned exiles gather at the temple site to celebrate the laying of the foundations. In this celebration, however, we note two distinct reactions: "And all the people shouted with a great shout, when they praised the Lord, because the foundation of the house of the Lord was laid. But many of the priests and Levites and heads of fathers' houses, old men who had seen the first house, wept with a loud voice . . . though many shouted for joy. . . ." (3:11,12).

The younger exiles celebrated the beginning of the new temple, while the older generation mourned the destruction of the old temple. There were present that day some who could remember the temple that had been destroyed 66 years ago.

The Old And New

Religious life is always an uneasy combination of both the old and new. It is well and necessary to retain one's spiritual heritage, but it is also imperative to respond to the realities of the present and the challenges of the future.

When I went to my first full-time parish, it was a rural community that was fast becoming suburban. Within a few weeks, I was told "This is a small family church and we aim to keep it that way." There were others who were equally committed to what this church should become. The challenge was for this congregation to retain its heritage and meet the changes of the present and future. Today, more than three decades later, it seems they have done just that.

Like the returned exiles, Christians are constantly rebuilding on the foundations of our heritage. The style of our worship and congregational life are constantly changing as culture changes. Many congregations hold worship services in both traditional and contemporary styles. In any congregation there are those who remember fondly the way things used to be and those who think mainly in terms of how things should be today. We need both. As Christians, we can never live wholly in the past, the present, or the future.

The author of Ezra tells us: "the people could not distinguish the sound of the joyful shout from the sound of the people's weeping, for the people shouted with a great shout, and the sound was heard afar." (3:13). That is the way heritage and future must blend in every congregation — one great shout!

"We would use slats again if doing it all over!"

Harold Keeney; David, Nancy & Mark Wolfskill

Our original plan was to install scrapers. But after 10 minutes in a slatted barn in Somerset County, we changed our minds. Some people stay away from slats because of the initial cost, but that extra cost is made up for in the first couple years.

The one thing I like the most about slats is that there is no expense. I don't have any scrapers or drive units to maintain. I don't have to run scrapers every day or haul manure like we did in our previous tie stall barn. The cows' foot health has been a lot better, and the cows stay much cleaner. Our milk production is up and the somatic cell count has gone down. I give at least some of the credit to the slats because with less moisture on the floor, there is less bacteria.

-David Wolfskill

"The answer to the most common question is 'No, there is no build-up.' "

Daily National Grain Market Summary

St. Joseph, MO
June 4, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

Wheat and corn bids were weaker again today as fund selling continued.

Soybean bids rebounded after Tuesday's declines. Technical buying along with light profit taking offered support. Wheat 3 to 6 cents lower. Corn 1 to 2 cents lower. Sorghum 5 cents lower. Soybeans 5 to 9 cents higher.

Winter wheat harvest has made some progress, despite the moist conditions reported in the Southern Plains area. A lack of fresh export orders so far this week is also keeping a lid on bids. Cash corn trade continued to weaken due to technical selling on the Boards and good growing weather. Wet weather is still in idwest forecasts but the crop is nearly all planted. Export sales were light overnight and have been slow this week.

Sharp gains were seen in soybean pits after technical buying and light Profit taking was noted this morning. Delayed planting continued to offer strength to beans. Soybean bids have made some sharp drops over the past few days and much of the support is due to the technical corrections.

Corn Belt Feedstuff

St. Joseph, Mo.
Report Supplied By USDA

CORN BELT FEEDSTUFF: Feedstuff prices were mixed again this week. Normal seasonal trends such as decreased demand from the livestock sector and increasing supplies affect many feedstuff ingredients. Weather related factors spill over from the grains and hay cutting has begun in many areas offering increased supplies of hay related products.

SOYBEAN MEAL: 48 percent rail was 9.50 to 8.50 lower at 186.50-188.50. 48 percent truck was 9.50 to 7.50 lower from 186.50-198.50 per ton.

CORN BY-PRODUCTS: Gluten Feed 21 percent, Interior Points was 2.00 higher to steady from 62.00-65.00; Chicago was 1.00 higher to steady from 66.00-68.00. 60 percent Gluten Meal, Interior Points was 2.00 lower to steady from 228.00-240.00; Chicago 2.00 lower to steady from 228.00-245.00 per ton. Rail Hominy Feed, Central Illinois Points was 1.00 lower to 1.00 higher from 70.00-75.00; truck 2.00 lower to steady from 72.00-82.00. Crude Corn Oil was 0.25 higher from 29.25-30.25 cents per pound.

MILLFEEDS: Northwest was 2.00 to 7.00 higher from 52.00-62.00; Buffalo 2.00-3.00 lower from 58.00-61.00 per ton.

ALFALFA PELLETS: Toledo, Ohio 17 percent dehydrated was 7.00 lower to steady from 148.00-171.00; meal 7.00 lower to steady from 151.50-174.50. 15 percent pellets were 7.00 lower to steady from 145.50-164.00 per ton; meal was 7.00 lower to steady from 149.00-167.50.

DISTILLER'S DRIED GRAINS: Central Illinois was 1.00 higher to 1.00 lower from 81.00-87.00; Chicago 2.00 to 1.00 lower from 83.00-91.00; Lawrenceburg, Il, 5.00 lower at 81.00; Kansas was steady at 100.00; Nebraska 8.00 lower at 85.00; Minnesota was steady to 3.00 lower at 85.00 per ton.

East Fluid Milk And Cream Review

Madison, Wis.
June 3, 2003
Report Supplied by USDA

Spot prices of class II cream, dollars per lb. butterfat: F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: 1.3876-1.4978. Delivered Equivalent: Atlanta: 1.3987-1.5088 mostly 1.4097-1.4537.

PRICES OF CONDENSED SKIM, dollars per lb. wet solids, F.O.B. producing plants: Northeast: Class II, includes monthly formula prices: .8500-.9300; Class III - spot prices - .7400-.8200.

SPOT SHIPMENTS OF GRADE A MILK: FLORIDA: This Week: In 0, Out 188; Last Week: In 0, Out 188; Last Year: In 0, Out 231. SOUTHEAST STATES: This week: In 0, Out 0; last week: In 0, Out 0; last year: In 0, Out 0.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to recent changes in milk supply agreements, milk import/export totals are not directly comparable to year ago figures and to shipments prior to April 1, 2003.

The base price for Class I milk for June 2003 is $9.74 per cwt., up $0.03 from May. A Class I differential specific to each pricing point (county) is added to the base price to determine the applicable Class I price. The Class II skim milk price for March is $6.62, up $0.01 from May.

The following are the May 2003 Class and component prices under the Federal Milk. Order pricing system: Class II $10.43 (down $0.01 from April), Class III $9.71 (up $0.30); and Class IV $9.74 (down $0.01). The following are the product price averages used in computing Class prices: butter $1.0743, NDM $0.8040, cheese $1.1394, and dry whey $0.1450. The Class II butterfat price is $1.1582 and the Class III/IV butterfat price is $1.1512.

Milk production continues to move higher in many areas of the East. Louisiana output is easing lower, but continued cool weather (particularly nighttime) in Florida and other Southern states is helping keep the milk flow at current levels. The flush may have been reached in the Middle Atlantic and New England, but the rainy, cool weather is helping keep milk output steady. Some pastures are too wet for use and fields are too wet for alfalfa cutting/chopping. In those areas where cows are "on grass," milk output is still moving slightly higher. Contacts reports that fat and protein tests are easing lower. This may be due to the high seasonal milk output or changes to feeding programs. The high costs of feed and low milk prices have some farmers easing back on rations.

Fluid milk volumes remain ample for overall needs, but surplus volumes are not as heavy as they have been. Bottled milk sales are reported as flat. Schools in the Northeast are still in session. The last of South-Florida schools that were in session have now closed. This did push more milk into manufacturing channels and shipments out of state did increase this week. Surplus milk diversions are steady in the Northeast and handled without to many difficulties.

The condensed skim market is mostly steady, but some producers would like to see improved demand to keep from drying as much as they are. Spot prices are unchanged.

The fluid cream market is firmer this week. Contacts report increased inquiries for cream. It may be a matter of many suppliers looking to fill one order, but producers and traders, alike, have commented on the tighter supply and higher multiples. Spot prices are higher as both the multiples and CME averages increased.

Ice cream production continues to lag expectations for this time of year. The dismal weather up and down the East Coast has hurt consumption of soft serve ice cream and sales at hand-dip stores. Bottled cream production is improving as berries come into season. Cream cheese output is about steady, but fewer spot loads of cream moved to this outlet this week. Churning activity is lighter, but still moderate on weekends.

SUPPLY CONTROL

The National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) is formulating a voluntary supply control program. The objective appears to be to artificially restrict the milk supply and thereby enhance milk prices.

At first glance, it sounds like a good plan. It will be viewed in Washington circles as a self-help program that won't cost the U.S. Treasury a dime. And dairy producers, who have been facing low milk prices since nine-eleven, will be glad that something, anything, is being done.

NMPF's plan involves setting up a new cooperative that would be funded by assessments on NMPF cooperative members. The assessment initially is rumored to be 18 cents per hundredweight for 12 months.

The plan, however, raises a number of tough questions. First, will it work? If it is voluntary, one can see that some producers will opt out of the program, leaving the cost to others and reducing the overall effectiveness of the program. There is a huge economic incentive to being a "free rider." A large dairy farm with 10,000 cows could save $360,000 in 12 months by saying "I don't want to participate." Second, is it fair to "tax" producers who did not expand milk production for the sins of their neighbors? Finally, wouldn't such a program, if effective, simply result in a new wave of large-scale expansions out West?

There have been many proposals for solving this crisis of low milk prices. None of them, however, will fundamentally address the problem that currently faces the U.S. dairy industry. There does not appear to be solid recognition for the fact that we are no longer in the bullish '90s, and greater moderation in dairy expansions would be prudent. Cow numbers continue to climb from year-ago levels, and new cheese plants are opening their doors requesting even greater volumes of milk. But where will this milk and cheese be sold? At least for now, some is going to the U.S. government.

NMPF's plan involves reducing the milk supply via bred cow purchases and 12-month supply reduction contracts. In addition, funds would be used to dump surplus cheese and butter in already depressed international markets. That should make things very interesting as we negotiate a free trade agreement with our close ally, Australia.

One cannot escape the irony in Most lots of 40-60 weight pigs have a sliding value from the negotiated weight basis which is calculated on the actual average weight of the load plus or minus 30-.40 per pound Some early weaned lots have a slide of 50-1 00 per pound. Early weaned pigs are under 19 days old. Estimated lean value is projected to use slaughter weights with normal confinement feeding conditions. Vaccination and health program values are not included but health status should be disclosed.

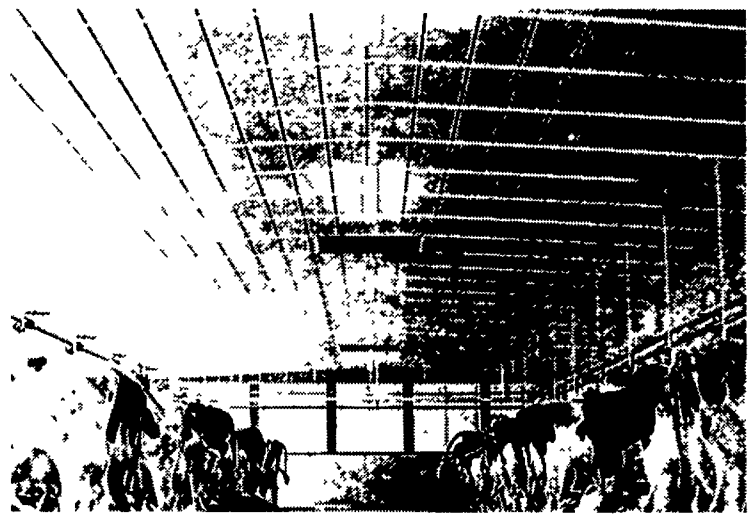
– Ceiling systems designed for your dairy, swine, and poultry facilities, as well – as shops, warehouses, garages, arenas, and more.

Tired of working in a cold, noisy shop?

These ceiling systems are designed to hold any amount of insulation, and with insulation above, produce sound reduction qualities much greater than steel.

Is the banding in your hog or poultry barn deteriorating?

Let us replace them with our heavier polyester bands which do not stretch or become brittle over time.



Are you frustrated with the birds in your implement shed?

Get the problem under control with a triply ceiling, as well as greatly improving the lighting.

Contemplating a drop ceiling?

Demand a triply ceiling above your drop ceiling if there is insulation being installed. This will serve as a vapor barrier along with permanently preventing falling insulation.

Providing the Ag industry with a very durable, attractive, waterproof, noncorrosive, alternative to conventional ceilings at a fraction of the cost.

Slaughter Cattle Weekly Review

Oklahoma City, Okla.
May 30, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL SLAUGHTER CATTLE SUMMARY - Week Ending May 30: Slaughter cattle 1.00-2.00 higher. Dressed sales 3.00 higher. Demand very good this holiday shortened week with very good clearance in all feeding areas. Packers struggled for numbers after last week's short buy from feedlots. Cattle still being picked early and so the choice/select spread remains large. Industry as a whole having a difficult time staying ahead of the extremely good consumer demand for beef despite record prices on the retail level. Feedlots have stayed ahead of their marketing schedules and as long as the demand holds up the summer fed markets should hold its own as well. Boxed beef prices Friday continue to inch higher and opening at an average of 140.95 up 6.29 from last Friday. Sales of slaughter cattle on a national basis for negotiated cash trades were large at 327,600 through 10:00 a.m. Friday. Last week's full count was minimal at 135,642.

STEERS AND HEIFERS: MIDWEST DIRECT MARKETS: Live Basis: 35-80 percent Choice, 900-1400 lbs 78.00-81.00, wted avg 79.94. Dressed Basis: 35-80 percent Choice, 550-950 lbs. 126.00-129.00, wted avg 127.78. HIGH PLAINS DIRECT MARKETS: Live Basis: 35-65 percent Choice, 900-1400 lbs 78.50-81.50, wted avg 80.00.

SLAUGHTER COWS AND BULLS (Average Yielding): Slaughter cows 1.00-3.00 higher. Slaughter bulls 1.00-4.00 higher. Packer demand extremely good this holiday shortened week. USDA's Cutter cow carcass cutout value closed Thursday at 99.21 up 4.24 from last Friday.

COWS: Breakers 75-80% lean 1000-1600 lbs: Colorado 43.50-46.50; Oklahoma 41.00-44.50; Alabama 42.50-45.50. Boners 80-85% lean 900-1500 lbs: Colorado 43.50-46.50; Oklahoma 40.00-43.50; Alabama 43.50-46.50. Lean 85-90% lean 850-1400 lbs: Colorado 38.50-42.00; Oklahoma 38.00-41.50; Alabama 38.00-41.00.

BULLS: 88-92% lean 1500-2200 lbs: Colorado 53.00-57.00; Oklahoma 50.50-53.50; Alabama 54.00-59.00.

Oklahoma Feeder Cattle Weekly

Oklahoma City, OK
Report Supplied By USDA

OKLAHOMA NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Weekly Cattle Summary — Compared to last major test two weeks ago: Feeder steers and heifers 4.00-6.00 higher. Stockers and calves 1.00-3.00 higher. Demand excellent for the large run. Very current feedlot conditions, strong profits throughout the wholesale cattle and beef complex, and a positive start to the corn crop are all fueling the strong demand for feeder cattle. Flesh conditions of feeders a major plus for buyers as wheat bloom is all but gone and premium grass flesh more common. Quality average with improved flesh conditions. Feeder cattle in slightly thin to moderate flesh conditions and improved for buyers. Weigh-ups average.

Compared to last week: Slaughter cows and bulls weak to 2.00 lower. Packer demand still good but off some from robust demand of last week. Demand for replacements moderate. Large string of 900 cows from one ranch sold and these stimulated interest. Cows were good quality black and black white face stock cows but in poor flesh condition. Body condition score averaging 4 or Cutter-low Cutter condition. Total of 1215 cows and bulls sold with 35 percent to packers.

Receipts this week 20,923; last week 2,465; last year 16,648. Supply consisted of 82% yearlings over 600 lbs; 12% calves; 6% cows and bulls. Heifers comprised 45% of feeder and calf supply.

Prices follow with weighted average weight and price in parenthesis.

National Feeder Cattle Weekly Review

St. Joseph, Mo.
Friday, May 30, 2003
Report Supplied By USDA

NATIONAL FEEDER & STOCKER CATTLE SUMMARY - Week Ending May 30 — Total Receipts: 277,100, last week 289,100; last year 204,600. Direct: 83,300, last week 55,000, last year 54,100. Video/Internet: 31,300, last week 22,700, last year none. Auctions: 162,500, last week 211,400, last year 150,500. This week's reported auction volume included 44 percent over 600 lbs and 46 percent heifers.

Compared to last week, feeder cattle auction receipts were light as most Monday sales were closed for Memorial Day. However, mid to late-week auctions saw active trading and prices that ranged from firm to 5.00 higher as buyers struggled for numbers on this holiday week. Southeastern calf markets trended steady to 3.00 higher and direct sales in the Plains states were called steady to 1.00 higher. There was a noticeable increase in early-fall contracting, especially in Kansas, but this is expected to taper off until later this summer as buyers are reluctant at current levels and sellers have dollar signs for eyes.

All classes of cattle and beef products are at or near record price levels as demand outweighs supply. Americans evidently scarfed down plenty of hamburgers and steaks over the Memorial Day Weekend, despite rainy weather along the Eastern Seaboard. Boxed beef cut-out values continue to post all-time highs with heavy Choice carcasses ending the week at 149.99, which compares to 117.32 last year. Also this week, major packers purchased a whopping 341,000 head through Friday morning from 80.00-81.00 live and mostly 128.00 in the beef. Feeder markets continue to follow suit as several salebarns in the Northern Plains quoted 7 weight steers up to 90.00, not to mention a string in Kearney, Nebraska with a favorable weigh-up that brought 92.35. The only foreseeable bump in the road to these record quotes is the lifting of the ban on Canadian cattle and beef imports. Officials are already talking about opening the border to veal and certain muscle cuts from younger cattle. Hopefully the media will be as kind to the industry when importing resumes as they were when the positive case of BSE was confirmed. Cattle producers along the northern tier of the United States are in no hurry to open the border, as they have been cashing-in on slaughter cow prices in the high 50s.

Lancaster County Pennsylvania reported high Choice and Prime steers as high as 89.00 and locals are looking into converting armored cars into cattle trucks.

Vale Wood Farm Builds On Generations Of Customer Service

Dairy Offers Milk Delivery Route, Wide Product Line

LORETTO (Cambria Co.) — When they made their way from Switzerland to America in 1816, John and Joseph Itel had no idea the land they would nurture in their life time would nurture generations of Itels.

Shortly after the newly arrived immigrants set foot on American soil, they learned of a small town in western Pennsylvania and made their way toward Loretto, a place they believed they would call home.

The original land was acquired through a land grant that at the time was intended to lure settlers into this part of Pennsylvania. Now almost two centuries later, the original five acres has grown into nearly 500 acres with the original plot at the heart of the farm.

Over the years, the family became known as Itle, a slight variation on the original Itel name.

This family of farmers has toughed out many trying times in America's history including the Great Depression and the Civil War. John's son Francis, a Civil War veteran, in time found himself at the helm of the family business.

Francis, a second generation American Itle, eventually passed the farm onto his son Charles. Charles increased the acreage and began to sell milk to residents in the nearby town of Cresson. In 1933, he named the business Vale Wood Farms describing the farm's location "in the valley by the woods."

Today, Vale Wood Farms employs 30 full-time and 15 part-time employees. The cattle count has grown to 200 milking head of registered Holstein dairy cows.

With the processing plant in eye shot of the grazing dairy herd, the Itle family provides residents, restaurants, and schools with a dairy product they boasts comes straight from the cow and to consumer, right off their farm.

Bill Itle has been president of the company since 1985. The company is owned by Bill, his six brothers, and one sister. Preceding the current generation, their father Russell and Uncle Gerald had a family partnership.

"We have 30 full-time employees," Bill said. "And of those thirty, ten are family members."

Bill said he is the third generation of Itles who have been in the dairy business.

The land has been farmed under six generations of Itles.

Bill said the original land grant enticed his forefathers into making Loretto their home.

"That is how they got people to settle up on this mountain," he said. Close to 200 years later, the Itle family farm continues to thrive.

When asked why that is, Bill attributes it to the diversity of his workers.

"It is the fact we have the ability to help out in different areas," he said. "We don't specifically have to train new people in different areas. We

Topping Off A Rainy Day

Despite Soggy Weather, Ice Cream Still A Hot Commodity At Capitol

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Since 1986, visitors to the steps of Harrisburg's capitol building have gotten a sweet treat to open every June — free ice cream and toppings.

Again this year, to kick off June Dairy Month, dairy princesses and dairy promotion staff constructed a sundae with 90 gallons of Turkey Hill Dairy vanilla ice cream Tuesday afternoon.

Toppings included six gallons of chocolate fudge, six gallons of strawberries, and 30 pounds of chopped nuts. The sundae was topped with real whipped cream and a 12-inch ball of cherries.

Dennis Wolff, Pennsylvania secretary of agriculture; Raechel Kilgore, Pennsylvania dairy princess; and Logan Bower, Perry County dairy farmer, gave opening remarks.

"By celebrating June Dairy Month, we are giving Pennsylvanians the opportunity to thank the commonwealth's nearly 9,300 dairy farmers who work diligently year-round to provide consumers with a fresh supply of milk and quality dairy products," said Bower.

Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association, American Dairy Association, and Dairy Council Mid-East, along with the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, sponsored the event.

Dairy promotion staff and dairy princesses worked quickly to serve visitors.

Bower operates Pleasant View Farms, a 500-head Holstein dairy farm in Blain.

Coming to the event for the first time afforded Logan with the chance "to see what this is all about, plus an opportunity to promote our product. This is a good chance to keep in touch with the public," he said.

Twelve dairy princesses and alternates and one Li'l Dairy Miss came to help dish out the ice cream that was quickly scooped up by passers-by.

Although 90 gallons of the frozen dessert was snapped up, Pennsylvania's 599,000 cows will quickly fill the void. The commonwealth's dairy animals produce 10.8 billion pounds of milk each year. Some of this milk goes into the production of 53 gallons of regular ice cream produced in Pennsylvania each year.

Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Raechel Kilgore takes a minute to enjoy a generous bowl of ice cream.

FARMING On The Edge

By George DeVault

Silver Linings In Dark Clouds They Can Put A Lot Of Gold In Your Pocket

Editor's note: This issue marks the premier of this new column by farm writer George DeVault. "Farming On The Edge" reflects the challenges farmers have working in a suburban, even urban, environment. It also reflects on alternative types of agriculture that farmers can adopt to improve the bottom line.

Here comes the neighborhood, there goes the farm. It's happening here in Lehigh County, throughout Pennsylvania and the entire Mid-Atlantic region.

House farms are replacing working farms. Swarms of little kids now scamper through your fields, making muddy tracks to their stylish subdivisions.

But that doesn't mean the end of agriculture is near. Just the oppposite is true. More and more farmers throughout the country are discovering that these changes are really the beginning of a new, much more profitable way to farm.

That's because instead of regarding newcomers as just another "pest," sharp marketers are starting to think of our sprawling suburbs for what they really are — a rich source of potential customers. A captive audience! A guaranteed market!

Think about it. Those little kids can bring their moms and dads to your farm to buy all of the great things you have to offer.

And we farmers have lots to offer! "Not right now!" you say? Well, maybe not today, but that can quickly change. And that's what this column is all about, not just how to survive in a seemingly

Switch to Ayrshires, Grazing Profitable For Hoppaugh Family

CAROLYN MOYER
Bradford Co. Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD TOWNSHIP (Bradford Co.) - Ray and Joann Hoppaugh farm with their son Danny. They couldn't be more certain of the future of Pennsylvania's dairy industry, especially on their 236-acre dairy in the rolling hills of Bradford County.

Since they began farming in 1964, the Hoppaughs have had to roll with the changing times. They relocated to Bradford County from New Jersey after the farm they were renting there was no longer available. Since then, they have been willing to make adjustments as needed in order to remain profitable in the dairy business.

"We knew we couldn't stay in New Jersey forever, so we were actively looking for farms in this area for eight years. We always liked this area. In 1972, we bought this farm," said Ray.

The Hoppaughs have been well-known breeders of registered Holsteins, proud of their high milk production averages, high breed age average (BAA), and Progressive Breeder awards. For many years, they ran a conventional farm, growing corn and hay and feeding the cows in the barn.

Eleven years ago, their philosophy of farming took a turn, they say, for the better — although they admit they have learned a lot along the way.

"As time evolved, we had all registered Holsteins, had a good herd average well into the 20,000 pounds and had a high BAA and all that kind of stuff, but we figured there had to be a better way. There just wasn't a lot of return on the money and it was very labor intensive. We just decided we needed to do something better and more efficient," said Ray.

The view from the top of one of the farm's hayfields almost gives an aerial picture. The Hoppaughs own 236 acres in Northern Bradford County and rent another 150 acres of ground.

Grazing turned out to be the answer that the Hoppaughs were searching for.

The family was not a stranger to the concept of rotational grazing. As a college student at Cobleskill, N.Y., Danny had seen the benefits of grazing first-hand. And as part of his training as a consultant with Pennfield Feeds, Ray had attended many meetings where grazing was the topic.

"I remember sitting at meetings and people would bring up this grazing thing and I thought, 'how stupid could people be?' Here I had a herd average of 24-plus thousand pounds of milk. Why would I want to decrease it?" said Ray. "And two years later I was doing (grazing) and liking it."

Once the decision to graze was made, the Hoppaughs jumped in with both feet.

"With grazing, you have to be committed. You can't do it half," Ray said.

"The old impression was that grazing was for poor people. The old-timers used to have a night pasture and a day pasture and they would put the cows out on the side hills where you couldn't plow. We started using cropland for grazing and people thought we were nuts. They would ask what we were going to feed in the winter." Winter feed proved not to be an issue, even with last year's drought.

"We've got so much feed left over that it's unreal," said Ray.

Part of their switch to grazing included relying more on custom workers to harvest corn silage and haylage.

"We fenced about 95 acres of cropland," said Ray. "We have about 236 acres here and we rent another 150 acres. We do about 30 acres of corn silage for rotation reasons and because I don't have a manure storage and I need a place to put manure. Some day, that will probably go away because we forward contract for corn silage."

Custom workers are hired to harvest the haylage. The Hoppaughs mow and rake the grass and provide a tractor and the blower, and the custom operators do the rest.

"We try to specialize mostly in haying equipment. We do round bales and baleage and do that while we're waiting for the chopper to come. Then, we clean off as many acres as we can," said

Milky Way Farm: 40-Plus Years Of Direct Marketing

BRIAN SNYDER
Centre Co. Correspondent

TROY (Bradford Co.) — The Fourth of July was hot last year, so a four-hour round trip in an air conditioned vehicle seemed like a good idea.

"And there'll be ice cream at the farm when we get there," I told the kids to coax them into submission (they thought a swimming pool was a better idea). Dad prevailed this time, and we set out down the road to Milky Way Farm near Troy, Bradford County.

When Kim Seeley Of Milky Way first announced that three generations of Seeleys were planning to celebrate 40 years in the direct-marketing dairy business on July 4, he also expressed concern that the turnout would be low, given people's holiday plans.

"But we opened on the Fourth of July in 1962, and we're going to celebrate on the Fourth just the same," he said.

That kind of firm resolve has always figured into the Seeley family business plan. An interview with Milky Way founder and Kim's father Lewis Seeley indicated just how determined this unusual family has been through the years.

"Forty years ago I was president of the local chapter of a large milk co-op," Lewis said. "I could see the writing on the wall — the co-op's pricing structure was not going to put our four kids through college."

So Lewis and his wife Marie took matters into their own hands, and actually put their fate (or faith) in the hands of their neighbors and friends who they thought would buy fresh, local milk. They built it, and they came.

In those early days, the Seeleys at times sold 300 to 400 gallons per day at a price that made sense. And yes, all four of the Seeley children graduated from college (Penn State), paid for in full by the family business.

Lewis worries that their accomplishment of staying in business for four decades might look too easy to the casual observer.

However, "the situation was never very rosy," he said. "There were problems right from the start."

The word most used by Mr. Seeley throughout the interview was "stress." He spoke of long hours, keeping the shop open initially until 11 p.m. every day except Christmas. Keeping good help, he said, has always been a worry (and a salvation).

"You can't play any golf" in this profession, he said.

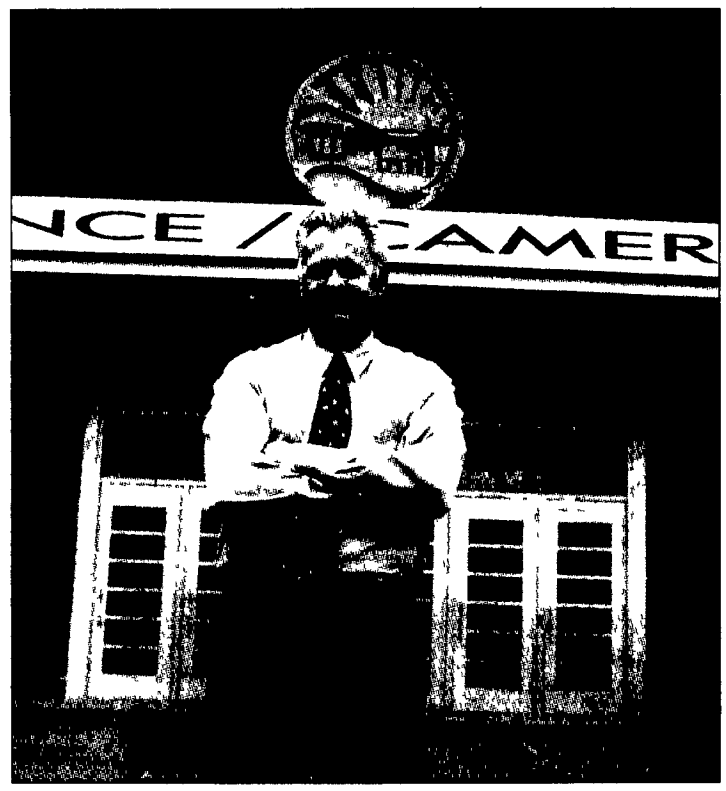
And if keeping the ship running steady were not hard

(Turn to Page A33)

Headed for an intensive grazing program on Milky Way Farm, this spring crop of calves displays its genetic diversity.

Penn State ag student Shon Seeley tends to twin belted heifers born on the 4th of July, just in time for the Milky Way Farm 40th anniversary celebration.

Neilsen Named Farm Show Director



HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Ed Nielsen has been named the new Pennsylvania Farm Show director. Nielsen has 20 years of strategic planning experience with various organizations and aims to bring a "world-class marketing plan" to the Farm Show Complex. More on Nielsen is scheduled for next week's Lancaster Farming. Photo by Dave Lefever

We at Fisher & Thompson Inc. salute dairymen across the nation who are committed to producing "MILK," nature's most nearly perfect food, that fills so many essential nutritional requirements in the daily diet.

During this "June is Dairy Month," we congratulate the Dale & Paul Hess Jr. families of Drumore, Pa. and give them our best wishes on the completion of their new Double 8 Rapid Exit Milking Center, featuring Westfalia/Surge Omni-Analyst detachers. These two brothers' farming operation is nestled in the river hills of southern Lancaster County. Lancaster Farm Bureau Bucks CWT Proposals

PARADISE (Lancaster Co.) — On June 3, the board of directors of the Lancaster County Farm Bureau (LCFB) voted, without dissent, to abstain from support for the program called Cooperatives Working Together (CWT) as proposed by the National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) headquartered in Arlington, Va. The LCFB is taking a position different from a recent 14-to-2 vote of the statewide Pennsylvania Farm Bureau board to support CWT.

"Trying to raise prices by limiting supply in an open marketplace is foolish, ineffective, and counterproductive, especially as we look at the long run," said Don Ranck, board vice president and policy development chair. Ranck owns a small dairy and large farm bed and breakfast in Paradise.

"The CWT proposal is an attempt to create an illusion of unity in trying to raise low farmgate milk prices, when in reality it has the potential to be the most corrupt and divisive in the history of the organized dairy industry in the U.S.," he warned.

"The CWT program is not an idea that was tried in the debate of policy development among elected Farm Bureau members, nor through elected cooperative delegate review. It was hastily contrived in a back room somewhere, and is now being foisted onto Farm Bureau members and cooperative members in a top-down approach, very much counter to the mission statements of Farm Bureau and of most cooperatives, so the serious flaws in it were never worked out," said Ranck.

Others see serious problems. "It is more advantageous to invest in advertising and product promotion than to try to limit supply," said Al Wanner, LCFB board member and owner of a 400-cow dairy near Narvon. Wanner prefers to see substantive changes to the current CWT program, rather than have no program to enhance farmgate milk prices. "But we also do not see the USDA using the Dairy Export Incentive Program to its maximum allowable level, nor adequate administration of the new Milk Income Loss Contract program," Wanner noted.

Steve Hershey, Elizabethtown, LCFB board president and owner of family-operated herds of more than 250 cows, noted that dairy farmers who use the tools of contracting, forward pricing, or hedging will be big losers if a program like CWT goes through.

"My family would stand to lose up to $800 per month in the next year if the CWT program is implemented," said Hershey. "Why would we support a program that works against the tools of marketplace economics that we already have?"

The NMPF board is scheduled to meet in late June to decide whether the CWT program has the support of producers of at least 80 percent of all milk production in the U.S. Chairman of the NMPF board James P. (Tom) Camerlo, owner of a 500-cow dairy near Florence, Colo., also recently elected chairman of the board of Dairy Farmers of America, by far the largest cooperative in the U.S., is making the assumption that 80 percent is needed to implement the program, according to Gordon Hoover, NMPF board member and owner of a 110-cow herd in Narvon, neighbor to Wanner.

"Hoover is on the road promoting the program, trying to drum up support, even though there are serious misgivings about the basic premises on which it is built," said Ranck. "Hoover is also secretary of the corporate board of Land O'Lakes Cooperative, so it appears to some that both he and Camerlo have conflicts of interest."

Ranck and Hoover are both former presidents of the board of LCFB, and both hold elected leadership positions in the Land O'Lakes Cooperative, which has offices in Carlisle and in Minneapolis, Minn. "We agree on the vast majority of solutions to problems, but on this issue we are diametrically opposite," said Ranck.

There are others who are outlining clear problems with the CWT concept. Ken Bailey, Penn State dairy economist (see his column on page A16), posted to his Website at http://dairyoutlook.aers.psu.edu a balanced article showing why CWT looks attractive at initial glance, but he delivers a stinging criticism of the concept on which it is based. "At first glance, it sounds like a good plan," said Bailey.

"It will be viewed in Washington circles as a self-help program that won't cost the U.S. Treasury a dime," he notes. "And dairy producers who have been facing low milk prices since nine-eleven will be glad that something, anything, is being done.

"But we can't have our cheese and eat it, too," he continued. We must choose between government price supports and supply management or marketplace economics, we can't have it both ways, he concluded.

12 Ways To Boost Dairy Income — This Year

George DeVault
Special To Lancaster Farming

By becoming a more aggressive, direct marketer, there is almost no end to the ways you can increase income from a dairy farm. Here are just 12 ideas:

1. Get a raw milk license and start selling milk directly.
2. Bag up manure and sell it for garden fertilizer.
3. Solicit school tours of your farm.
4. If you have a stocked pond, open it for fee fishing. In winter, rent it out for ice skating parties.
5. Plant a pumpkin patch on a few conveniently located acres this month. Come fall, you can make money on pick-your-own pumpkins.
6. Offer hayrides, especially haunted hayrides in October. This will compliment your pumpkin patch and provide a market for bundles of corn stalks and other seasonal decorations.
7. Sell straw or spoiled hay for garden mulch.
8. Sell firewood.
9. Sell large rocks, even boulders to landscapers.
10. Offer freezer beef, pork, or other meat products.
11. Add value to your milk by turning it into yogurt, cheese, cream, or ice cream.
12. Get certified as an organic dairy to boost the value of what you produce.

But how do you reach customers to do any of this?

A good place to start is by participating in the open gate farm tour that most county extension offices sponsor each year. It will bring hundreds, maybe even thousands of customers out to your farm — for free.

You can also get free publicity by getting the local newspaper or TV station to do a feature story on the changes you're making. Reporters are always looking for a good — good news — story about farmers.

It's easier than you might think. I'll have much more about that in future columns.

Bills stacking up?

It's been a rough year for the dairy industry and you probably have more bills than you want to think about. MidAtlantic Farm Credit wants to give you a different kind of bill–the kinds with dead presidents on them.

In April 2003, we distributed over $17.9 million to our borrowers. And that's just the latest in a long history of success: since 1990, we've returned more than $146 million in patronage payments. What other bank can say that?

Patronage refunds. Just one more reason to come to MidAtlantic.

ABORTION IN DAIRY COWS AND HEIFERS

Dr. Arlen Mills
Capitol Region Extension Veterinarian, Lebanon

In spite of many advancements in dairy management and practices, pregnancy loss continues to be a problem. Studies have shown that an abortion costs an average of $600. Some may only count those abortions where there is obvious expulsion of fetal tissue. Others may include those early pregnancy losses that may occur before day 45 of gestation. These cows miss a heat after breeding only to come back in heat again at 45-60 days. The better your records and heat observation, the better your detection of a problem will be.

Dr. Arlen Mills

Monitoring abortion occurrences is critical to your herd. Abortions can have many causes and early detection of abortions may enable you to catch the problem that much sooner. Diagnostic labs get a diagnosis only 25 to 40 percent of the time when an aborted fetus is submitted. The lab may be most successful in coming to a diagnosis if an infectious disease causes the abortion. Therefore, no diagnosis may indicate that the cause is not related to an infectious disease.

Because toxic, metabolic, and hereditary causes of abortion don't usually cause changes in the fetal tissue, diagnosis is most difficult in these cases.

At what level of fetal loss is it time to become concerned? Literature seems to indicate that on an annual basis, 8 percent to 16 percent of pregnant cows will loose their pregnancy. Any changes on a monthly basis may also be meaningful. It's interesting to note that most herds going through expansion see an increase in pregnancy loss.

If a herd has a real abortion problem, the next step in solving this is to determine a cause. Everything that can affect the cow may be a possible cause. Let's consider some possible causes of abortion.

Infectious diseases may be ruled in or out on the basis of when fetal losses are occurring, examination of aborted tissues, and blood work. Diseases to consider include BVD, IBR, Leptospirosis, Salmonella, and Neosporosis. Solving the problem may involve management changes and revision of vaccination practices. Often these agents are brought into a herd through lack of basic biosecurity practices. Avoid buying problems by prepurchase testing and isolating purchased stock.

There are other inflammatory diseases that have definite effects on reproduction and abortion levels. Much has been written concerning the relationship of mastitis and fetal loss. It has been shown that cows that had clinical mastitis during the first 45 days of gestation were almost three times as likely to abort within the next three months as were cows without mastitis.

Severely lame cows also have a higher rate of pregnancy loss than herd mates. Lameness is a big factor in keeping cows from getting bred in the first place, but also increases the abortion risk.

Nutrition should always be looked at closely when considering an abortion problem. Mycotoxins and elevated nitrate levels can certainly lead to abortions. Acidosis is an immune suppressor that may be involved indirectly. With the way we feed cows, it would be very rare to see nutrient deficiency related abortions.

Abortions are costly and measures should be taken to minimize their occurrence. Proper feeding practices, biosecurity and sanitation practices, and adequate vaccination programs will help to reduce the incidence of abortion.

APPEARANCES COUNT IN PUBLIC PERCEPTION

Roger Rohrer
First Union Bank
Representative of The Lancaster Chamber's Agriculture Committee

In any business, it is useful to step back and look at your operation through your neighbors' eyes. This is especially important for agricultural producers in south central Pennsylvania, with an increasing number of neighbors who have little or no experience in animal agriculture. What your neighbors see from the road will shape their opinion of your business.

What can producers do to improve this perception while maintaining a profitable operation? One area of focus is our environmental stewardship. Many of our nonfarm neighbors are becoming much more interested in how we are managing the natural resources within our operation, including streams, flood zones, and steep slopes. There is and will be opportunities to install BMPs (best management practices) on our farms. With partial cost-share available, out-of-pocket costs can be minimal. Most BMPs pay for themselves and the positive image is a bonus which supports our long-term compatibility with our rural community.

It is difficult to commit resources to these efforts during a challenging economic time. Perhaps 2003 isn't the year, but I believe, long-term, many producers will need to bring some capital to this area, or we, the ag community, may lose in the public opinion polls.

Environmental stewardship will be a significant part of the strategic plan for the successful producer in years to come. Start now, one BMP at a time. Get help from the experts in your area. As you do, you will see the benefits and your neighbors will, too.

In addition to moving up our environmental commitment, we also need to look at general farm appearance. I'm not suggesting freshly painted buildings and blacktop driveways. I'm talking about general roadside appearance. Old farm machinery and equipment should be moved to the steel recycler, weeds around the buildings should be sprayed or mowed, and clutter within the sight of the public kept to a minimum.

The saying, "a picture is worth a thousand words" can be said for the visual effect of your farm. Are your thousand words positive? Every community has farms that portray a very positive roadside farm image. Your farm can become one. Start today one step at a time.

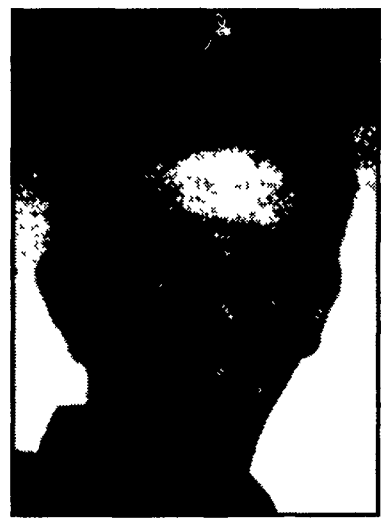
MAKING SENSE OF YOUR MILK CHECK

Steve Dietrich
Chester County Extension Agent

Understanding your milk check can be a mind-boggling task. Numbers and abbreviations can blend together, making it look more like a detailed tax document rather than a payment check.

What do the numbers mean? Where did they come from? What parts are under your control?

This article will give a brief explanation of the various parts of your overall milk check.



Steve Dietrich

To comprehend the different parts of your check, it's best to get a little background information on the milk pricing system. If you ship milk in Southeastern Pennsylvania, eastern Maryland, Delaware, eastern New York, or the New England states (excluding Maine), you are in the Federal Milk Marketing Order #1. If you ship milk in western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and parts west, you are in Federal Milk Marketing Order #33. This information will have significant bearing on determining the numbers you see on your milk check.

The first number you should locate on your check is the number of pounds of milk shipped for this pay period. This number may show up as Grade A Pounds, or be stated in some other form. From there, the total pounds shipped are broken down into pounds of butterfat shipped, pounds of protein shipped, and pounds of other solids shipped (minerals, lactose). Obviously, if you add these numbers together, they will not equal your total pounds shipped. The rest of the "material" shipped is water. This is an area that the producer has some control over by adjusting feeding programs, using various management tools, etc.

Next, you need to locate the "rate" or "price" for the various components. The prices for these components are computed each month for all federal orders on the basis of component formulas or dairy commodity prices. For instance, if the average trading price of butter goes up, the price of butterfat paid to the producer will also increase. To get your total price for your milk components, multiply the number of pounds of each component shipped by the corresponding price paid. Seems pretty easy so far — but it gets harder.

Next, you may see something noted as PPD. This is the Producer Price Differentials. The PPD is the value derived via the federal order system from the marked price above and beyond the Class III (milk used for cheese) value. In affect, it is the economic benefit of the federal order system of classified pricing. These prices are announced for a base zone for the relevant order. For Federal Order 1, that base zone is in Boston, Mass., and for Federal Order 33, the base zone is in Cleveland, Ohio.

The PPD adjustment you see on your milk check makes an adjustment between the base zone in Boston (Federal Order 1) and the zone where your milk is shipped and processed. This may increase or decrease your PPD value, depending on which zone your milk plant is located.

Another segment of your milk check is milk premiums. Over-order premiums are payments in excess of federal order minimum prices. Usually, these are collected on Class I fluid sales. In Pennsylvania, fluid milk produced, processed, and sold in the state is often subject to an over-order premium. Those premiums are then pooled by the individual buyers of milk on a plant-by-plant basis, and are paid back only to the producers that supply these plants. Thus, dairy producers shipping to a bottling plant may receive 90 percent of the announced premium, whereas dairy producers shipping to a manufacturing plant may receive 30 percent of the announced price.

Milk quality premiums are bonuses producers receive for producing high quality milk. Many factors go into determining quality premiums, such as somatic cell count, bacteria count, PI count, etc. This is another area of the milk check which is under the producer's control.

Another area of your milk check will denote your "deductions." There are four major deductions on the milk check each month. They are federal advertising/promotion, cooperative/marketing fees, hauling, and half-month advance payment.

The federal advertising and promotion program mandates a flat rate deduction of $.15 per hundredweight, sometimes called caratweight, or CWT, on all milk sold. The cooperative and marketing fees may be deductions for capital retains and administrative expenses in a cooperative, or various marketing service fees for noncooperatives. Hauling rates are fees charged to haul your milk to the processing plant, and half-month advances are a partial payment on the first 15 days of milk shipments.

For a more in-depth study of milk pricing, please see Ken Baily's Staff Paper #333, "Understanding Your Milk Check," or contact your local extension agent.

Dairy Market Report

this policy proposal. On the one hand, NMPF is pushing legislation that will close unfair trade loopholes in the World Trade Agreement (WTO) by placing new tariffs on MPC imports. We chastised the Canadians for exporting beyond their WTO limits. But now NMPF intends to use export bonuses funded by this voluntary program to "dump" surplus cheese and butter abroad. This is contrary to the spirit of our trade agreements and can only cause economic hardship for dairy farmers abroad.

But let's assume for the moment that world prices aren't negatively impacted by this program, all dairy farmers contribute their 18 cents per hundredweight, and milk prices then rise by more than $1 per hundredweight. The predictable result is that this will then lead to new expansions, more milk and more cheese, butter, and nonfat dry milk. What then? Will we have a second round of this program and charge small producers 32 cents per hundredweight?

A fundamental problem with so many dairy policy proposals is that everyone wants to have their cheese and eat it, too. It is natural to want new subsidies, price floors, and increased import protection. But we certainly don't want some government program requiring us all to curb production. That, we snobbishly argue, represents a form of socialism and is better left to the Canadians or the Europeans. The Canadian system, by the way, does work: they provide high and stable prices within a quota framework. But in the U.S., we want it both ways: higher guaranteed milk prices and no mandatory supply control.

We have reached a critical point where we have to make some fundamental choices regarding what kind of dairy policy we want in this country. One cannot continue to have newer and greater price guarantees without some thought given to a national mandatory supply control program. Such a program would require everyone to participate.

But we really don't like mandatory supply control programs in America. And if that is the case, we have to rely on market forces instead to determine milk supply, demand, and prices. That will require us to give up all subsidy programs. Why? Because subsidies and price supports impede market forces. Add to that a slow U.S. economy and you have a big problem. The fact is, you can't have your cheese and eat it too.

The benefit of a real market is that it forces producers to develop products that consumers want. This is a far cry from the current situation where it is more profitable to produce nonfat dry milk for the government than for real customers. Because of the support price program, we are now relying on countries like India and Estonia to provide part of our dairy protein needs. In addition, the support price program is providing an artificial floor on milk prices that allow some very efficient California dairy producers to add more cows, even when market prices are depressed! If you don't believe me, check out the March 2003 milk production report.

If I was elected the new Dairy Czar, my preference would be to eliminate the price support program and keep the Milk Income Loss Contract program (MILC) if there was going to continue to be government involvement in the markets. Getting rid of the price support program would allow processors to competitively produce milk proteins such as MPC and casein here in the U.S., and would make year-after-year expansions in states such as California much more risky. I'd keep the MILC payment program because it is targeted to smaller producers who aren't likely to expand. Also, it is socially appealing to provide some price protection to smaller, more vulnerable market participants.

The U.S. dairy industry would be better off and stronger in the long run if we moved toward less government intervention and greater market orientation. Few economists would argue against this. That said, if we don't want freer markets and do expect greater protection from market forces, we should accept some form of mandatory supply control. Voluntary supply control sounds good, but has not worked in the past. California alone has doubled their milk production since supply control programs were last used in the mid-1980s.

Either we will have higher guaranteed milk prices for all producers with a Canadian-style supply control program, or we'll opt for much less government intervention and a market-oriented dairy policy. You simply can't have it both ways.

years now, without having had its citizens develop the proverbial "gambling problem."

Thirdly, you appear oblivious of the economic stimulus slot machines would have in the state as a whole and in this region in particular. Funding of public education would increase greatly without any tax increase, and agriculture in this area would receive a great shot in the arm. Western Chester County and parts of Lancaster County contain the bulk of the horse breeding industry in Pennsylvania — it consumes large quantities of hay, straw, fencing, land, and equipment, and it also provides hundreds of jobs. Slots revenues would, of course, greatly enhance the monies for which race horses could compete, making their breeding and training more attractive.

Finally, the proposed slot machine legislation would also encourage the preservation of agricultural land by making the breeding and training of race horses, already an important business in this area, hopefully at least somewhat less unprofitable. More money would pay for more fencing, pastures, and open space, not to mention jobs.

So my conclusion is that the proposed slots legislation would be very good for Pennsylvania for a large number of reasons without risking any gambling problems. If the lottery is OK, as I'm sure you would agree, certainly the slots bill promises even greater benefits for the commonwealth. And since Lancaster County contains no race tracks (where the slots machines would be located), to write that the enactment of a slots bill could make this county "the next Atlantic City" is simply absurd.

Editor:

I recently attended a CWT informational meeting. I was appalled. A few slides into the presentation was one that said "Because of overproduction during the past few years, we have ended up with a 4.3 billion pound surplus," the whole basis for the CWT program. There was no mention of where they came up with these figures at all.

This is not the truth. According to official USDA figures, here is the truth:

In 1998, according to USDA, domestic milk marketings in millions of pounds stood at 156,080, with commercial disappearance in millions of pounds at 159,916. In 1999, those numbers stood at 161,411 and 164,948. In 2000, the numbers were 166,247 and 169,124. In 2001, the numbers went to 164,062 and 169,432. In 2002, the numbers of domestic milk marketings were at 168,533 and commercial disappearance at 170,461.

These figures are on a milkfat basis. The truth of the matter is that the oversupply is coming from the imports, of which a lot of NMPF members and affiliate members are either using or importing themselves.

Land O' Lakes has 12 import licenses and DFA has 11. Combined, they have more than anyone else, and some of these companies that have them are set up for the sole purpose of importing dairy products and ingredients. This can be checked at the Website www.fas.usda.gov/itp/imports/dairyimport03/03issuanceword.pdf. I asked the DFA and Land O' Lakes presenters that if we reduced the domestic milk supply and raised our milk price, what was going to keep everybody, them included, from importing more and driving our price back down? They really didn't answer that, but in a roundabout way said that they will do what they have to do to keep their processing plants competitive.

A couple of years ago, Land O' Lakes had an ad on the Internet listing MPC for sale to anyone who wanted it. What does that have to do with keeping their processing plants competitive?

The Land O' Lakes fellow was presenting the CWT program as "A tool in our toolbox," saying that right now we have no tools in our toolbox to help with our milk prices. Aren't our co-ops, founded under the Capper Volsteid Act, suppose to be a tool for us to use? The way the co-ops are going now, they sure aren't a tool for us.

In a reputable Northeast dairy magazine recently, I read that by the year 2012, the processors want to import 50 percent of the nation's milk needs. Is the CWT program just a way to bring us closer to that goal by reducing cow numbers and domestic production? The farmers would be using their own money, through the 18 cent deduction, to help the processors achieve their goal.

The co-ops were founded by members, for members, and for marketing the domestic milk supply at the best possible price for the farmer. Have the co-ops become so far removed from their members and the very reason that they were founded, that they would rather get rid of the members and their milk production so that they can import more?

After the CWT meeting, people came to me and others that spoke out during the meeting and said that we knew what we were talking about and what the actual problem really is. Friends, we all need to speak up to turn this problem around. The whole principle of domestic overproduction on which the program is founded is just not true.

Question what these co-ops are telling you and do a little research, and you will be surprised at what you will find. I would like to thank everyone who helped me research for this letter.

Editor:

Just a few thoughts on NMPF's "CWT" (Co-ops Working Together) Program. Since the "surplus" is being caused by the importation of dairy products, shouldn't the off-shore contributors to the "surplus" be requested to kill some of their cows also? DFA is real cozy with the New Zealand Dairy Board (Fonterra). Why is it that only American dairy farmers will have to contribute to the cow kill?

If you compare commercial disappearance with domestic milk marketings, it is easy to see that the USA is in reality a milk deficit country. The free traders won't be satisfied until domestic milk production is reduced by about 50 percent, leaving only enough volume for fluid milk use. They will import the rest.

If the co-ops would just do the job they were set up to do, then this problem could be cleared up in short order. The Capper-Volstead Act of 1922 allows and expects co-ops to set a reasonable price for raw milk to benefit farmers. Why isn't this being done? Problem: It would require some testosterone to do it — a hormone that seems to be sadly lacking in today's dairy co-op board rooms.

Rather than do what is obligated under Capper-Volstead to relieve the unprecedented human suffering in our dairy communities, co-op "leadership" has hatched the CWT scam that is a bogus self-help scheme that will steamroll more American dairy farmers into oblivion, while foreign products continue to steal our domestic markets. CWT is an outrage with more holes in it than any proverbial imported Swiss cheese. Farmer "support" for CWT is out of abysmal desperation.

Farmer/members of co-ops, is this "taking" of another 18 cents from your pathetic milk checks to finance cow slaughter the best your co-ops can do for you? If so, then you better replace your co-op leadership before you start funding another milk check deduction, because the status quo guys are refusing to work for you. You've been working for them, and now they want you completely out of their picture.

Dairy Center Construction Under Way At Virginia Tech

GAY BROWNLEE
Virginia Correspondent

BLACKSBURG, Va. — A new dairy center featuring water-recycling and odor control at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University will be a showcase of 21st century dairy science technology.

The air will be fresh and clean for some 26,000 undergraduate students next year on the beautiful Virginia Tech campus when the $4.5 million project is up and running.

According to Dr. Steve Nickerson, head of the Virginia Tech Dairy Science Department, the fulfillment of this dream after eight years of planning is owing to the support of the Virginia State Dairymen's Association (VSDA), the Virginia Farm Bureau, the Virginia Agribusiness Council, and Sen. John Chichester.

An additional $1.1 million was granted by the state for an office building, three bunker silos, hay storage barn, commodity storage barn, feed storage mixing area, and other renovations.

The Dairy Center is set to open in January of 2004.

Charles "Chuck" Miller, the dairy center superintendent, described the new barn as a "complete flush barn," employing the latest water-use technology.

At one end of the barn, two 22,000-gallon recycle flush tanks similar to silos will flush the barn's six manure alleys three times a day. The flushing system will take advantage of pressure both from the height and volume of 12-inch water lines.

From the reception pit, enroute to becoming odor-free, the manure will go through stages of separating water from solids. First, a mechanical separation sends the solid mass into a dry manure stacking facility. Settling basins are followed by aeration-separation and odor reduction in three concrete tanks. It's really a five-stage separation process, according to Miller.

The gray water will be pumped back to the tall tanks and also into 5,400 feet of irrigation lines that serve the fields.

Miller said the 336-foot long freestall barn is designed to accommodate 232 stalls. It also features a special-needs research area, a holding pen, and a double-eight, rapid-exit herringbone milking parlor.

Each side of the parlor will have a 1,000-gallon capacity water-filled tank. This water will cool the milk and ensure compliance with the Pasteurized Milk Ordinance (PMO) that the milking parlor is flushed with clean water.

"We have in this facility the ability to (monitor) individual feed intake for 48 cows," said Miller, adding that although the cows will be in loose housing, a computer transponder on each will guide her to her own door.

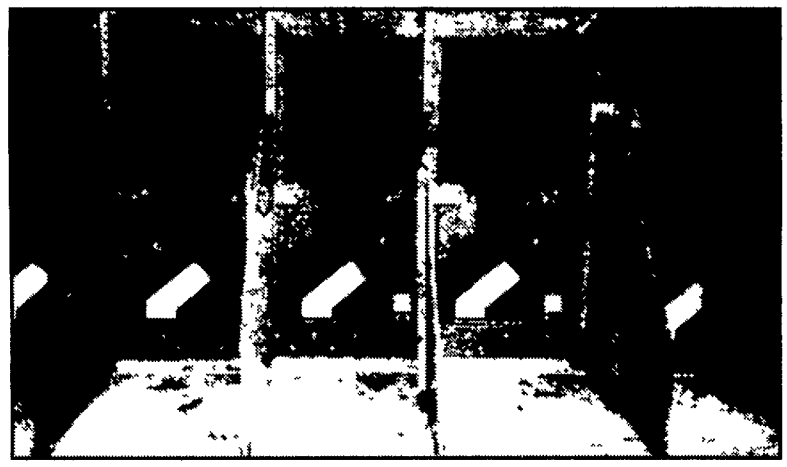
Students will be able to conduct research in nutrition, endocrinology reproduction, management, and genetics in the new center.

"We've got to figure out how to get as much milk out of those udders as we can." said Dr. Nickerson.

In addition to dairy science, opportunities for research in biological engineering, crop and soil environmental sciences, entomology and plant pathology, physiology and weed service, will be expanded in the new Dairy Center.

"This herd also serves the college of veterinary medicine," said Miller.

He indicated the dairy center will impact the nearby Maryland/Virginia Regional College of Veterinary Medicine's ongoing research projects. For example, these studies would involve topics such as mastitis, reproduction, and de-worming heifers. The veterinary students working with the dairy herd will develop skills in learning about the diagnosis of sick animals, pregnancy palpation, and hoof-trimming.



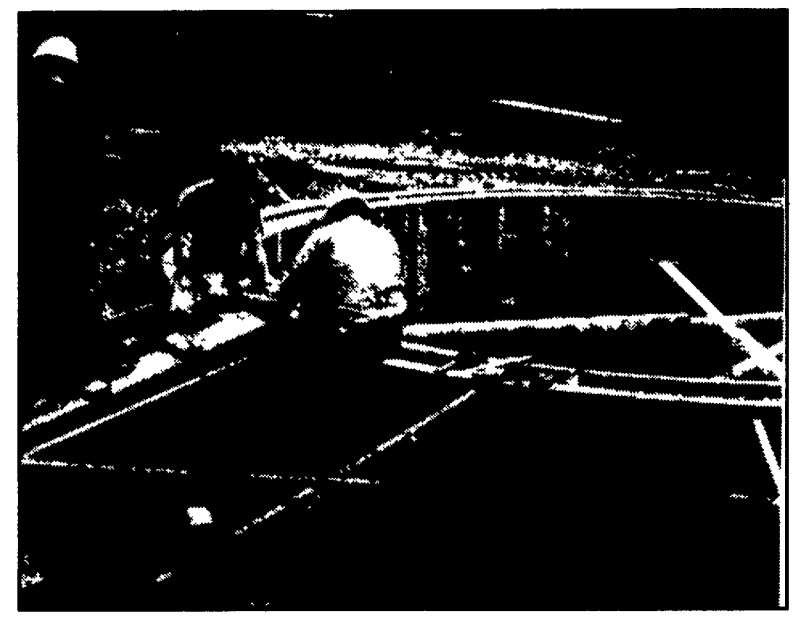
The Calan door system, used in Virginia Tech's heifer barn is praised by dairy science officials for its efficiency in providing feed intake information on each animal trained to eat only at its own door. The new dairy barn will feature the Calan Door System as well.

The enhanced research, according to Nickerson, will ultimately be communicated to the world as research information is evaluated and disseminated through the extension service and the dairy science department's three arms: its two-year program in animal production; four-year bachelor's degree program, and the advanced degree programs.

The two-year program has an enrollment of 30-35 students with 55-60 undergraduates pursuing bachelor's degrees.

The predecessor of the new barn was a stanchion model equipped with a pipeline milking system. After being built in 1956, this barn supported the nutrition trials and research of the dairy science department for 44 years.

Harold Nester will serve as the Dairy Center's herd manager. About a dozen employees will work a full time schedule, and a work-study program will assist students seeking part time work. Graduate students, undergraduate students, and professors will converge to tackle the necessary work.



The construction team is at work on the 14,000-gallon manure reception pit, located at the end of the future freestall barn. Tall water tanks will assist the flushing process through six alleys in the 336-foot barn that will be built on a 2-percent slope.

Three vital issues of the project are those of eliminating runoff, preserving nutrients for the fields, and controlling odor.

Corn for silage and high moisture corn is grown on about 200 acres. Barley on 60 acres is harvested as grain and straw. Alfalfa/orchardgrass is harvested as haylage on 75 acres. Orchardgrass on 170 acres is harvested as hay and used as pasture land..

Two companies involved in the project are located in Chambersburg, Pa. Integrity Waste Management Systems designed the waste system and Sollenberger Silos has contracted to construct the tanks and the concrete storage pits.

Nickerson said the manure separator, the pulse jet irrigation pump and the pulse jet irrigator will be installed by the Integrity company. Dairymen Specialty Co. Inc. of Harrisonburg, Va. is supplying Germania equipment for the milking parlor.

The existing milking cow facilities will be remodeled as a facility for fresh cows, dry cows, and spring cows, the men said.

Milky Way Farm

enough, in July 1976 the Milky Way dairy barn was destroyed by fire at the hands of a lightning bolt.

"We had to decide right quick whether or not to stay in business, because we needed milk the very next day," Lewis said.

To make a long story short, a neighbor came through, allowing the Seeley's to use his facility that had recently closed. "We trucked those cows right up there, and started hauling the milk back . . . there was no interruption in service to our customers."

Milky Way Farm survived a number of less tragic, though critical transitions. When people started bringing in plastic gallon jugs in the 1970s, they had to switch from being a "jugging" operation to a "bottling" plant in order to ensure quality. Previously, customers had been bringing glass jars or other "jugs" that could easily be sterilized — plastic changed all that.

But the most critical transition was that of going from one family generation to the next.

"Kim always wanted to be out there with the cows, and when the time came, he was ready to go," Lewis said. And the Seeley patriarch is proud of how the third generation has pitched in. Sean is now studying agriculture at Penn State, and Dane, 9, already runs his own chicken and egg business at Milky Way.

The sign shows the invitation, the parking lot shows the result.

When asked about his customers, Lewis spoke clearly about their importance.

"People need to understand that every customer is an inspector," he said. He added that without a strong desire to greet and serve the public, he and Kim would never have kept going all these years.

Has it all been worthwhile?

"Marie is happy, and we raised a good family," Lewis said of his closest business partner. "She would never give up."

It was a natural decision to celebrate Milky Way's 40th anniversary by inviting friends, family, and neighbors to join.

"We wanted to give something back," Lewis said. "It would be good if big companies did the same." Once again, the Seeleys' put their trust in the people who had sustained them all these years — their customers.

Any predictions of a small turnout at the 40th anniversary celebration proved false. About 400-500 people passed through the line before the afternoon was over. There were hot dogs and sloppy Joes, grassfed cheese (the Seeley brand), a decorated anniversary cake and, of course, fresh milk and ice cream.

On that Fourth of July at Milky Way Farm, we celebrated the opportunity all of us should have in this country to make a decent living while serving our fellow citizens in as direct a manner as possible. Family farms, especially those that extend for generations in the same community, exemplify the greatest gift and opportunity that America has to offer.

Brian Snyder is executive director for the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA).

The folks at Milky Way Farm are always looking for new ways to serve their customers. Here Kim Seeley shows their latest enterprise — pastured pork production.

Vale Wood Farm

have people who can do several different jobs. That is what really makes it work.

"We may have somebody milking cows in the evening and then the next day they may be running a milk route."

With 18 years under his leadership, Bill said he is most proud of the family-operated business, because at the end of each day, the working family members are still good friends.

There are many issues facing today's milk producers, but none as important as milk pricing. According to Bill, his family has somewhat of a unique perspective on the entire dairy industry.

While many milk processors don't have a full understanding of the entire operation, Bill knows what it is all about from the cow to the final product.

"An extended period of low milk prices really affects the morale of the whole industry," he said. "I don't think most processors realize that low pricing has a long term affect on the supply.

"I can see within my limited scope that people are very anxious and have high anxiety on the processing side.

"Most milk dealers don't understand that lower prices aren't better."

Bill's daughter Carissa Itle Westrick is one of a newer generation of Itles working the family business. She said family members can be found on the farm and in the barn as well as in processing and even in the sales end of things.

Vale Wood Farms has a service area of approximately an hour radius within its location.

"We are concentrating on getting better at what we are doing," Carissa said.

Carissa did not just step into the family business without experience. She returned to the family farm after a stint in Washington, D.C. where she was on the staff of the National Milk Producers Federation. There she helped to develop policy for the business she grew up knowing dairy.

This smalltown girl had the opportunity to learn how the dairy industry works on the national level and the needs of milk producers throughout the nation.

Today, Carissa uses her big city experience on her family farm in rural Pennsylvania.

"I always knew I'd come back," she said. "We have a real sense of family and pride in our business. That's our driving force."

Pride gushes from every aspect of the business. Carissa is quick to point out Vale Wood Farms has earned the right to use the Free Farmed logo on its products. The recognition is awarded by the American Human Association for the humane treatment of dairy herds.

In addition to the milk produced by their dairy cows, the Itles buy milk from four additional local farmers all within a mile or two of their farm.

Their product line includes whole milk, 1 and 2 percent milk, churned buttermilk, half and half cream, butter, sour cream, cottage cheese, 17 flavors of premium ice cream and an array of additional products.

Complementing their product line, Carissa said they are very committed to the home delivery aspect of their business.

"We have been servicing generations of home delivery customers. From parents to grandparents, we have delivered for decades."

Carissa said the home delivery service emphasizes their old fashion values and strong sense of tradition.

"We guaranteed a quality milk product from a family with generations in the industry," she said.

Strong family values translate into community commitment for the Itles. With this in mind, Vale Wood Farms welcomes over 1,500 school children annually as part of their school tour program.

"We are very proud of and dedicated to our local community," Carissa said.

COOL Meeting Scheduled For Lancaster

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The last of USDA's 12 listening sessions regarding Country of Origin Labeling (COOL) is scheduled for Thursday, June 26 from 1 to 4 p.m. in the auditorium of the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

The Country of Origin Labeling law was included in the 2002 Farm Bill and officially starts on September 30, 2004.

During its current "voluntary" period, the COOL program is being presented in nationwide listening and education sessions, providing participants with an opportunity to make comments.

Listening sessions have been attracting standing-room-only crowds.

COOL supporters claim consumers want the labels and that they will provide American products with an advantage. Opponents claim that COOL will require burdensome record keeping and increase production costs.

COOL will be enforced at the retail level because the law states that the labeling must be available at the point of sale where consumer purchasing decisions are made. However, the necessary paper trail will filter back through all segments of production and will involve livestock producers as well.

To carry the U.S. Country of Origin label, the meat product must have been born, raised, and slaughtered in the U.S. If any part of the process is conducted outside the U.S., the end product cannot carry the U.S. COOL label.

PLNA Plans Lunch With Pennsylvania Leaders

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Landscape and Nursery Association's first annual "Lunch with Pennsylvania Leaders" will bring industry and state government officials together to discuss the challenges and opportunities facing Pennsylvania's $3.1 billion Green Industry.

Lunch panelists include Secretary of Agriculture Dennis Wolff, House Agriculture Chairman Art Hershey, and Senate Agriculture Chairman Mike Waugh.

The lunch is planned for Wednesday, July 30 at the Fort Washington Expo Center in conjunction with the Penn Allied Nursery Trade Show, July 29-31.

The cost for the luncheon is $15 for PLNA members and $20 for non-members. For more information contact PLNA at (800) 898-3411.

Hayes, Kummer Honored By Dairy Science Club

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Dairy Science Club recently named its Expo Dedicatee and Outstanding Young Dairy Leader.

This year's Penn State Dairy Exposition Dedicatee is former Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture Sam Hayes, This award goes to an individual who rises above the call of duty for the betterment of the dairy industry, agriculture, and the Dairy Science Club.

Under his leadership as ag secretary, the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex was expanded and remodeled to become one of the nation's premier facilities. Hayes spearheaded construction of a new Meat Animal Evaluation Center. Hayes expanded trade opportunities for Pennsylvania commodities, and he was instrumental in increasing funding for youth shows in the state.

Hayes was a lawmaker and legislative leader in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives from 1970-1992 and served as the majority leader and whip in the Pennsylvania House of Representatives. Hayes received his bachelor of science degree and a masters of education degree from Penn State. He served in active duty with the U.S. Army and is a veteran of the Vietnam War, where he received the Bronze Star.

Hayes also holds many chair positions that help agriculture commissions and boards. Hayes sits on the board of trustees of the Pennsylvania State University and is a member of the Pennsylvania State Board of Education, Warriors Mark Grange, Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the American Legion, and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Jean Kummer is this year's recipient of the Young Dairy Leader Award. Jean was graduated from Penn State in 1992 with a bachelor's degree in agricultural science and earned a master's degree from Penn State in 1995 in agricultural and extension education. Jean serves as president of the Penn State Dairymen's Club. She has also served as secretary for the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show and was a member of the Pennsylvania Holstein Youth Committee and the Butler County Holstein Club. Jean enjoys announcing many dairy shows, including the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show and the All-American.

Jean Kummer joined the Mid-Atlantic Dairy Association in Philadelphia in June 2002. She is a public relations specialist and prepares news releases, newsletters, brochures, and other publications for the dairy promotion organization. She coordinates public relations and consumer events focusing on milk, as well as attending industry relations events.

Galaxy Conference Draws Extension Agents

MYERSTOWN (Lebanon Co.) — About 130 Penn State extension agents and agri-industry representatives attended the 2003 Galaxy Conference Wednesday and Thursday this week here at the Lantern Lodge. Speakers included, from left, Alan H. Michael, chair of the planning committee; Daney Jackson, associate dean, Penn State College of Ag Sciences; and Jack and Suzanne Murray, Knockroe Group Inc., Hughesville, keynote speakers. More information about the conference scheduled for next week's Lancaster Farming.

Heifer Grower: Early Health Means Long-Term Calf Success

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

BELLEVILLE (Mifflin Co.) — Lynn Neer watches his calves carefully — so carefully, in fact, that if they blood test for low immunity and aren't eating well, they are sent to the yards or the "owner keeps them."

The strategy for early success can pay off in healthy, productive cows, according to the Mifflin County farmer.

In late April this year, the Neer farm was a tour stop for about 40 attendees of the Pennsylvania Agricultural Credit Conference, conducted at the Penn State Nittany Lion Inn.

Problem calves, noted Neer, are created "mostly from management, at least from where I get them," he said.

Neer s heifer calf operation is located on about 78 acres. Neer farms with wife Margaret and daughters Katie and Charity. They manage about 200 acres total, including rented land on three other farms, and have a custom field business encompassing up to 3,000 acres.

Lydia Yoder, with Clint, also helps with the colostrum bottles for the calves.

Neer receives heifers from "babies to eight weeks" old, he noted, providing growout for five farms in the region, including three in Blair County and others in Williamsport and Cogan Station.

At one time, Neer milked from 300 to 1,400 cows, but decided about four years ago to pursue the heifer calf raising business. He cares for about 780 or so calves, with the help of one full-time and three part-time employees.

As of April 22, there were 101 calves on the bottle, with others about a month old.

When drawing blood, if the IGG levels (which indicates the immunity the calf receives from colostrum) are suspect, then those calves are separated. If rejected, Neer believes that's one stimulus for the farm owners "to get their workers to do a better job," he said.

Neer can track a particular farm by ear tag, which includes date born, time, and other information.

The tag lets him know "who was the guy responsible — the tags with the right signature provide the guy to deal with," Neer said.

For better health, a gallon of colostrum is fed to each calf the first six hours of its life. Usually that is enough to promote good calf health.

Neer wants to know about any potential traumatic experience at birth, which can affect cow productivity when they reach the 2-year-old stage.

Neer's goal: to have the heifer home at 22 months of age so they can calve at 23-24 months, he noted.

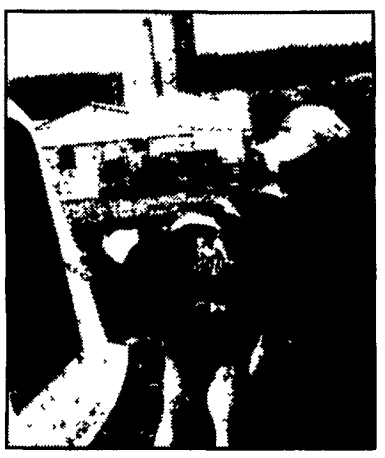
Vaccination programs begin with the dry cow. Then, when the calf is born, that vaccination program provides the "roof" for the calf, "a foundation" he noted for immunity to allow the cow to go anyplace.

Mycoplasma vaccination occurs before dry cow stage and before calving. A calf is provided a booster at weaning. The same program occurs at the springing stage, a nine-way BVD, PI3 (modified live), and five-way lepto pasteurella program. By providing those types of precautions, "rarely do we lose a calf," said Neer.

A calf with BVD has no immunity, noted the heifer grower.

Calves are on bottles instead of buckets to avoid any potential cross-contamination. The calf's natural way to get nutrients is to "suck it - the digestion is better," said Neer and, because the calf works harder to feed, they are healthier when weaned.

Neer sets up his fees depending on how far to truck the animals, what the dairy farmer is looking for in terms of age and conditioning, and a per-day rate. Neer keeps careful cost accounting information, knowing all his input costs to determine his fee structure.



Neer credits blood checks on calves with a way to monitor their overall health. He uses an ear tag ID system to track where the calves were born, and who may be responsible for initial calf health problems.

Graziers Battle Low Feed Values Caused By Wet, Dreary Weather

ANDY ANDREWS
Editor

ELIZABETHTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — Dairyman Mark Garber tried to make light of a grueling situation for most farmers around the region.

In the morning, at the beginning of his speech about grazing to more than three dozen producers and agri-industry representatives, it began to pour. A steady rain became a heavy rain. Within 45 minutes, about three-quarters of an inch of rain fell and continued to fall well into the afternoon.

Garber nodded to the downpour making its way from the roof of the maintenance shed, drops falling on some of the bystanders. "Maybe the topic for the day should be wet weather management," he said. "That would be the appropriate topic, I guess."

Huddled beneath parkas and umbrellas, some in the crowd looked around and smiled at each other. Garber pointed to some cows standing around, many not eating any of the grass, in the distance.

Garber noted, "This spring has been a real challenge for managing things," he noted. It's important for the cows to eat and not "destroy the place," he said.

The unusually rainy and cool spring — in stark contrast to the heatwave from April through the entire summer last year in the county — has contributed to some real paddock and feed area management problems for graziers.

The pasture walk, sponsored by Penn State and industry, featured a tour of the Garber Farm. Herbert and Sharon Garber manage the farm with their sons, Mark and Joel. Mark also farms along with Tricia and Joel with Kelly.

Mark noted, "Sunshine is the only way I know of making sugar." At the time, it was the fifth day in a row of gray skies and general dreariness, with some reluctance of the cows to eat the grass. Garber noted that about three weeks ago, the sugar (or NFCs) registered 26 percent. The previous week, with the persistent rains, the sugars were at 9 percent, a third the level.

And at 9 percent, the "cows don't want to eat it," he said.

Garber said that the dairy maintains about 140 cows on grazing with 80 acres in pasture. The farm also feeds a TMR of corn silage, baleage (from hay on the Garber and other farms), and other items. The family farms a total of four separate locations.

The dairy milks 55-60 pounds per cow with a butterfat ranging from 3.7-3.8 percent and protein at 3 percent.

When the weather cooperates, feed and breeding programs have worked well. The Garbers continue to take pasture samples every two weeks and watch to make sure the rations are balanced.

Garber explained the feeding programs at the farm. He emphasized that the animals are not on a total grassed-based diet, but grain is incorporated into the TMR.

Garber said this was the second year of grazing for the farm. "We're still learning as we go," he said.

Paddocks vary in size and the ways they are rotated and used, depending on the age of the animals. When they began, with moderate success, Garber noted about 35 acres were in alfalfa and about 15-20 in old fescue. Many acres were in contour-stripped rows.

Last summer proved mostly successful, despite the drought, with the animals grazing all summer long. As part of the rotation, the Garbers mowed ahead of the cows, about an acre each night.

Some of the alfalfa had more than 200 RFV straight through the fall. The interesting thing was, the grass was brown and 2-3 inches in height, and about a week after the rains came, the grass bounced back, grazed at 8 inches high.

Garber said, "if we get sunshine, things will really fill out."

For spring tactics during a good year, a 30 pounds per acre seeding rate works will for earlier stands. "But if we have wet weather like this, it can get torn up pretty quick," noted Garber, with cows tramping on it.

Because of the lack of sunshine, the stands are not returning nearly as thick as they did. But with warm weather and sun, the stands can grow about an inch a day, Garber said.

Garber emphasized the importance of a good, thick stand. "It can take more abuse, whether it's dry or wet," he said.

But "if we don't get sun soon, we may have to feed the cows" some stored hay.

One standout management challenge: cull rates, which stood at 22 percent last year. Feed expansion and not buying young stock have helped them manage better.

"We haven't bought a single heifer since," noted Garber.

Mark Garber, in center with umbrella, spoke in between steady rain during a pasture walk at his Elizabethtown dairy.

hostile enviironment, but how to positively thrive in this age of uncertainty.

"Farming on the edge ... of what?" I asked my wife Melanie when the idea for this column first surfaced.

"You don't need anything else," Melanie said. She knows, after putting up with me for 28 years tomorrow (happy anniversary, dear!), that I sometimes get ahead of myself. "It could be the edge of town, the edge of marketing, the edge of innovation. Take your pick," she said. "The list is endless."

Wise woman, my wife.

Lancaster Farming Editor Andy Andrews has that kind of common sense, too. "I am looking for alternative farming methods in these days of dismal dairy prices. Anything you could supply to help 'jump-start' a sagging farm economy would be great!"

> "A grower I met from Alabama, for example, sold part of his land to a housing developer. The builder then gave everyone who bought a new house a one-year membership in the farmer's weekly vegetable service. It is OK to get creative and use your imagination."

> organic vegetable farmer

Sagging? With nearly every commodity selling below the cost of production, a cynic would say that the farm economy is sinking. Time to man the lifeboats. Take the money and run.

But like Andy, we farmers tend to be optimists. And like firefighters, we don't give up easily. That's why we're still farming, despite low prices, rising costs, droughts, floods, and this nearly sunless spring that looked more like February than May.

Fortunately, many farmers are volunteer firefighters. (Yeah, I'm a volunteer, too. Twenty years of service, so far, but who's counting?) That's good because farming today is a lot like firefighting. You have to be quick, flexible, and always keep thinking half a dozen steps ahead. When normal procedures don't work or fire conditions deteriorate rapidly, you have to change tactics and tools to quench the flames.

The farm economy today may be giving off heavy smoke. Flames may be blowing through the roof. But we can still save the house and its occupants, I believe, if we keep our heads and make full use of the many resources at our command.

Former Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower gave us a place to start. "When you find that you've dug yourself into a hole, the first thing to do is stop digging," he said two years ago at the annual "Farming for the Future" conference hosted by the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture.

"Dump debt!" U.S. Sen. Kent Conrad (D-N.D.) told farm writers at a press briefing in Washington this spring. "Dump debt, and become politically active to insist that government dump debt as well. This is the worst possible time to add to debt."

He was talking about the big picture in Washington, of course — the soaring federal budget deficit, the possible impact of President Bush's proposed tax cuts, and mounting problems paying for Social Security and Medicare.

Commodity programs are at risk. Taxpayers are getting sick of farm subsidies. "It's clear to me that the pressure on support for agriculture is going to be intense," the senator noted.

So even paying off your credit card bill is a good step in the right direction. We don't quite have the money to do that right away, so I did the next best thing. I just transferred the balance to a new card that offers zero percent interest through August 2004, as long as I make the minimum payment each month. We'll pay it off long before interest kicks in again. And if we do charge anything to our old card, we'll pay it off every month.

Diversification is a survival tip strongly recommended by Tom Dorr, USDA undersectary for rural development.

"The farm of the early 21st century will look nothing like the farm of the early 20th century," said Dorr, who farms in Iowa. "American agriculture is at a crucial crossroad. New strategies and new ideas are needed. It's time we paint an American Gothic for the 21st century.

"I'm not encouraging farmers to take senseless risks, but I would say that farmers have not used their asset base — their land — to its maximum return."

Good point. Instead of going to a bank and borrowing money to modernize our vegetable operation, Melanie and I sold our development rights to Lehigh County in 1997. Then we poured most of the money right back into the farm, paying cash for a heated greenhouse for seed starting, a used walk-in cooler, a used tractor with a front-end loader, a PTO-powered tiller, a plastic mulch layer, and other equipment.

We also paved our 600-foot gravel driveway. That was a good business decision. Now 100 families eagerly drive out to our farm each week during the season to buy vegetables, herbs, blueberries, and cut flowers. They don't have to worry about mud or gravel messing up their fancy cars or shoes. Most of our customers come from within a 15-mile radius of the farm and live in new houses on Used-To-Be-A-Farm Acres.

We sell everything we can grow, directly to the people who will eat it. The only problem is keeping up with demand. There are an awful lot of hungry people out there. And most of them tell us that they're completely fed up with the tired, tasteless produce in the supermarkets. We set our

Switch Profitable For Hoppaughs

Hoppaugh.

Every year there are more and more custom operators in the area, so waiting for the harvester hasn't been a problem.

"Even if you're five days later to start, you still have a consistent product. You can put up a couple hundred acres in two days. You have a consistent product from the bottom of your silo to the top, instead of starting on time and ending up in August so you have everything from good to pure trash in the silo. The finishing date is more important sometimes than the starting date," said Ray.

With corn silage in particular, forward contracting lowers the farmer's risk.

"I can sit here today and say okay, my corn silage this fall will cost me $30 per ton, it's not double jeopardy," said Ray. "On this hill ground, we just can't grow the kind of corn silage that they can on the river flats. We can spend $200-$300 per acre to put out corn silage and still have to buy it. Then we've bought two crops in a year. So if we plan to buy it, we know what it's going to cost."

Relying on summer grass is also a time saver for the family.

"Every year I'd drive by these fields with the corn planter and say to myself, 'this grass is ready to be cut,'" said Ray "But it was always a few more weeks before we were able to mow. Now the cows are taking advantage of something I couldn't even harvest with a machine." The cows are on the pasture by the last week of April and stay out until late October or November, depending on the year.

Over time, the Holsteins that would not graze efficiently were culled and the stalls were filled with registered Ayrshires.

"We thought about Jerseys," said Ray, "But the stalls were too big in the barn. Then someone asked if we had thought about Ayrshires. We tried a few and we really liked them. They knew how to get out in the field and get their nose down instead of looking in the air waiting for when the next wheelbarrow load of silage was coming."

The family milks 115 cows — registered Ayrshires with a few Holsteins sprinkled in — in an 84-unit tiestall barn with a pipeline.

"It takes about an hour and 45 minutes to milk," said Danny. The cows receive what the Hoppaughs refer to as "TMR light" in the barn in the summer and Danny top dresses with grain in the barn.

In the winter, the ration shifts to include more stored forages and silage.

Danny and Joann do the bulk of the farm work while Ray is "on the road" as a nutritionist. They also employ two high school girls to help with evening milking. Danny's cousin, who also owns some of the animals in the herd, helps milk in the mornings, but they agree that some of their best help has four legs and fur.

"I decided we needed a dog to get the cows," said Ray. So soon "Chicklet" became a part of the Hoppaugh family.

"Even as a puppy on a leash, she knew what to do," said Ray.

Now the family keeps three heelers and a "faux retriever," Ray said.

"A faux retriever happens to be a chocolate lab who thinks she's (a retriever)," said Ray. "She sees the heelers doing it and she thinks she needs to do that too. The dogs make all the difference. I don't know how you'd do grazing without having a good dog."

Is it profitable to stay in the dairy business? The Hoppaughs echo a resounding "yes," but add that a farmer must be willing to make changes that fit his operation.

"You have to decide what's important to you. Do you want to be in business because you really like to be in business and you'd like to make some money, or do you want to perpetuate something that's worthless?" said Ray. "We have decided to stay with the registered Ayrshires because we think there's a future in that."

The Hoppaughs continue to use top sires and utilize animal analysis tools.

Joann is the main calf manager, starting baby calves on bottles of milk replacer and weaning them at 30 days of age. Calves are born year-round.

All animals are identified for leukosis and the Hoppaughs are proud to have a Johnes free herd.

They admit that their herd average is lower on grass, but the income over feed cost on a per cow is the same now as it was before. They ship about 6,000 pounds of milk a day, with a cull rate under 20 percent and fewer expenses.

"The financial end of it changes a lot, said Joann. "I like (grazing) just from a bill paying standpoint." Joann noted that the electricity charges were lower, the feed bill diminishes, and the cost of bedding drops in a grazing system.

"Initially, when we first made the swap from stabling to grass, we saved about $600 per month in electric alone," said Ray.

But managing the pastures can be tricky in a drought year.

"Last year was the first year in all the years that we've grazed that we actually ran out of pasture completely. Every other year, we've been able to modulate it to the point where we didn't have a lot, but we could keep the cows going and supplement in the barn," said Ray. "Last year we were out for about six weeks and fed baleage." Hoppaugh disputes the conventional wisdom that says to stay competitive, dairymen must expand or be left by the wayside.

"There are a lot of people with 40-cow dairies who are doing okay," he said. "They're real happy with what they're doing and get a chance to turkey hunt and they like their lifestyle. Why should that person milk 400 cows? Just because his neighbor does?

"What I'm saying is that if you want to expand, you should do it for the right reasons. Don't do it for an ego trip. If you're doing it for the right reasons and have the right facilities and the right area and the right complement of things to go with it, I have nothing against it."

Joann added that farmers must be vocal and active in promoting their business.

"We live in an agricultural area, but people don't understand what goes on. I think you have to make phone calls to senators and representatives and stay attentive to what's going on," said Joann.

The Hoppaughs are also firm believers that agriculture needs to be prominent in the economic picture.

"With the whole infrastructure of the economy, agriculture carries so much weight," said Ray. "If (agriculture) is not perpetuated in some kind of economic fashion that's feasible, what's going to happen to this ground?"

For now, the Hoppaughs are content watching their herd move across the paddocks of green grass and are thoroughly enjoying the benefits of grazing.

"It's more simplistic than you think. If you're going to go to grazing, you haven't changed Bossy's requirements," Ray said. "It's just that you're trying to provide for them from a different and more economical source - something that hasn't been touched with our tractors and diesel fuel and things like that. And, if you're maintaining your pastures and managing them properly, they're definitely better quality than you can harvest and store, so you use that and take advantage of that. But, if it's not available outside, you must provide it in the barn."

ADADC, Upstate Farms Conduct Media Training

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The American Dairy Association & Dairy Council, Inc. and Upstate Farms Milk Cooperative recently teamed up to train area staff and farmers on media and crisis communications.

The training took place at the Upstate offices in LeRoy, N.Y. on April 4. T.J. Walker of Media Training Worldwide trained the group on crisis communications, basic media skills, and how to develop key messages. All trainees had the opportunity to go on camera to be interviewed, as well as view the interview for critiquing.

"The training was excellent. Everyone was pleased and enjoyed the interaction. We found out things about ourselves — good and bad," said Bill Young, director of member services for Upstate Farms. "We learned how to improve our messages when dealing with the media."

Various issues were mentioned dealing with the dairy industry. Whether it was environmental or animal health issues, the group was trained to develop three to four key messages that will help them when being interviewed. They were also trained on techniques that will help them in interviews such as asking the reporters what the focus of the interview will be, and letting them (the farmers) know that they have the option to stall an interview to prepare.

Farmers are urged to alert ADADC to any media stories that could negatively affect dairy at (315) 472-9143. There is a staff member on call 24 hours a day to answer any media questions. The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. is an advertising and promotion agency representing farmers in New York, northern New Jersey, and northeastern Pennsylvania.

Upstate Farms members John Gould and Ron McCormick field questions from T.J. Walker at the media training workshop.

Pa. Third In Ice Cream Production

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Ice Cream Production Up six Percent: Pennsylvania manufacturers produced 56.0 million gallons of ice cream in 2002, third nationally. Lowfat ice cream production totaled 12.0 million gallons, down 46 percent from 2001. Milk sherbet production, at 2.2 million gallons, is 8 percent lower than the previous year.

Butter Production Increases Eight Percent: The state's processors churned out 80.6 million pounds of butter during 2002, an increase of 8 percent from 2001.

Production of all cheese, excluding cottage cheese, totaled 374.1 million pounds in 2002, up 2 percent from 2001. Production of all types of Italian cheeses decreased slightly to 251.7 million pounds. Production of Swiss cheese, at 9.0 million pounds, was up 14 percent from last year.

FARMING On The Edge — By George DeVault

own prices. We don't take anything to the auction. We don't wholesale.

In the long run, we firmly believe, road frontage is much more valuable for a roadside market than for housing lots.

But how do you diversify something like a dairy farm? Cows still have to be fed and milked at least twice a day, every day.

It may be easier than you think if you start small and go slow. You probably already have a garden. Make it bigger this year. Build a hoophouse or high tunnel to extend your growing season in spring and fall. For about $1,000 you can build a simple structure that can earn twice that amount the first year, depending on your crops and markets.

We have three high tunnels now. They produce crops — and income — from early March through Christmas. They work so well that a friend of ours farms only in the winter months in high tunnels — in Maine!

Until your own crops come in, partner up with your neighbors and "direct market" their produce. Sure beats taking it to the auction and selling it for whatever a middleman will give you. That way you can set your own prices and make sure that more of the food dollar ends up where it rightfully belongs — in your pocket.

But where do you start? How do you "direct market?" How do you reach consumers? How do you know what to charge? (One veteran farmers' market vendor I know always takes the supermarket price — and adds at least 5 percent!) How do you sell at a farmers' market? Where do you buy a high tunnel? How do you build one? What do you grow?

That's only natural. We wrestled with those and many other questions not long ago. One thing we quickly learned is that there is no magic formula. One size does not fit all. What works for us may not work for you. The answers are as varied as individual farms and farmers.

Whatever you do, advised USDA's Dorr, don't be in a big hurry to build an expensive new barn (keep digging the hole deeper, as Hightower would say) and fill it with a few thousands sows. Hog prices are already low enough. The law of supply and demand is brutally clear: Increasing production eventually drives prices even lower.

And this isn't a Sears barn from the turn of the last century that will remain in service for up to 75 years, added Dorr. The life span of a new livestock confinement facility, he said, is five years, tops. Then what do you do?

Many farmers around the country are finding a less expensive option — with a quicker and higher return — in pastured poultry, chickens, and even ducks for meat. It seems a natural for dairy farmers who already have plenty of pasture and temporary electric fencing.

Yes, once you stop digging that hole and take a good look around, you'll quickly discover a lot of new, profitable possibilities in just about every direction.

So greet newcomers with smiles and lots of good things to eat, rather than "no trespassing" signs. Remember, just like you, each and every one of them likes to eat at least three times a day. They're going to buy their food from someone. It might as well be you.

Editor's note: With his wife and 25-year-old son, George DeVault raises certified organic vegetables near Emmaus. He is a Food and Society Policy Fellow with the Institute for Agriculture and Trade Policy in a program funded by the Kellogg Foundation. Brown Swiss Calves Sell Well In Maryland

FREDERICK, Md. — A large crowd of enthusiastic buyers attended the 29th Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale, conducted recently at the Frederick Fairgrounds, Frederick, Md. Another successful chapter was written in sale history, as 36 animals were sold for an average of $2,200.

"Considering the economic times in the dairy industry, we believe this was another great sale, as consignors and buyers were very happy with the results," said Dennis Smith, one of the sale managers. "We did not have one calf sell for under a $1,000, which continues to show the demand for Brown Swiss.

The sale has gained a track record for show-quality animals, Bellringers, and All-American nominations and winners. Cindy Warner commented that there were several repeat buyers, as well as new buyers from 10 different states. Only four animals stayed in Maryland.

"The sale had exceptional quality all the way through, both type-wise, and pedigree-wise," said Warner, sales manager.

Dublin Hills Misty ET topped the sale at $5,700. With crowd participation, as well as cell phone bids from as far as Texas, Steve and Carol Watts from Killbuck, Ohio were the successful bidders on the December calf with a strong maternal showline. She was the consignment of Dennis and Robin Smith, Dublin Hill Farm, Woodsboro, Md.

The second high-selling animal was Towpath Jetway Shara-ET, a September calf that proves she can win, as she was recently named junior champion at the New York Spring Show. She sold for $4,800 to Katie McKissick, New Castle. This eye-catching calf was the consignment of Kelly DeMay, Palmyra, N.Y.

Selling as the third high calf was Top Acres Gordon Tabby, a long, tall, and strong September calf with All-American potential. Bidding was active on this special calf from the Top Acres herd, and received the last bid for $4,000 from Ross and David Conway, Jefferson, N.H.

Another successful part of the sale is the offering of outstanding embryo packages featuring genetics from leading cow families. There were eight embryo packages, consisting of three in each package. They sold for an average of $1,263.75. The high selling pack was three Top Acres Jet Pilots out of Top Acres EJ Whizzbang "4E-93," an All-American many times as well as a National Total Performance Winner. The embryos sold for $710 each, and went to Tom and Bonnie Remsberg, Middletown, Md. Wayne Sliker, St. Paris, Ohio was the consignor.

All calves sold are automatically entered in the Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Futurity with the first payment made by the Maryland Brown Swiss Association. The tenth annual Futurity will take place Sunday, Aug. 31 during the Maryland State Fair in Timonium, with Brian Garrison of Ohio doing the judging. All breeders are welcome, and animals are now being accepted for the 2005 Futurity. For more information, contact Cindy Warner at (301) 371-5206.

Brown Swiss Calf Proceeds To Fund Youth Trip To Europe

FREDERICK, Md. — The Maryland Brown Swiss Association has always been a great supporter of the Junior Brown Swiss Association on state and national levels — and this year was no exception. This year, the association recognized the 2002 Maryland 4-H Dairy Cattle Judging Team for their accomplishments.

Maryland, along with the 4-H team members from Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, have been invited to participate in an international competition at the Royal Highland Exposition in Edinburgh, Scotland this summer. Many different fundraising activities are presently underway to help support the 17-day trip through Scotland, England, Belgium, Germany, and Switzerland.

At the recent Mid-Atlantic Brown Swiss Calf Sale, an outstanding calf from Ed Fry of Fair Hill Farm was donated with all proceeds going to support the judging team's travels. The calf donated was Fair Hill Dom Dara. Hilltop Acres PR Dominate is number five on the Brown Swiss sire summary, and is a sire of sons in A.I., as has sired some impressive show daughters.

This calf started the sale with a final bid of $2,800 going to a syndicate. The buyers then donated the calf back to the sale, and she resold for $1,800 to Cole Keyser, Esperante, N.Y.

Our Dairy Plus Special Technology issue on June 28 focuses on ways producers can use the latest technology to aid them in improving efficiency and expanding the bottom line. Included are reports on a freestall sand separator, robotic milking, and other new items. Also included are a stray voltage update, veterinary reports, cooperative and dairy business news, and a calendar of events.

34 More Pennsylvania Farms Approved For Preservation

HARRISBURG (Dauphin co.) — Secretary of Agriculture Dennis C. Wolff recently announced that the State Agricultural Land Preservation Board approved 34 farms totaling 3,006 acres for preservation at its May meeting.

The latest approvals raise the state preservation totals to 2,166 farms and 255,264 acres since 1989. Lancaster County leads Pennsylvania with 390 farms and 35,036 acres preserved. Berks County follows with 278 farms and 33,212 acres preserved. These totals maintain Pennsylvania's tradition as a leader in farmland preservation in the United States.

To preserve Pennsylvania farmland, the State Agricultural Land Preservation Board purchases the development rights, also called agricultural conservation easements, on farms throughout the Commonwealth. Currently, 53 counties participate in the Farmland Preservation Program.

In addition, the Department of Agriculture administers the Land Trust Reimbursement Program to further preserve productive agricultural lands. Through this program, 3,249 acres have been preserved by eight trusts.

For more information about Pennsylvania's farmland preservation efforts, please contact the Bureau of Farmland Preservation at (717) 783-3167.

The following farms were preserved at the May 15 meeting of the State Agricultural Land Preservation Board:

Easement Purchases:

Berks County: Jacob H. and Florence M. Leiby, Perry Township; Paul E. and Lucinda Moyer, Jefferson Township; Dale L. and Dawn K. Snader, Tulpehocken Township; David R. and Joy H. Stutzman, Greenwich and Richmond Township.

Erie County: Matthew M. and Jill E. Bartlett, North East Township; Clyde and Judith Burnham, North East Township.

Lancaster County: Lowell B. and Daphne A. Fry, Rapho Township; Graywood Farms LLC, Fulton Township; Haverstick-Fisher, West Lampeter Township; Haverstick-King, West Lampeter Township; Rohrer Dairy Farm, Manor Township.

Lebanon County: Ronald A. and D. Lorriane Royer, South Annville Township; Robert E. Kreider, West Cornwall Township.

Lehigh County: Ida Huhn, Lower Milford Township.

Potter County: Albert and Erin Mitchell, West Branch Township.

Westmoreland County: Robert F. and Barbara Clark; Roy D. and Linda Clark # 1, Unity Township; Robert F. and Barbara Clark, Roy D. and Linda Clark # 2, Unity Township; Robert H. and Loretta L. Zundel, Salem Township.

In addition to the easements purchased with Commonwealth funds, Chester, Lancaster, Lehigh and Union Counties received reimbursement for incidental costs of easements purchased with County funds on 16 farms totaling 1,047 acres.

Frederick County Pasture Walk Set

EMMITSBURG, Md. — The next pasture walk in Frederick County, Md. will take place Thursday, June 19 from 10 a.m. until noon. David and Angie Leach of Wet Meadows Farm will be hosting the event.

A grazing operation has been established for several years on this rented farm near Emmitsburg. The 90-cow dairy herd consists of Holsteins and Jerseys. The entire 90-acre farm is seeded to permanent pasture. They have a variety of perennial grasses established, including timothy and perennial ryegrass. Water is available in every paddock by using a water tank on wheels.

Participants may also visit the single-sided parlor. The previous tenants converted the original three-unit side-opening parlor into a six-unit herringbone. The Leaches converted it into a 10-unit parabone to improve cow throughput.

The purpose of the pasture walk is to allow livestock producers a chance to learn more about the use of rotational grazing as a way to increase agricultural profitability. Most of the time will be spent walking through the pastures discussing plant growth, fencing, watering systems, and animal performance. This part of Frederick County has been exceptionally dry, so we will devote some of our discussion to managing grazing systems under dry conditions.

Wet Meadows Farm is located on E. Grimes Road. From Frederick, travel north on Rt. 15. After passing Mt. Saint Mary's College, turn right onto Old Frederick Rd. Take an immediate left onto Keysville Rd. Go four miles. Turn right onto E. Grimes Rd. The farm will be on your right. Watch for pasture walk signs.

For more information, call Stan Fultz at (301) 631-3578.

U.S. Cheese Output Up 4 Percent From Last Year

Total U.S. cheese production in 2002, excluding cottage cheese, was 8.60 billion pounds, 4.1 percent above the 2001 production level. Wisconsin was the leading state again, with 26.0 percent of total production.

Production of butter in the U.S. during 2002 totaled 1.36 billion pounds, 10.0 percent more than was produced in 2001. California, the leading state, accounted for 28.0 percent of this production, followed by Wisconsin with 25.3 percent.

Ice cream production in the U.S. totaled 989 million gallons, up 1.9 percent from 2001. Lowfat ice cream, which checked in at 362 million gallons, was down 4.9 percent and milk sherbet, at 54.6 million gallons, was up 3.8 percent from the previous year. Frozen yogurt production, at 73.4 million gallons, gained 3.2 percent.

Whole milk used for dairy products used 63.0 percent of all milk marketed in the U.S., up 2 percent from last year. Whole milk used for manufacturing all dairy products totaled 106 billion pounds, 6 percent more than 2001.

Baleage Workshop Set For Cattle Producers

LINDLEY, N.Y. — A workshop has been set for producers considering making baleage to feed cattle.

The event is scheduled for June 16 from 7 p.m. - 9 p.m. at the farm of Al and Emmagene Cisco, Lindley, N.Y.

Participants will learn about the equipment needed and how the baleage process is carried out.

The workshop will feature

- a large round baler in action;
- wrapping demonstrations with a bale tuber and a single 3-point hitch bale wrapper;
- discussions about types and amount of wrap to use;
- how to know when it's time to bale;
- determining dry matter content;
- taking core samples;
- options for feeding baleage; and
- group discussion of personal experiences with baleage.

Following the baleage portion, of the evening participants will tour the Cisco's farm and their Angus/Gelbvieh commercial cow-calf herd. The evening will end with ice cream sundaes and root beer floats.

There is no charge to attend this workshop. However, registration is appreciated. Please contact Steuben County Cornell Cooperative Extension at (607) 664-2300 or Tioga County Cooperative Extension at (570) 724-9120 to register.

A June 30 raindate has been scheduled.

Directions: From Rt. 15 use the Rt. 5 exit. The farm is three miles from the exit, just past C&F Greenhouse.

PENNSTATE

Land And Community
A Penn State focus on rural/urban issues

College of Agricultural Sciences

Tim Collins
Capitol Region
Community and Economic Development Agent

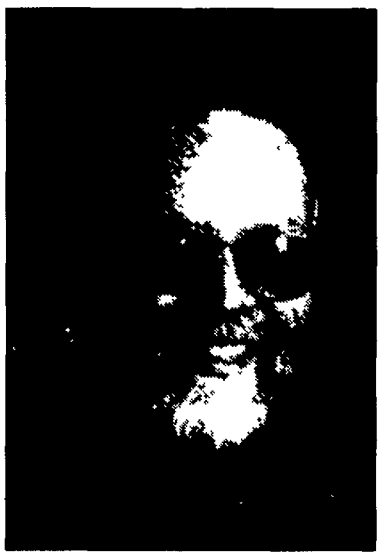
"Land and Community" is a central theme in the work of Capitol Region Community and Economic Development Team members. Our new monthly column reflects our educational efforts with both farmers and nonfarmers as individuals and as part of the communities where they live.

Rural land and communities are woven together. For centuries, farming has been integral to the fabric of rural southeastern and southcentral Pennsylvania's economic, political, and social life. Yet, for many, agriculture is changing fairly quickly. At the same time, our communities are changing as they are absorbed into the expanding East Coast urban corridor.

A new publication from the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development, Planning for Agriculture, notes two trends that have affected Pennsylvania's economy and the agricultural sector: shifting land use and increased public concern for the environment. The publication points out that most farmers are in something of a double bind. First, they face highly competitive global markets that squeeze their profitability. Second, nearby development puts them closer to nonfarm neighbors than ever before, increasing the potential for conflict. New development tends to push up taxes and may bring about increased restrictions on farming operations.

Communities in our area also are in a bind. As populations grow, they face extremely complicated land use problems, including water quality and quantity. How do they preserve agriculture in the face of rapid growth? How do they deal with the declining number of farms brought about by the squeeze on profits and the lure of the high price farmers can fetch by selling the land for housing or other new construction? How do communities encourage and retain ag-related businesses, such as equipment and feed dealers? What other types of businesses should they support? How do they deal with new residents who love the view, but don't necessarily understand how farms work?



Tim Collins

In the coming months, members of the Capital Region Community and Economic Development Team column will look at some of these issues from their various perspectives. We will address how we can sustain farming and community life in changing times. Some of us will offer tips that farmers can use to improve their operations. Others will discuss the relationship between farms and communities.

Here's a tentative lineup of what we have planned over the next year:

- "Getting started selling to restaurants" and "Agritourism as a potential pathway to sustainability" by Steve Bogash from Franklin County.
- "Local governments and land use planning" and "What is a 'sustainable community?" by Tim Collins from Adams County.
- "Benefits of business planning" and "Starting an agricultural business" by Lynn Kime from Adams County.
- "Conservation funding programs for farmers and landowners" and Income from woodlot management" by George Hurd from Franklin County.
- "Monitoring a well during drought conditions" and "Water testing to protect your family" by Tom McCarty from Cumberland County.
- "Living to farm or farming to live" and "What is value added?" by Winifred McGee from Lebanon County.

If you have any comments or column ideas, please contact Tim Collins at tuc1@psu.edu, or (717)334-6271, ext.317. I look forward to hearing from you.

'Timber 2003' June 13-14

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Forest Products Association (PFPA) announced that "Timber 2003" will be conducted here at the Pennsylvania Farm Show Complex, Friday and Saturday, June 13-14.

"We're very proud to offer a venue in which the forest products industry — the state's fourth largest industry — can share its services, equipment, and technology," said Paul Lyskava, PFPA executive director. " 'Timber 2003' is an excellent networking opportunity for the providers of all of the essential components of this modern and productive industry."

Lyskava noted this is expected to be the largest wood products industry trade show in the Mid-Atlantic this year.

Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on both June 13 and 14. The Website is www.hlma.org/timber2003.

Exhibits will be in the new exhibition hall of the Farm Show and also will be set up outside of the complex. In addition to forestry, logging, saw milling, pallet manufacturing, and trucking, there will be service and business assistance exhibitors.

Visitors can tour the Pennsylvania WoodMobile, a traveling public education exhibit. The WoodMobile truck and trailer were donated by Deer Park Lumber, Tunkhannock, whose president, Ron Andrews, is chair of "Timber 2003."

More than a dozen free seminars are being offered to attendees during the event, including sessions on marketing, emerging technology, current issues, and sustainable forestry programs.

There is a $7 admission fee, with no admission for children under age 16. There also is a $5 parking charge at the Farm Show Complex.

Milk Tester Recounts Long, Productive Career

DAVE LEFEVER
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — What job requires waking up earlier than a dairy farmer in the morning? Jay Risser knows the answer — he lived it for 50 years.

"To a certain extent, I was sleep-deprived," Risser said of his career as a milk tester with the Pennsylvania Dairy Herd Improvement Association (DHIA).

"You've got to make up your mind, if you do this job, you're going to have to get up early and keep ungodly hours."

Risser demonstrates the centrifuge that he used to perform butterfat tests in the early years of his career as a milk tester.

Risser retired this past April, after a half century of rising at 3 a.m. to help dairy farmers make better management decisions.

Milk testing, like dairy farming, has seen enormous change during Risser's tenure. Since he first went to work, DHIA evolved from a simple, hands-on milk and feed cost analysis to a high-tech service that offers a wide gamut of herd improvement tools.

Risser grew up on a diversified livestock and produce farm between Lancaster and Lampeter. His start as a milk tester came in the early 1950s during the Korean War, when the young Risser chose to join the alternative service because of his beliefs as a conscientious objector to war.

The decision took him to Washington County in western Pennsylvania, where he carried out his two-year assignment testing milk on dairy farms. The logistics of the job were a lot different than they are for milk testers today.

"We'd arrive at the farm in the evening and stay overnight," Risser said. "(The farm family) would give us three meals." During his first year in Washington County, Risser was even treated to a special feast the week before Thanksgiving — from a dairy family concerned about his holiday plans.

The newer milking sampling containers, left, are a big improvement over the old "Whirl Paks," Risser said.

"They asked me if I was going to make it home for Thanksgiving," he said. "When I told them I didn't think I would, they asked me in for lunch and served a full-course turkey dinner."

During a typical farm visit, Risser would collect milk samples from each cow for the evening and morning milkings, meter and record milk production, test for butterfat, and calculate feed costs.

He would finish the whole job, including a complete, hand-written report, before leaving the farm.

Risser's work garnered appreciation and respect from the farmers in Washington County.

"When I left there, a Jersey breeder said, 'We were glad to have you, Jay. We needed you more than the army did,'" Risser recalled.

On his return to Lancaster County, Risser decided to continue working for the DHIA. In the beginning, he tested milk for farmers in the Ephrata area, then made a shift toward the Penn Manor area in the western part of the county.

"I saw that there were large herds in that area and I decided to move in that direction," he said. Risser spent a large part of his career testing for farmers in

THIN ISN'T IN

Thin females may be popular in fashion magazines, but in the breeding shed and milking parlor it will cost you money.

First estrus is a function of both age and weight. Therefore, heavier heifers breed earlier, enter the milking herd earlier and offer a return on investment earlier. Sweetlix GainPro® Poured Blocks put added weight on heifers for just pennies per day.

Easy to use and proven to work, the economical supplement comes in convenient, non-returnable plastic tubs. Patented EnProAl® technology results in a consistent block with known consumption rates. Simply place tubs in the pasture with replacement heifers for a convenient self-fed supplement program.

Milk Tester

western Lancaster County.

About 12 years ago, his circuit returned to the eastern half of the county, in the areas around New Holland and Farmersville.

Risser recounted changes in milk testing technology and dairy production over the past 50 years.

At the beginning of his career, Risser said, a herd producing an average of 400 pounds of butterfat per cow was doing well. Today, a herd needs to average close to 1,000 pounds butterfat (with corresponding milk production) to be considered "good," Risser said. Advances in artificial insemination (AI) and genetics, herd management, and feeding are the chief reasons for the production increases, according to Risser.

For many years, testing for butterfat was one of the most time-consuming parts of Risser's job. Equipped with a portable, electric-powered centrifuge and a jug of sulfuric acid, he conducted the butterfat tests for each cow himself — right on the farm. The process involved "spinning" each milk sample twice in the 24-sample centrifuge, along with specified amounts of sulfuric acid and hot water. Spinning the mixture caused the fat to rise into the narrow neck of a special sample container. The butterfat percentage was read by using gradated marks on the neck of the container.

The sulfuric acid was dangerous to handle, Risser remembered. He told about the time when he accidentally spilled a jug of it on himself.

By taking quick action, Risser was able to wash the corrosive agent off his skin in time, "but the clothes were goners," he said.

Risser calculated individual and total butterfat production for each cow from the butterfat percentage and milk production figures. He also performed a feed-cost analysis.

"It was an all-day job," Risser said. "When you left the farm, the herd records were complete."

The job changed in the early 1970s when the Pennsylvania DHIA began sending its milk samples to Penn State. At that point, the university lab took over the butterfat testing. It soon began to offer new services, too, including protein and somatic cell counts (SCC) tests.

At that time, a farm wife asked Risser what he was going to do with all his time, since he no longer had to perform butterfat tests.

"I'm going to shave every day," Risser quipped.

The addition of more herds to his circuit over the years, however, kept Risser's schedule full. He continued to wake at 3 a.m each morning in order to "have a leisurely breakfast" before driving to the dairy farm scheduled for the day. Normally, he logged a six-and-a-half day work week.

Higher production in recent decades served to shuffle the schedule. When some producers began milking three times a day, Risser sometimes found himself in the barn at odder hours than before. Having worked a few decades on a more or less consistent morning and evening milking schedule, the adjustment was a new challenge for him.

"The midnight shift got to me," he said.

Another significant change Risser has seen in the DHIA program is that many herds today are tested at only one milking per month, alternating between a.m and p.m. from month to month. In earlier years, testers kept to a strict twice-per-month schedule.

A particularly trying time came in the early 1990s when a group from Lancaster County elected to withdraw from the Pennsylvania DHIA and form a new association. Risser was the only tester in the county to remain with Pennsylvania DHIA. A number of farmers chose not to go along with the break, however, and Risser's circuit "was kept full to the end," he said.

Even with all its hardships, hazards, and inconveniences, Risser ultimately found his profession rewarding.

"What I got the greatest satisfaction out of was to see a young fellow I could give a few pointers to and see him go with it," Risser said.

He also enjoyed the bit of flexibility his schedule offered.

"You had a given circuit to do within a month. If you worked ahead, you could take a few days off," he said.

Risser has lived with diabetes for the past 15 years, a condition he said he was able to manage well while continuing to work a normal schedule.

The rhythm of the tester's job — working several hours a time during milking shifts, then being able to take a break — was "made to order" for a diabetic, he said.

Now he will be allowed to exercise even more flexibility in his daily life. One of the things he'll devote more time to is his love of vegetable and flower gardening.

Risser lives with his wife, Lois Anne, on the property where he grew up just outside of Lancaster. He and Lois Anne have three grown children — Carol Ann, Ron, and Mary Ellen — and four grandchildren.

Risser summed up his career as a milk tester in a way that makes it clear why he stayed with it for five decades.

"It's been a joy to me, helping farmers with their operation," he said.

USDA Announces First Meeting Of Biotechnology Advisory Committee

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The USDA's Advisory Committee on Biotechnology and 21st Century Agriculture (AC21) will conduct its first meeting June 16-17 in Washington, D.C.

The meeting will take place in the Vista C Room at the Wyndham Washington Hotel, 1400 M Street, N.W., from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., both days.

The AC21 consists of 18 members representing the biotechnology industry, the seed industry, international plant genetics research, farmers, food manufacturers, commodity processors and shippers, environmental and consumer groups, along with academic researchers, including a bioethicist.

The committee will develop an approach to examine the impacts of agricultural biotechnology on American agriculture over the next five to 10 years meeting this task. There also will be preliminary presentations and introductory discussions on two sub-areas of the committee's work: new biotechnology-derived nonfood uses of row crops and impacts of biotechnology throughout the entire food production and distribution system.

For more information, contact Dr. Michael Schechtman at (202) 720-3817 or via e-mail at mschechtman@ars.usda.gov at least three business days before the meeting.

Pa., N.J. Agriculture Secretaries Meet To Discuss Animal Health

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Agriculture Secretary Dennis C. Wolff announced that he and New Jersey Agriculture Secretary Charles M. Kuperus will meet with the Animal Health and Diagnostic Commission (AHDC) to discuss animal health issues at their June meeting.

"As a result of a shared border and common agriculture industries, Pennsylvania and New Jersey have a strong history of cooperation in animal agriculture," Wolff said. "Our cooperation has included surveillance for diseases such as avian influenza in poultry and for pseudorabies in swine. I look forward to continued cooperation with New Jersey on agricultural issues."

Wolff added that Pennsylvania would certainly be looking with interest at New Jersey's new Humane Standards Rule and its potential impact on the agriculture industry.

Created by the Pennsylvania General Assembly in 1988, the AHDC is a fifteen-member departmental administrative commission designed to function as a quality assurance mechanism in the animal industry. AHDC overseas a broad range of animal issues, such as animal health concerns, disease surveillance, field investigations, research projects, and emergency management. Through recommendations provided by the Field Investigation Committee, the AHDC identifies emerging issues that impact the food animal populations and other animal health problems.

	CATTLE	CALVES
THIS WEEK	3096	1558
LAST WEEK	1922	1083
LAST YEAR	2417	1668

Compared to last week, slaughter steers sold steady to 1.00 higher early in the week. Late week sales were fully 2.00-3.00 lower, with sales a full 4.00 lower at times. The early week runs featured some very well fed steers, which sold up to 90.00. The late week run was comprised of some hard-fed steers as well, however there were over 850 head on offer, which overrode the demand. Prices for high Choice and Prime steers a year ago at this time ranged from 68.00-72.00, with Choice steers trading from 67.00-69.00. As you can imagine, local producers are thrilled to be receiving such good money for their fats, especially during a time of year that historically begins the downturn through the summer months. Nationally, the direct feed yards have been moving live steers throughout the week at mostly 80.00, which is steady, with dressed sales also mostly steady at 128.00. The boxed beef market is still extremely bullish, as both heavy and light Choice carcasses are from 149.89 and 149.08 as of Thursday. Slaughter Holstein steers sold steady to 2.00 lower this week. There were a few more slaughter heifers this week when compared to last, although most of them were over finished Yield Grade 4's and 5's, and therefore a comparison was not made. Lean slaughter cows sold 1.00-2.00 lower early in the week, trading weak to another 2.00 lower late. Breaking and Boning cows sold fully 4.00 lower early in the week, with the fleshy cows also trading weak to 2.00 lower at week's end. The cutter cow carcass cutout value was sharply lower for the week, trending 5.85 lower on Thursday alone. A few area packers have decided to pull out of local sale barns until cow prices get a little less bullish. Slaughter bulls sold 2.00-3.00 higher early in the week, with closing prices trending weaker. The reported supply this week in Lancaster County included an increase in slaughter steers with receipts totaling 1335 head, 183 heifers, 1170 cows, 154 bulls, with 254 head of feeder cattle.

Slaughter Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-4 1120-1480 lbs 83.00-87.00, 86.00-89.00 early in the week with several 1310-1445 lb singles from 89.00- 90.00. Choice 2-3 1055-1480 lbs 79.00-83.25, early in the week 82.25-86.75, Charolais-crosses 80.00-86.75, heavyweights 1495-1545 lbs 78.75-82.75. Choice 4 few full 1110-1335 lbs 77.00-80.00. Few higher yielding Choice 1-2 1270-1460 lbs 82.00-85.50. Select and low Choice 2-3 1035-1425 lbs 76.25- 80.25, early in the week 80.00-83.60. Select 1-2 1040-1495 lbs 74.00-78.50, early in the week 77.00-81.75, high dressing up to 84.00, heavy 1600-1760 lbs 73.00-77.00.

Holstein Steers: High Choice and Prime 2-3 1295-1590 lbs 70.25-77.25. Choice 2-3 1135-1535 lbs 69.00-73.25, up to 75.75 early in the week. Select and low Choice 2-3 1180-1550 lbs 67.75-70.00, up to 73.00 early in the week, heavy 1610-1690 lbs 60.50-66.00. Select 1-2 1135-1595 lbs 64.00-67.00. Standard 1-2 1180-1465 lbs 55.00-61.75.

Slaughter Heifers: High Choice and Prime 3, mostly 4 1045-1470 lbs 80.50- 85.75. High Choice and Prime 4-5 1060-1220 lbs 76.00-79.50. Few Choice 4-5 1040-1340 lbs 70.00-74.00. Select and low Choice 2-3 980-1435 lbs 73.00- 79.00. Few higher yielding Select 1-2 1150-1375 lbs 76.00-80.75.

Slaughter Bulls: Yield Grade 1 1005-2230 lbs 50.25-63.50, several fancy high dressers 61.00-72.00. Yield Grade 2 1030-2520 lbs 45.50-52.25.

Calf Summary: Compared to last week, veal calves sold steady to 7.00 lower early in the week, with late week prices closing steady to firm. Holstein bull calves suitable for special-fed veal barns sold sharply lower on Monday and Tuesday as buyers adjusted the 200.00 bull market that was reported for the prior week. Therefore, by weeks end prices were mostly steady. Holstein heifers sold with a firmer undertone, as prices were able to reach 470.00 again. Finished northeast special-fed veal was mostly 10.00-11.00 higher for the week on very good demand and light offerings. 215-275 lb hide off veal carcasses jumped to 200.00-220.00 on a hot basis, that is sharply higher from the 180.00- 190.00 packers have been offering over the past few months. Contract calves slaughtered this week were from 185.00-200.00. Many local veal feeders are thrilled to be receiving up to 220.00 for their fat calves, however, most of them are worried about the Canadian border reopening and flooding the market, which would greatly underhand the current prices. This week the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture graded 893 head of bulls and heifers at the two graded sales in Lancaster County, compared to 726 head last week.

Veal Calves: Standard and Utility 50-160 lbs 20.00-45.00, weaker down to 11.00.

Dairy Alliance Meetings To Focus On Profitabilty And Cash Flow

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Dairy producers have dealt with a multitude of challenges during the past year. Weather challenges, from drought to excess rain, coupled with low milk prices have can caused considerable stress and have made it difficult for producers to stay focused on long range objectives. As an old saying goes, "When you're up to your behind in alligators, its tough to remember that your initial objective was to drain the swamp."

Despite the downturn in the dairy economy, there are some producers who are still managing to make financial progress. With that in mind, Penn State Dairy Alliance has scheduled a series of meetings, in conjunction with AgChoice Farm Credit and Monsanto Dairy Business, to give producers and dairy industry professionals an opportunity to discuss how top performing dairy businesses are handling the current price environment.

Jason Karszes, farm management specialist and Dairy Farm Business Summary coordinator with Cornell's Pro-Dairy program, will present "The Characteristics of Highly Profitable Dairies." Using figures from New York's Dairy Farm Business Summary, Jason will show how the "Top Performers" did in 2002 as compared to 2001 and in comparison to other dairies in the summary for 2002. He will also relay information on what the "Top Performers" are doing to deal with the current business environment. The sessions will end up with a round table discussion.

Meeting dates and locations:

- Thursday, June 19, 2003 Dairy Alliance "Busines$ense for Industry Professionals" Update 10:30 a.m. -12:30 p.m.(lunch afterwards), Penn State Harrisburg Campus.
- Thursday, June 19, 2003 Dairy Alliance "Busines$ense" Producer Round Table Discussion 6:30 p.m.-9:30 p.m. (dinner included) Rillo's Restaurant, Carlisle.
- Friday, June 20, 2003 Dairy Alliance "Busines$ense" Producer Round Table Discussion 10:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. (lunch afterward) Shady Maple Smorgasbord Restaurant, East Earl.

For additional information about these meetings or to register to attend a meeting at a location near you, please call the Dairy Alliance Office at (888) 373-PADA or e-mail HYPERLINK "mailto:bhilty@psu.edu" bhilty@psu.edu. Space is limited, so please register soon.

Penn State Dairy Science Club Wraps Up Busy Year

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Penn State Dairy Science Club completed a busy spring semester with the Penn State Dairy Exposition and the annual recognition banquet.

This year's Expo champion was Maggie Moore from Mercer.

Reserve overall champion was Joshua Hushon from Airville. This year's judges were David Fava from Bentleyville and Amy Packard, Elizabethtown.

At the annual recognition banquet, Cassie Miller from McVeytown was honored as Exposition chair. Ken Raney of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association presented the Robert Rumler award to show manager Tammy Menke, Greenville.

Joel Krall receives Outstanding First Year Member award from Jess Worobey.

Raney also presented awards to Jeremy Fearnley, Nittany Lion Fall Classic Chair, and Meghan Moody and Joel Krall, Pennsylvania Holstein Quiz Bowl chairs.

Lori Connelly of Pennsylvania Furnace was honored as this year's Davey Award for outstanding senior in dairy science. Lori served as Expo chair in 2002 and organized and chaired the first Osteochallenge Run/Walk, an event to promote the value of dairy products to good bone health. Lori was active in almost every Dairy Science club activity and also served as Coaly Honor Society president.

Karl Pollock, Marion Center, was named winner of the Branding Award. This award is presented to a junior who demonstrates humility, excellent organizational skills, and who often works behind the scenes. Karl was Spring Judging Contest chair.

Joel Krall, Lebanon, was named Outstanding First Year Member. Joel served as co-chair of the Pennsylvania Holstein Quiz Bowl and was recently elected Cheese Sale assistant chair for 2003.

The 2002 Penn State Dairy Cattle Judging Teams were also recognized at the banquet. The team of Emme Mellott, Joshua Hushon, Melinda Martin, and Daniel Fyock was high for Holsteins and fifth overall at the National Intercollegiate Contest.

The team comprised of Mellott, Katherine Harwick, Jacob Hushon, and Meghan Moody placed fourth overall and second in reasons at the Louisville contest.

Other students honored at the event included Maribeth Ozog, Dairyman editor; Crystal DuBois and Amy Habecker, Junior All-Breeds Convention chairs; Katie Suba, Penn State dairy princess; and Joshua Hushon, past president.

Try These 'Udderly' Fantastic Contest Entry Recipes

June Dairy Month is here!

The deadline for Lancaster Farming's June Dairy Month Recipe Drawing is past. But the beginning for collecting "udderly" fantastic recipes is just beginning.

Starting with today's issue and throughout the month of June, we will print the recipe entries. Thanks to the readers who also included photos and a writeup about their families. Again and again, our subscribers write to say how much they love to read these entries and how many favorite recipes they find in these issues.

You won't be disappointed. This year's entries continue the tradition: Lancaster Farming readers sent in "udderly" fantastic recipes. The recipes are printed in no particular order. A list of readers' names who will receive one of the $500 worth of prizes will be printed in the June 28th issue.

Until then, happy reading and cooking.

Susan and Gene Hess and daughters enjoy their dairy farm.

The Elmer and Hannah King family with their eight children and a son-in-law write that they never have a dull moment on their dairy farm.

PEACHY CHEESE PIE

¾ cup flour
1 3½-ounce package instant vanilla pudding
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 egg
½ cup milk
3 tablespoons butter
1 8-ounce package cream cheese
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons peach juice
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Fresh or canned peaches

Combine flour, pudding, baking powder, egg, milk, and butter. Put all in greased 9-inch glass pie dish. Arrange fresh or canned peaches in center.

Stir together cream cheese, sugar, and peach juice. Pour on top of peaches. Then sprinkle with mixture of sugar and cinnamon. Bake at 350 degrees for 30-35 minutes.

My husband, Bill, and I have a dairy farm in eastern Berks County. We milk 40 cows and farm about 900-acres in Berks and Lehigh Counties. We have four daughters who are growing up too fast and leaving the nest too soon. The best part of our life is having our two granddaughters living next door to the farm.

CARAMEL APPLE DUMPLINGS

4 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup butter, cut into pieces
1⅓ cup sour cream
8-10 medium tart cooking apples, cored and peeled
⅔ cup sugar
⅔ cup chopped pecans
4 tablespoons butter, softened
Milk

Heat oven to 400 degrees. In medium bowl stir together flour and salt. Cut in 1 cup butter until mixture forms coarse crumbs. With fork, stir in sour cream until mixture leaves sides of bowl and forms a ball. On lightly floured surface roll dough out and cut into 8-10 squares. Place apple in center of each square.

Stir together pecans, sugar, and 4 tablespoons butter. Stuff 1½ tablespoon into cored center of each apple. Fold dough around apple and seal seams well. Place seam side down on greased pan. Brush dough with milk, prick dough with fork. Bake for 35-50 minutes.

Sauce:
2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
½ cup butter
2 cups whipping cream
2 teaspoons brandy extract

Combine sauce ingredients in pan. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally until mixture comes to a full boil. Serve sauce over warm dumplings.

We enjoy entertaining friends and family. This recipe has become a favorite in our home. My husband, Gene, has made these often and they are delicious. We are dairy farmers and milk 100 cows three times a day. We appreciate the good help we have to make this possible. In cooking and baking we use a lot of dairy products and look forward to this feature in Lancaster Farming every June.

FRUIT PIZZA

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar (half brown, half white)
2 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon vanilla

Middle Layer:
1 8-ounce cream cheese
2 cups whipped cream topping
1 cup confectioners' sugar

Add first four ingredients then beat together. Beat in the remaining ingredients. Put into a large greased pan and bake for 10-15 minutes at 350 degrees. Cool; add middle. Top with any kind of

Dairy Princess Shana Mack Represents Susquehanna County

Charlene M. Shupp
Special Correspondent

MONTROSE, Susquehanna Co. — Members of Susquehanna County's dairy community gathered at the Episcopal Church in Montrose on May 23 to watch outgoing county dairy princess Rebecca Place crown Shana Mack as the 2003-04 Susquehanna County Dairy Princess.

Mack, 16, is the daughter of Dean and Jane Mack, Montrose. A junior at the Montrose High School, Shana is excited to serve as dairy princess.

"My goal this year is to show my pride (in the dairy industry) and work very hard to educate the non-farming public on how important it is," said Shana in her acceptance speech.

Shana is a member of the Born to Show 4-H Dairy Club, enjoys playing sports, and owns eight cows. A veteran of dairy promotion, she has previously served as a dairy maid and a dairy ambassador in Susquehanna County.

Dairy maids Lydia Carlin, Ashley Fuller, and Karin Mowry, along with Dairy Ambassadors Ashley Franklin, Amanda Miner, Abby Puzzo and Alyssa Sprout will join Shana ífior the 2003-04 year.

Outgoing Dairy Princess Rebecca Place tearfully reflected on her year as dairy princess. From the excitement of discovering cow erasers in her promotion materials and realizing it was "her turn to be the princess that little girls look up to," to the support of her parents, family, committee, and court through her year, Rebecca noted this was a year to remember.

"I am not ready for this year to be over," said Rebecca, "but I am ready to move on."

Serving as dairy princess has had a huge impact on Rebecca, giving her a new insight into the dairy industry and what she would like to do in the future. Because of her dairy princess experience, Rebecca's future plans include enrolling at Penn State to study journalism and minor in agricultural communications.

In recognition of her year as dairy princess, Susquehanna County Dairy Princess Committee treasurer Peggy Empet presented Rebecca a "$250 scholarship.

Booking chairperson Mary Puzo presented a dairy promotion report for the 2002-03 Dairy Princess Promotion Court, noting that they were like a "championship football team" and if dairy promotion was like professional football, they are the "Super Bowl Champions." To date, their promotion efforts had placed them in contact with an estimated 16,000 people in Susquehanna County.

The 2002-03 dairy maids and ambassadors spoke about their favorite promotions throughout the year. The dairy court also stressed the important skills they gained such as speaking in public and gaining confidence in themselves through their year of service.

The 2003-04 dairy maids and ambassadors provided remarks about themselves and what they would like to do during their year.

At the conclusion of the evening, there was a small reception to congratulate the dairy princess and her court.

Dairy Demand Increases With Help From Key Dairy Checkoff Efforts

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Despite a sluggish U.S. and global economy that affected overall consumer buying, sales of total milk increased in 2002, with the help of farmer-funded dairy promotion, education and research programs.Here are 10 of the dairy checkoff's key accomplishments in 2002:

1. Improved kids' milk-drinking experience in schools. Through a partnership with the American School Food Service Association, the dairy checkoff developed a School Milk Pilot Test to demonstrate that kids will drink more milk in school if certain product enhancements are made. The test, conducted in 146 schools across 10 states, involved more than 100,000 elementary and secondary school students. As a result, milk sales increased an average of 18 percent when schools provided flavored milks (white, chocolate and a third flavor) in single-serve, plastic, resealable containers, and offered these milk enhancements in the school meal feeding line, a la carte and through milk vending machines.

2. Partnered with leading health organizations to position dairy as part of the solution to the nation's childhood obesity epidemic. In October, the checkoff-funded National Dairy Council® co-sponsored a highly publicized "Healthy Schools Summit" in Washington, D.C. The summit challenged health, nutrition, academic, governmental and physical fitness experts to take action to improve children's nutrition and physical fitness in schools.

3. Readied the 2003 launch of "3-A-Day for Stronger Bones," a long-term, consumer education and marketing campaign that aims to increase category dairy sales and address America's calcium crisis. The 3-A-Day program will work to increase consumption of dairy products to three servings a day, as recommended by the USDA Food Guide Pyramid, from the current average of only 1.5 servings. The campaign involves an industry-wide initiative that brings together dairy manufacturers, retailers and other food marketers under a single message to help drive consumers to purchase more calcium-rich milk, cheese and yogurt.

4. Leveraged high-profile milk marketing partnerships with Kellogg's®. In a grocery store tie-in to the blockbuster movie "Spiderman," the dairy checkoff promoted milk on 60 million Kellogg's special edition cereal packages in stores covering two-thirds of retail food sales nationwide. Kellogg's invested $10 million in this partnership. The dairy checkoff and Kellogg's also helped drive consumption through public relations and retail efforts around the placement of "got milk?" on the Kellogg's entry in NASCAR, which has become the nation's most popular spectator sport.

5. Worked with national chain restaurants to drive cheese demand. In partnership with the dairy checkoff, Pizza Hut® launched its "Summer of Cheese™" promotion, during which it used more than 100 million pounds of cheese. During the promotion, Pizza Hut reintroduced the Insider™ pizza, which used a one-pound blend of Parmesan, Mozzarella, Monterey Jack, Provolone and Cheddar cheeses.

6. Integrated efforts to help increase kids' fluid milk consumption. Dairy checkoff fluid milk marketing efforts are targeted mainly to kids six to 12, who are key to increasing fluid milk consumption long term. Milk consumption data reinforced that ongoing checkoff-funded public relations and retail promotion targeted to kids are on the right track. The National Family Opinion's Share of Intake Panel reported that annual fluid milk beverage per capita consumption among kids six to 12 increased to 28 gallons per capita — the highest level in 10 years. Consumption of both white and flavored milk is growing. White milk consumption increased to 24.1 gallons per capita, while flavored milk rose to 3.6 gallons.

7. Enhanced dairy's image among consumers. The dairy checkoff, in partnership with National Milk Producers Federation (NMPF) and other farmer groups, conducted numerous farmer communications training workshops in 2002, helping hundreds of dairy producers across the nation hone their skills on communicating dairy's sound animal care, environmental and food safety practices to consumers. Trained farmer spokespersons conducted desk-side visits to educate editorial staffs from key national consumer media in Washington D.C. and New York City on myths and facts about milk production practices. ADADC Mid East developed its own Farmer Spokesperson Network, involving more than 25 farmers in Ohio, West Virginia and western Pennsylvania. The farmers were media trained and are on standby to respond to local media requests.

8. Identified new uses for dairy ingredients. With the help of dairy checkoff-funded research, a number of dairy product and technology introductions and improvements hit the consumer marketplace in 2002. For example:

- Pizza Hut used a Mozzarella cheese developed from checkoff-funded research in its P'Zone™, a combination pizza and calzone.
- Research led to the development of whey protein polymers that act as thickening agents, thus opening new food ingredient opportunities for whey.

9. Expanded international dairy markets. A checkoff-funded cheese foodservice promotion in Mexico, managed by the U.S. Dairy Export Council® (USDEC), helped increased U.S. cheese use by 14 percent for Domino's Mexican market.

10. Led dairy industry animal health emergency preparedness communications efforts. The dairy checkoff joined forces with NMPF, USDEC and the International Dairy Foods Association to develop a communications plan to assist the dairy industry in the event of an animal health emergency. This effort included the development of a USDA-reviewed brochure to help producers stay vigilant about Foot-and-Mouth disease and other animal diseases. The brochure included communications tips and messages the industry can use in communicating to the public about FMD and other potential animal health issues. It was distributed to ADADC Mid East's dairy farmers with Dairy Management Inc. and ADADC Mid East's annual reports.

On Being a Farm Wife

Joyce Bupp

Imagine that.

A food marketing analysis that recently landed on the reading stack reports a fascinating new wave of home entertainment.

Cooking. From scratch. I pondered that while standing at the kitchen sink, peeling potatoes, chopping onions and celery for a family-sized kettle of homemade chicken corn soup. From scratch.

But this trend isn't about concocting a kettle of soup. It's about having guests hang out with you while you fix the food, sipping on beverages and munching on tidbits that they chow down as quickly as they are ready to eat.

Gee, we've been doing that for years, and calling them "doggie roasts." They're generally held around a big ole' bonfire in a fire pit, complete with oozing, sticky-sweet, charred-skin marshmallows. Most recent of these family, after-dark gatherings had the added attraction of festive "s'mores," with the melting marshmallows tucked between layers of chocolate bar and graham crackers.

Note that this entertainment was promptly followed by a collective march of grandchildren to the bathtub, before they became permanently stuck to clothing, grass, toys, or the lawn furniture.

The cook-from-scratch home entertainment wave fits handily with the return of a cooking appliance that also waxes and wanes in popularity. Fondue pots are handy, portable and generally have some sort of heating element which keeps the sauce, or cooking medium, of choice at optimum temperature. Electrified, with a temperature control, they can hold a hot cooking oil into which everyone sociably hanging around dipping pieces of meat, seafood, potato, veggie, for the few brief moments it takes to cook them, then promptly munching them.

Lacking a specific fondue cooking pot, one could probably improvise. A little creativity with a deep-fryer, or even a crockpot, probably would have possibilities, depending on the cooking or sauce base ingredient.

Little folks in our extended family would no doubt consider such a dipping-dunking-eating event a "fun-do." But, safer for little hands than something with hot oil would be a classic cheese dipping sauce that would be perfect during this annual observance of June Dairy Month.

What I've always considered traditional fondue features cheese as the base of the hot dipping sauce, eaten by skewering a chunck of sturdy, chewy bread on the end of a long fork. With a pretty little plate handy to catch any drips, of course, between kettle and consumption.

A bunch of people hanging around a cooking pot, battling each other over an area in which to eat with long, sharp forks has the potential for a fun and intimate social gathering. We won't even talk about "food fight" potential, if kids are involved.

Extending the "fun-do" could be chocolate sauce for dippin' dessert. Working on the same principle, a good chocolate is melted over a low heat setting in the fondue pot or similar appliance. Dessert dippers might be chunks of pound or angel-food cake, cherries, strawberries, banana, maybe even well-drained pineapple.

One thing for sure. From-scratch cooking of the "fun-do" sort could save on the dishwashing and cleanup. And table-setting chores.

What better reason could there be to jump on the cooking-as-entertainment bandwagon?

Why Do Farmers Use All The Water?

NORCROSS, Ga. — It seems like there is rarely enough water in the Western U.S. to meet everybody's needs. Especially after several years of prolonged drought in many areas, tempers get short when there is insufficient water to go around.

A common cry from the urban areas is that agriculture uses more than its fair share of water. Some estimates have been made that more than 80 percent of developed water is going to agriculture in many areas. Attention has been drawn to the fact that agriculture loses too much water through cracks, seepage, and evaporation from the miles of canals and pipelines. These losses should be addressed when financing is available.

What is not well understood is the huge amount of water that is indirectly delivered to cities in the form of food. A report by the Water Education Foundation documented the amount of water required to produce various foods in the Western U.S. Their basic approach was to divide average evapotranspiration by average yields to determine the gallons of water per pound of food produced. Since some of the water delivered to a farm is unavoidably lost as deep percolation, runoff, or soil moisture storage, the irrigation efficiency was assumed to be 70 percent.

Using a typical 2,300-calorie menu proposed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the following meal was constructed. The gallons of water required to produce that particular food item are shown.

Do farmers use a lot of water? Yes ... and we all benefit tremendously from their productivity. The water may not come from our faucets, but instead it comes to us in every bite we take.

Proper plant nutrition is a vital key to achieving efficient use of water. Nitrogen deficiencies have an impact on the ability of a crop to convert available water into yield. Phosphorus is important in stimulating seedling root development. This helps the plant explore more soil, increasing the recovery of nutrients and water. Potassium is often referred to as the regulator nutrient, influencing the water dynamics in plants. Nutrients play an essential role in allowing plants to convert water and sunshine into food.

fruit. Glaze optional.

We live on a dairy farm and milk about 80 cows. We have four daughters from ages 16-21 and four sons from ages 5-13. Our oldest daughter is married, and we just had a granddaughter in January! There is never a dull moment around here. The Lord has blessed us richly!

CHICKEN CHEESE SOUP

⅓ cup shredded carrot
2 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons butter
1 10¾-ounce can condensed cream of chicken soup
1 cup chopped chicken
2 ounces sharp American cheese, shredded
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Cook in saucepan carrot and onion in butter until almost tender. Stir in soup. Gradually add 1 cup water, chicken, and the Worcestershire sauce; mixing until smooth. Heat to boiling; add cheese; stir until melted. Garnish with croutons. Makes 2 servings.

We don't live on a dairy farm, but we work on wood. My husband, Charles and I work together in his shop. He makes furniture, toys, and bird houses. We enjoy planting a garden with lots of vegetables. I love to freeze them. We don't forget to read Lancaster Farming's every page, especially the June Dairy month issue. I like new recipes. When I read Joyce Bupp, I think I'm right on the farm the way she tells her stories. I like "Consuming Thoughts" by Fay Strickler and Ida Risser's column. Lawrence W. Althouse's "Bible Speaks" is good too. I got my first paper in 1974. I also like to cook, bake, and sew.

Betty Biehl Mertztown

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP

1 can (14.5-ounce) chicken broth
2 cans (29-ounce) crushed tomatoes
1 tablespoon sugar
chopped fresh basil
1 cup heavy cream
½ cup butter
salt and pepper to taste

In a large saucepan, bring the broth and tomatoes to a simmer and cook for 15 minutes. Stir in the sugar and as much basil as you like. Cook 5 minutes longer. Stir in the cream and butter, heating mixture through, but do not allow to boil. Add seasonings as desired and serve with more chopped basil for garnish — or omit basil altogether if your family prefers. Makes 6-8 servings.

My husband, John and I are hay farmers who live in the beautiful Finger Lakes region south of Rochester, N.Y. with our daughters, Linnell and Serita who recently turned 16 years and 13 years. We are getting some cool, steady rain which we welcome, both for the hay crop and the vegetables I planted the day before Easter. At this time of year our lawns need mowing every three or four days, and the men are getting barns and machinery ready for the hay season.

I do a lot of cooking, especially during the hectic summers when many hungry people are working long hours. Some of our favorite recipes have come from Lancaster Farming readers, including the all-time best chocolate chip cookies. I look forward to reading the B-section every week.

Barbara Randall Bloomfield, N.Y.

OVERNIGHT EGGS

16 pieces bread
2 cups chopped ham
1 cup grated or sliced cheese
6 eggs (beaten)
3 cups milk
½ teaspoon dry mustard
2 cups crushed cornflakes
½ cup butter, melted

Butter the bottom and sides of a 9×13-inch pan. Lay 8 slices of bread in pan, sprinkle ham and cheese on top and lay eight more pieces of bread on top. Add milk to beaten eggs and mustard and pour over bread. Combine crushed cornflakes and melted butter. Sprinkle over top of bread. Refrigerate overnight. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 1 hour.

My husband, Raymond, our three children, Cheryl (8 years), Krystal (3 years), Lyndel (9 months), and I live on a 70 cow dairy farm. I always look forward to seeing new recipes in the B-section. We usually make this casserole if we have overnight guests, but my girls often ask for it for Sunday lunch. Have a great summer and keep on drinking milk.

1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened
1 quart chocolate ice cream, softened

In a small bowl, combine the sugar and coffee; stir in boiling water until dissolved. Cover and refrigerate until chilled. Just before serving, pour coffee mixture into a one gallon punch bowl. Stir in milk. Add scoops of ice cream. Stir until melted. Makes about one gallon.

My husband, George, our daughters, Mikayla and Savanna, and I all enjoy this delicious punch. We live in Perry County. My parents live on a dairy farm nearby. The girls love to help their pappy feed calves.

CHICKEN IMPERIAL

2 cups bread or corn flakes crumbs
¼ cup grated Parmesan cheese
¼ cup chopped parsley
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 fryer chicken, disjointed
½ cup melted butter

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Combine crumbs, cheese, parsley, garlic, salt, and pepper. Dip chicken into butter; roll in crumb mixture, coating well.

Arrange chicken in single layer in shallow baking dish; pour any remaining butter over chicken. Bake for 1 hour or until tender. Makes 4 servings.

SPINACH FETA STRATA

10 slices French bread (1-inch thick) or 6 croissants, split
6 eggs
1½ cups milk
1 package (10-ounce) frozen chopped spinach, thawed and squeezed dry
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground nutmeg
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups (6-ounce) shredded Monterey Jack cheese
1 cup crumbled feta cheese or shredded mozzarella cheese

In a greased 13×9×2-inch baking dish, arrange French bread or croissant halves with sides overlapping.

In a bowl, combine the eggs, milk, spinach, salt, nutmeg, and pepper; pour over bread. Sprinkle with cheeses. Cover and refrigerate for eight hours or overnight. Remove from refrigerator 30 minutes before baking. Bake uncovered at 350 degrees for 40-45 minutes or until lightly brown. Serve warm. Makes 12 servings.

We have been getting the Lancaster Farming for a long time. We have a small farm. My husband raises some beef cattle. I enjoy the recipe section of the paper. I have gotten alot of recipes from your paper. We have two grown children and two granddaughters that we enjoy. This recipe is good. I don't like spinach and my husband does, so I try different recipes with it in. I like this one.

CARAMEL PUDDING

4 cups brown sugar
½ pound butter
1 gallon milk
12 eggs
8 tablespoons cornstarch
8 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt

Brown in a skillet brown sugar and butter; set aside. Heat milk slowly. In blender, blend eggs, flour, cornstarch, and one cup of the milk; add to hot milk and boil until thick. Remove from heat, stir in sugar mixture. Gives four large dishes.

We make this pudding quite frequently since we have our own supply of milk and eggs. Each time it tastes a bit different depending how much I brown the butter and sugar.

We have a bakery and a tomato greenhouse. Also a few goats and chickens. This helps keep us and our six children busy. Our children range in ages from 1½ to 10 years old.

MINI COFFEE CAKES

⅓ cup butter, softened
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1½ cups flour
1 package (3.4-ounce) instant vanilla pudding mix
1 tablespoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1¼ cups milk
½ cup chopped walnuts

Topping:

½ cup chopped walnuts
⅓ cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

In a mixing bowl, cream the butter and sugar; beat in egg. Combine flour, pudding mix, salt, and baking powder; add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Blend. Stir in walnuts. Fill paper-lined muffin pans two-thirds full.

Combine topping ingredients; spinkle over batter. Bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes until toothpick inserted near the center comes out clean. Cool and remove from pan to wire rack.

So glad you publish extra recipes for June Dairy Month for all who enjoy baking and cooking. You have some very tasty recipes. It's always a joy to try these good country recipes.

These moist, buttery muffins are easy to make and go well with a meal or as a snack. Especially nice when guests drop by served with hot coffee or tea.

Our family enjoys Lancaster Farming every week and wish to say thanks for publishing this excellent paper. Happy Cooking!

TACO DIP

2 8-ounce packages cream cheese, softened small bottle of taco sauce
1 or 2 cups chopped lettuce
1 medium chopped onion
1 or 2 cups chopped tomatoes
2 cups shredded velvetta cheese

Spread cream cheese on cookie sheet. Add taco sauce. Place lettuce, onion, and tomatoes on top of that. Sprinkle velveeta over top. Serve with nacho chips.

Nothing like a tall cold glass of milk! We have been dairy farmers for 40 years. We have two married sons, a daughter, and a granddaughter. A farm is a busy place but a good place to work and live.

BANANA SPLIT DESSERT

2 or 3 bananas
½ gallon neapolitan ice cream
1 cup chopped walnuts
1 cup chocolate chips
½ cup butter
2 cups powdered sugar
1½ cups evaporated milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 pint whipping cream
graham cracker crumbs

Cover bottom of 11×15-inch pan with graham cracker crust. Reserve 1 cup crumbs. Slice bananas crosswise and layer over crust. Slice ice cream in ½-inch thick slices and place over bananas. Sprinkle ice cream with chopped walnuts. Freeze until firm.

Melt chocolate chips and butter. Add powdered sugar and evaporated milk. Cook mixture until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Cool chocolate mixture then pour over ice cream. Freeze until firm.

Whip cream until stiff and spread over chocolate layer. Top

Think Fast, Think Eggs

PARK RIDGE, Ill. — New Think Fast. Think Eggs. Print ads, coming this summer, will feature the same three mouthwatering egg dishes as the television spots, and will use each of the commercials' opening questions as headlines.

Copy like "Crack, beat, slice and flip" will let consumers know that "with just a few ingredients it's easy to make a portabella mushroom and tomato omelet," or any other egg dish, for your family's dinner.

The print ads will be run in popular women's magazines to begin in late summer and continue through October.

Applications For Master Gardener Program Accepted

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — Penn State Cooperative Extension in Dauphin County is now accepting applications from Dauphin County gardeners for the next Master Gardener Training Program.

An information session to acquaint applicants to the Volunteer Master Gardener Program will be conducted on Tuesday, June 24, from 7 p.m.-9 p.m., at the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resources Center, 1451 Peters Mountain Road, Dauphin.

The deadline for applications is Thursday, July 3. Screening and interviews are planned for Thursday, July 10. Call the extension office after Tuesday, June 24, to sign up for an interview and screening time.

To be eligible for the program, individuals need only to want to be a volunteer and have a genuine interest in gardening, and want to share their knowledge and experience with others.

For additional information or to receive an application packet, Dauphin County gardeners should call the Dauphin County Extension Office at (717) 921-8803 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Towanda Gardening Events Planned

TOWANDA (Bradford Co.) — Master Gardeners from Penn State Cooperative Extension in Bradford County hold monthly workshops on gardening topics in the Demonstration Garden, 701 S. Fourth St., Towanda. Pre-register by calling 265-2896.

These workshops are part of a series of gardening classes that will be presented by Bradford County Master Gardeners this year. The following is a schedule of upcoming classes:

- June 17 Houseplants 6:30 p.m.

(Master Gardeners will have house plants to share with participants).

- July 15 Water Gardening 6:30 p.m.
- Sept. 16 Drying Flowers and Herbs 6:30 p.m.
- Oct. 18 Lawn Care 10 a.m.
- The annual open house in the Demonstration Garden is August 1 from 6 p.m.-8 p.m.

Remaking Jams and Jellies

What should you do if you make a batch of jam or jelly that does not set?

The options are to create a different use for the syrupy spread or to remake the jelly. Before remaking any jelly or jam, let it set for several days to see if the product thickens as it rests. Jelling sometimes takes time.

Marmalades may take up to a week to set. Directions for remaking jams and jellies depend upon the method used to make the spread and the type of pectin in the product. Cooked jelly without added pectin that is runny probably wasn't cooked long enough to reach the jelling point or lacked adequate acid in the fruit.

To fix this problem, pour the thin jelly into a large saucepan, add 1 ½ teaspoons lemon juice per cup of jelly and heat the jelly to boiling. Continue to boil rapidly until the jellying point is reached.

Use a thermometer to check that the mixture has reached 120F or use the sheeting test where two drops of jelly fall off the spoon together in "sheets".

Avoid over cooking this type of jelly or you may end up with an extremely firm, tough mixture that resembles candy more than a spread. Some general guidelines apply to remaking a spread using added pectin.

Remake a trail batch using one cup of jelly or jam first. After making the trail batch, wait 24 hours to see if it sets. Store any open pouches of liquid pectin in the refrigerator until you do the whole batch. Don't store opened liquid pectin beyond the remake time. Do not remake more than 8 cups at one time.

The following directions come from the National Center for Home Food Preservation. To remake a cooked jelly made with powdered pectin, for each cup of jelly or jam, measure two tablespoon sugar, one tablespoon water and 1 ½ teaspoons of powdered pectin. Mix the pectin and water and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add jelly or jam and sugar. Stir thoroughly. Bring to a full rolling boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Boil mixture hard to ½ minute.

Remove from heat, skim, and pour into hot, sterilized containers. Seal and process again in a boiling water bath for 5 minutes. To remake a cooked jelly or jam with liquid pectin, for each cup of jelly or jam, measure three tablespoons sugar, 1 ½ teaspoons lemon juice and 1 ½ teaspoons of liquid fruit pectin.

Place jelly or jam in a saucepot and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. At once add sugar, lemon juice and liquid pectin. Bring to a full rolling boil, stirring constantly, and boil hard for 1 minute. Remove from heat, skim, and pour into hot, sterilized containers and process 5 minutes in a boiling water bath.

To remake an uncooked jelly or jam with liquid pectin, mix the jelly or jam and for each cup of jelly add three tablespoons sugar, and 1 ½ teaspoons lemon juice. Stir well for about three minutes until sugar is dissolved. Add 1 ½ teaspoons liquid pectin per cup of jelly or jam and stir about three minutes or until well blended. Pour into clean containers. Cover with tight lids. Let stand in the refrigerator until set and then store in the refrigerator or freezer.

To remake uncooked jelly or jam with powdered pectin, mix jelly or jam and two tablespoons sugar for each cup of jelly or jam. Stir well until dissolved (about 3 minutes). Measure 1 tablespoon water and 1 ½ teaspoons powdered pectin for each cup of jelly or jam. Place in a small saucepan and place over low heat, stirring, until the powdered pectin is dissolved. Add to the sugar and fruit mixture and stir until thoroughly blended (about 2-3 minutes). Pour into clean containers and cover with tight lids. Let stand in the refrigerator until set; then store in the refrigerator or freezer.

According to the University of Wisconsin, no-cook freezer jams can also be made firmer by cooking them. Bring the soft jelly to a full, rolling boil and boil hard, stirring constantly, for one minute. Remove from heat. Skim off foam. Pour into containers. Let stand at room temperature overnight to cool. Store in the freezer.

No product should be a total loss. If, after trying the test remake, you still are not satisfied with the product or if you just don't want to take the time and effort for a remake, find ways to use the thin jelly as a glaze or syrup. Besides their obvious use on pancakes or waffles, their fruit flavor is a wonderful substitute for sugar in oatmeal or other hot cereals. Use as a sweetener in slushies or milk shakes.

Syrupy orange or peach jellies will make your ice tea very gourmet. Try them as a glaze for fruits, desserts, or petit fours. Drizzle some thin blueberry jam over strawberry shortcake topped with whipped topping for a patriotic dessert. Citrus flavors, peach, pear, or apple work well in glazed carrots or sweet potatoes.

QUESTION — Blueberry recipes are wanted for July.

QUESTION — Alice Weaver wants a recipe to make cream cheese.

QUESTION — James Breon requests a recipe for stewed tomatoes, which uses tapioca as a thickening agent.

QUESTION — Isaac Kirk, Silver Spring, Md., wants a recipe for rhubarb jelly and for red beet jelly.

QUESTION — A reader wants recipes to make homemade cream cheese, cheese, yogurt, sour cream, cultured buttermilk and other dairy products.

QUESTION — Donna Rhine, Quarryville, wants to know if anyone has a "Lep Cookie" recipe.

QUESTION — Richard Kleckner, Quakertown, wants a recipe for Drop Welsh Cookies.

QUESTION — R.H. from Seneca Falls, N.Y., wants a recipe for a good Philly Cheesesteak. Also, for the recipe, do cooks use cubed or ground beef?

QUESTION — Lizzie Stoltzfus, Gap, noted that years ago they used to make a drink called soda water in the summertime. She can't find tartaric acid, however. Does anyone know where it can be obtained?

QUESTION — Yvonne Scantling, Wrightsville, writes that as a girl in the 1950s, her family purchased goat's milk taffy at the F.W. Woolworth Stores in Columbia and Lancaster. The taffy came in vanilla, chocolate, and strawberry flavors. It was made in large sheets 15x15-inches and weighed about five pounds each, she estimates. A hammer was used to break the taffy whenever it was purchased. Yvonne would love to have the recipe to make the delicious taffy. Woolworths only sold it during the summer months.

QUESTION — Brenda Weidenhammer, Schuylkill Haven, is looking for a recipe to make fig bars that taste similar to Fig Newtons.

QUESTION — Pam Bange, Hanover, wants a recipe for cherry vanilla pie (like those sold at Nell's Surefine Market in Hanover and East Berlin). The cherry pie has almond slivers on top and vanilla flavoring.

QUESTION — Jean Mitchell, Lewisburg, is looking for a recipe to make blueberry whoopie pies.

ANSWER — R. Schrum, Dover, wanted a recipe with instructions on how to can zucchini that tastes like pineapples. Thanks to a subscriber for sending in the following recipe.

Zucchini Pineapple To Can

8 cups zucchini squash, peeled, shredded or ground
23-ounces unsweetened pineapple juice
¾ cup lemon juice
1½ cups sugar

Peel and shred or grind 8 cups zucchini squash. Add 23-ounce can unsweetened pineapple juice, ¾ cup lemon juice and 1½ cups sugar.

Bring to a boil and simmer 20 minutes. pour into sterilized jars; seal and process 15 minutes in boiling water canner (water must cover jar lids when boiling).

Use this as a substitute for crushed pineapple in cooking or for salads and other recipes that require crushed pineapple.

ANSWER — Recipes to make homemade crackers continue to arrive. Some are duplicates of those already printed in answer to A. Weaver's request, but here are some different ones from a reader who did not include her name.

Wheat Thins

Combine in mixing bowl:
2 cups whole wheat flour
2 tablespoons wheat germ
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
2 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons dry milk solids
Use pastry blender to cut in:
6 tablespoons butter
Combine separately and stir in:
½ cup water
1 tablespoon molasses

Knead until smooth. Grease two cookie sheets and sprinkle with cornmeal. Divide dough in half. Roll out half of dough onto cookie sheet with floured rolling pin, rolling dime-thin. Sprinkle lightly with paprika, garlic, onion or seasoned salt. Run rolling pin over once more. Prick with fork and cut into desired shape (pizza cutter works fine). Bake at 350 degrees for 10 minutes or until lightly browned. Yield: ⅔ pound.

Mama's Crackers

3 cups oatmeal
2 cups unbleached flour
1 cup wheat germ
2 tablespoons sugar
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup canola oil
1 cup water

Mix all ingredients together. Grease a cookie sheet and spoon some dough onto a pan. Roll out ⅛-inch thick. Try to leave about one-inch from pan edges to prevent burning. Sprinkle lightly with salt. With pizza cutter, cut into desired squares or shapes. Bake 350 degrees for about 10-13 minutes.

Note: Some melted butter may be substituted for some of the oil for a buttery flavor — about 3-5 tablespoons.

Graham Crackers

4 cups graham wheat flour
2 cups brown sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup shortening
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup milk
2 eggs

Roll out onto cookie sheets and bake at 350 degrees until lightly browned.

ANSWER — Joyce Shoemaker wanted a recipe using club or saltine crackers to make something that tastes similar to peanut brittle. Anita Daniels, Waymart, sent is this recipe that is different than those previously printed.

Fool's Toffee

40 single saltine crackers (not square but rectangular)
2 sticks butter
1 cup light brown sugar
12-ounce semi-sweet chocolate chips
1½ cups chopped pecans or walnuts

Line 10½x15½-inch jelly roll pan or cookie sheet with heavy duty aluminum foil. Spray foil with cooking spray. Line crackers on foil.

Bring butter and brown sugar to a boil until it is foamy. Pour over crackers. Bake at 350-degrees for 12 minutes. Remove from oven and sprinkle chocolate chips over hot crackers. When melted, spread evenly. Sprinkle with chopped nuts, pressing into chocolate. Remove from foil quickly. Break into separate cracker pieces. Refrigerate. Also good without the chocolate.

Here is a different version from Joan Yarnall, who writes that her mother and mother-in-law love this. They both had liked peanut brittle but couldn't eat that after getting false teeth.

Golden Graham Crunch

¾ cup butter
¾ cup granulated sugar
¾ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
½ cup light corn syrup
¼ teaspoon salt
24 graham crackers (5x2½-inches)
½ cup chopped M&M's plain chocolate candies
½ cup chopped pecans

Line 15½x10½-inch jelly roll pan with aluminum foil; lightly grease. Combine butter, sugars, corn syrup, and salt in heavy 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil over medium low heat; continue cooking over medium low heat exactly 5 minutes.

Remove from heat; immediately pour half the syrup mixture onto bottom of prepared pan, spreading evenly to cover. Immediately press graham crackers into syrup mixture.

Immediately pour remaining half of mixture over crackers, spreading evenly to cover. Bake at 375 degrees for 8 minutes. Remove from pan.

Immediately sprinkle with candies and nuts; press in lightly.

Here is another version from Carole Wynne.

Nutty Cracker Delights

42 club crackers
½ cup butter
½ cup granulated sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup slivered almonds
12-ounces chocolate chips

Place crackers in a single layer in a foil-lined 15x10-inch baking pan. In a saucepan over medium heat, melt butter. Add sugar; bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Boil 2 minutes. Remove from heat; add vanilla. Pour evenly over crackers; sprinkle with nuts. Bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes or until lightly browned. Spread chocolate chips over top as soon as removing from oven. Immediately remove from the pan, cutting between crackers if necessary, and cool on wire racks. Store in airtight container. Yield: 3½ dozen.

ANSWER — Alice Rohland, Lititz, wrote that she had recently purchased a home grain mill and wanted a recipe and had several questions about where to find whole grains and the use of additives such as vitamin C. Thanks to Mrs. Aaron W. Huber, Myerstown, who recommends Dutch Way of Sheafferstown and bulk food stores as sources for purchasing wheat and rye whole grains. She tried vitamin C but didn't taste the difference. She also uses whole wheat in cookies and cakes. Substituting one-third of white flour for whole wheat doesn't seem to make a difference in the finished product, she writes.

Whole Wheat Bread

1 rounded tablespoon yeast
2⅓ cups lukewarm water
¼ cup vegetable oil
⅓ cup sugar
2¼ teaspoons salt
Put this in electric mixer bowl and stir; add:
1 tablespoon lecithin (granule or liquid form works)
1 tablespoon gluten
5 cups whole wheat flour
1 cup Occident (bread) flour

Sometimes a little less flour or a little more is needed to reach the right dough consistency. Add the last cup of flour until dough pulls away from side of bowl. Dough should be a little sticky to finger touch. Beat eight minutes. Let rise two hours. Punch down. Let rise another hour. Shape into three loaves. Let rise two hours. Bake at 300 degrees for 30 minutes or until golden brown. Brush tops with butter.

Whey Used In New Frozen Protein Bar

SAN LUIS OBISPO, Calif. — Athletes and other fitness devotees have a new protein source to meet their nutrient needs, thanks in part to checkoff-funded research by the California Polytechnic State University, located in San Luis Obispo, Calif. Cold Fusion Protein Bars are a frozen protein juice energy bar that uses whey protein isolate as its primary protein source to help provide muscle recovery and repair for sports enthusiasts.

"New product innovations, such as Cold Fusion, help achieve the objective of dairy checkoff-funded ingredient marketing and research," said Mike LaPolla, director of ingredient marketing for Dairy Management Inc., which manages the national dairy checkoff program. "Research indentifies the nutritional properties and functionality of whey protein isolates and other dairy ingredients, and marketing programs, such as the 'Do it with dairy' campaign, promote dairy's unique qualities to food manufacturers."

According to its marketing materials, Cold Fusion "tastes like ice cream and works like an energy bar." The product is available in four flavors (Orange Passion, Berry Blast, Key Lime, and Chocolate Fantasy) at leading natural foods, grocery, and convenience stores throughout the western U.S., including Albertsons, Safeway, and Vons supermarkets.

For more information about checkoff-funded ingredient marketing programs visit www.doitwithdairy.com or www.dairycheckoff.com.

Where Sibling Rivalry Has Its Start

Imagine, if you will, that your spouse walks in the door tonight and says, "Hi, honey. I want you to meet my new wife. She will be staying with us from now on. I expect you to love her and share your things with her. Okay?"

Feeling a bit outraged? Possibly even vengeful at this horrific scenario? How about sad, rejected, or duped?

Such is the experience for many children when a new sibling is brought home. Reactions from children vary greatly depending upon several factors like their age, temperament, birth order, and relationships with adults. However, it is not unusual for them to perceive the new addition as an invader, complete with a mission of taking over his or her position in the family.

The birth or adoption of a child is truly a happy event, but it does create at least a moderate degree of stress for everyone as the family works to regain its balance.

The family can be compared to a mobile with its members acting as the weights. When another anchor is added, the mobile tilts, tips, and sometimes spins wildly. The mobile has to be restructured and things rearranged in order for it to regain a sense of balance.

For families this 'rearranging" might include:

- Allowing the older child to assist the parents with care of the baby (with supervision, of course).
- Spending special "one-on-one time" with the older child on a regular basis. (Reading together is a great way to do this!)
- Talking with the older child about his/her feelings regarding having a new brother or sister.
- Setting and reviewing ground rules related to the handling of the baby.
- Recognizing and celebrating each child's accomplishments.
- Talk with the older child about what she/he did as a baby, look at his or her pictures, share your memories and stories of their childhood.

Acceptance of the new baby may take some time, and ambivalent feelings may continue for a while. But take heart! With love, support, and guidance, most children eventually adjust to the changes as the family takes on its new identity.

As one wise father put it, "I never thought I would be able to divide my love between my son and the new baby, but I found out that my love actually multiplied!"

'Fruit, Vegetable, and Herb Dehydration' — All Dried Up

GENEVA, N.Y. — Dehydrated fruits and vegetables are increasingly available in the marketplace. Dehydration is one of the oldest processing techniques — a method to preserve perishable produce while making a nutritious product that has a long shelf life and does not need refrigeration.

A workshop conducted at the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station in Geneva, N.Y., last month addressed some of these issues. "Fruit, Vegetable, and Herb Dehydration," was organized by Cornell University food scientist John Roberts and focused on small-scale production of dehydrated products. There were 29 attendees, including five speakers.

"This hands-on demo in the pilot plant was very popular," Roberts said, "because it allowed attendees to see, taste and feel many different fruit, vegetable, and herb products and learn what products and pre-treatments work best for dehydration."

"Since most of the attendees have their own farms and are quite busy during the picking season, they were happy to hear that fruit could be frozen during the picking season and then thawed and dehydrated later in the fall or winter."

Participant Dave Evans, director of Nelson farms at SUNY Morrisville, who has been working with small-scale food processors for the past four years, said he has had few opportunities to learn about dehydration. "This workshop was equipment would best suit our clients' needs, and then make it available at the new facility at SUNY Morrisville."

The morning session covered dehydration basics, shelf life and regulations related to dehydrated foods, microbiology, and sanitation practices, and packaging. Roberts provided an overview of dehydration, discussed the stages of moisture loss during dehydration, and the factors that affect moisture loss and product quality at each stage.

Food scientist Olga Padilla-Zakour explained how removing water in the food extends shelf life by suppressing both the growth of spoilage organisms and deteriorative reactions. She also discussed regulations regarding inspection, proper labeling and commercial sale as they pertain to food manufacturing at home and in small kitchens.

Microbiologist Randy Worobo covered how spoilage and pathogenic macroorganisms survive and grow. Worobo also pointed out that raw foods should be processed, either frozen or dehydrated in this case, as quickly after harvest as possible.

Joe Hotchkiss, professor and chair of the department of food science at Cornell's main campus in Ithaca offered quidelines on how to choose the best package for a dehydrated product.

Matthias Resen, of Healing Spirits Herb Farm and Education Center, showed slides of his solar dehydration facility located between Cohocton and Andrea, N.Y.

Chester County 4-H Dairy Camp Weaves Together Fun, Education, Awards

NOTTINGHAM (Chester Co.) — In spite of the rainy weather, Memorial Day Weekend turned out to be a fun time for the Chester County Dairy 4-H Clubs. More than 25 dairy 4-H participants between the ages of eight and 18 gathered at Brian and Patty Huff's farm in Nottingham for a two-day 4-H camp.

The camp had been established three years ago when the Huff's saw a need to strengthen and nurture 4-H kids throughout Chester County.

"The event is intended to spark interest in the dairy industry, boost enthusiasm about showing calves, and provide time with friends," said Patty. "We just give them the setting and opportunity."

Given the prior year's success, this year's occasion proved to be nothing less.

Four Chester County Dairy Clubs participated in the two-day event: Manor, Tri-County, Chester Valley and Southern Chester County.

The 4-H kids were divided into three groups: seniors, juniors, and first- and second-year participants. Work sessions were prepared to accommodate the three levels. Saturday's sessions were one hour in length and covered topics such as showmanship, judging, giving reasons, clipping, calf selection, show classes and preparing a calf for a show.

After a rain-filled afternoon, the kids needed some fun and exercise and even though the game was played in the rain, the 4H-ers enjoyed a competitive game of football at the nearby park. Tri-County Dairy Club provided a delicious barbecue and it was back to Huffs for more sessions.

Saturday evening's mini sessions covered parliamentary procedure, troubleshooting show scenarios, how to properly register a show animal, knot tying, bedding packs, and the anatomy of a cow. The 4-H kids topped off the evening perfectly with an ice cream social.

After breakfast on Sunday, the kids divided into three relay teams and participated in a very competitive relay race. To complete the race, the 4-Hers had to achieve the following: knot a show halter, straddle straw bales, pitch manure and wheelbarrow a load through cones, fill feed buckets, wrap up an electric cord, and squirt a picture of their team captain with a water gun.

"I had fun," said Randy Miller, Tri-County 4-H participant. "It was great running the relay races and learning about cows."

special addition to this year's program was a visit from the State Dairy Princess, Rachael Kilgore. She assisted in the barn testing and gave a small presentation over the lunch hour on the importance and value of a strong 4-H community.

The long-anticipated awards ceremony is the last event on the program. Everyone goes home a winner and feels important. The higher test scores get larger prizes with the grand prize for

With the race over, the weekend took a more serious turn and the kids were ready for their testing. The 4-Hers were not only quizzed with a written test but were also tested one-on-one in the barn.

Divided into age groups, the kids were quizzed on cow anatomy and asked to analyze and compare animals (giving reasons as to why cow A should stand over cow B). Seniors took their test one step further and were asked to clip the top line of a heifer, just like they would for a show.

While the test scores were tallied, the 4-H kids and their families enjoyed a pot luck lunch. A the overall senior being a show box, show halter, and blow dryer. The junior winner goes home with an equipment box and show halter, the first- and second-year winners take home a clipper-sized box and show halter.

This year's distinguished winners are as follows: Best Overall Senior: Hannah Wentworth, Quarryville; Most Improved Topline: Pat Jenkins, Toughkennaman; Best Topline: Abby Hedrick, Pottstown; First Place Junior: Paul Harrop, Lionville; First and Second Year Member: Julia Mills, Pocopson.

"4-H is about developing life skills, building friendships and hands on learning," said Jane Pebble, state director of the Pennsylvania Holstein Association. Jane and her husband Bob are big supporters of the weekend in leading workshops and planning activities.

She said, "This is the best thing that happened to Chester County Dairy Clubs in a long time. These young people are developing friendships, participating in competitive games, understanding teamwork and learning by doing."

Club leaders start planning next year's event months in advance and brainstorm about new sessions and activities throughout the year. There are also many farm companies and businesses that keep this event going by donating prizes and monies. This year, just to prove how much they loved the weekend, the Tri-County Club donated their entire fundraiser profits toward the occasion.

The vision that Patty and Brian Huff have for the Chester County Dairy Clubs is weaved with education, fun, and awards.

Patty summed up the weekend by saying, "Dairy is important to Chester County. We hope that through this weekend, our 4-H kids understand and continue that importance with a lot of enthusiasm."

LeAnn Rimes Sings To Milk

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Double Grammy award-winning artist LeAnn Rimes is the latest musician to sing a melody to Mom in praise of milk. The "Celebrity Ode to Mom" radio spot, which is part of the National Milk Mustache/"got milk?" campaign, features famous recording artists trading in their usual lyrics for a tribute to America's favorite wholesome beverage: milk.

Rimes's song goes like this:

Mom, it's your Baby
it's you I adore for your loving ways and the milk you poured You'd pour me milk
at the start of each day
I'd gulp it all down and head on my way
Milk's nine vitamins, minerals, too helped give me strong teeth and bones now I'm singing to you
Mom, thanks for milk
three times a day
Made me so strong in a million of ways

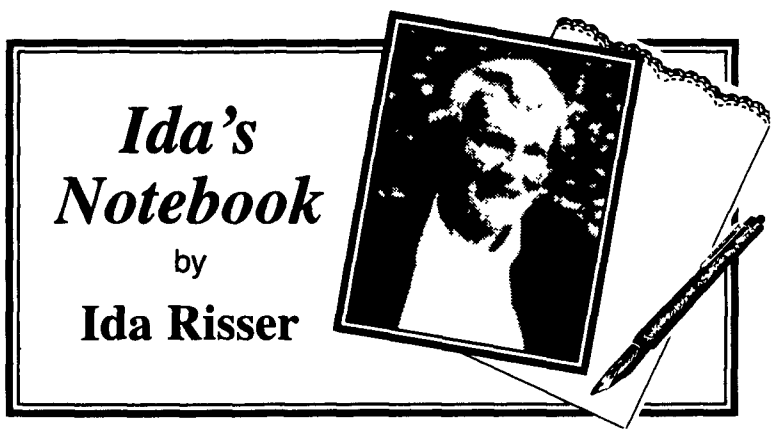
Smart Stuff
with Twig Walkingstick
Dear Twig: Please tell me more about the wetlands of Iraq. I've heard them called the Garden of Eden.
Thirty years ago, the ancient, fertile wetlands of Iraq covered nearly 8,000 square miles That's about the size of the state of Massuchusetts. The marshes teemed with shrimp and herons, otters and fish, and half a million indigenous people· the Ma'dan, or Marsh Arabs, who farmed and fished there
Then drainage canals were built The canals cut off water from the Tigris and Euphrates rivers, the lifeblood of the wetlands The wetlands began to dry and die Today they're a shocking 90 percent smaller, slashed to less than 600 square miles, less than the size of Rhode Island The animals that live there have been devastated So have the Ma'dan, who saw their land and homes destroyed (Imagine how they felt) Many fled Only about 20,000 Ma'dan still live there
Now, with the war in Iraq over, scientists hope to stop the loss They're planning ways to restore the marshes
The region is known as the Fertile Crescent It's thought to be the site of the Biblical Garden of Eden
Gardens, of course, need water
Dryly,
Twig
From The Ohio State University (Specifically, OARDC and OSU Extension)



With all the rain that we've been having I'm thinking my garden will be quite weedy until I can get to hoeing again. This year it must be all hand-hoed as my husband cannot use the rototiller. So far the deer have not eaten the sugar peas.

When things go along fine we do not think of possible problems, but when things go wrong then that is all that we can think about. The drain at my sink was clogged for a while and it was a big inconvenience. I had to go back to using a dishpan and carrying all the water into the yard to empty it.

On top of that situation was the fact that the big rugs in the basement got soaked. What a job to prop them up on boards and chairs to dry.

The same is true of our health. When we feel fine we do not think of illness. But, when a little or big pain comes along, then that is all that we think about — whether it is a sore finger or a major ailment.

When our children come to visit we usually have something to ask them to do for us. It often includes climbing a ladder or handling big equipment. Somehow, we older folks do depend on the young folks. For years we simply did whatever was required to keep things running smoothly, but now we need help.

Recently we had six young grandchildren here for a few hours and they enjoyed each other's company. They do not get to see each other very often as they live too far apart.

with reserved crumbs. Store in freezer. Remove about 10 minutes before serving.

This has been a favorite dessert with our family which now includes 15 grandchildren. I do not have an 11×15-inch pan so I use a 9×13-inch casserole and an 11×7-inch casserole. It may take a bit more ice cream for two dishes.

HOT SAUSAGE DIP

1 package sausage
5 scallions
8 ounces sour cream
½ cup mayonnaise
½ cup parmesan cheese
4 ounces pimentos

Cook and drain sausage. Add chopped scallions. Stir in mayonnaise, sour cream, cheese, and pimentos. Pour in shallow serving dish. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes. Garnish with chopped greens from scallion ends. Serve with crackers. Great as an appetizer or to serve as a meal with a salad.

My husband and I own a dairy farm in Bucks County. I tend to the calves while my husband, Ray, does the milking. I am also a nurse and I work fulltime in an OB-gyn office. The recipe I submitted is one of our favorites. It is quick and easy and enjoyed by all. I won a prize for this at our local dairy where we ship our milk.

PAT'S VEGETABLE SPREAD

8 ounce package cream cheese
½ package vegetable soup mix
½ package ranch dressing (dry)
½ cup mayonnaise or plain yogurt

Chill mixture while you do the following. Mince very fine any combination of broccoli, carrots, onion, cauliflower, cucumber, mushrooms, red and green peppers, or black olives. Drain excess liquid with doubled paper towels before adding to cream cheese base. Put as much in as base will hold. Chill overnight and serve with dark crusty bread, crackers, or fill celery. Makes great sandwiches.

I use this recipe to make fancy tea sandwiches. Put sandwich together (minus crust), put a small dab of cream cheese mixture in middle of sandwich, and place a small piece of vegetable on top. Very attractive and good. I make bread crumbs with the crust in my food processor and freeze for later use.

DAIRY PEAR SALAD

1 quart canned pears, liquid drained and reserved
1 20-ounce can pineapple, liquid drained and reserved
1 cup jello, lime, orange, or peach
1 8-ounce package cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon lemon juice
2 cups whipping cream

Measure reserved juices and add water (if necessary) to equal 2 cups. Heat juice to boil. Stir in desired flavor of jello until dissolved. Add 2 cups ice water and cool until syrupy.

Puree pears and pineapple, add cream cheese, and lemon juice. Puree until mixture is fluffy. Whip cream and fold into pear mixture. Fold into cooled jello. Pour into an oiled mold or serving dish. Chill overnight. Makes 6-8 servings.

I have been a farmer's wife for almost seven years. My husband, Marlin, and I own a herd of 90+ dairy cows. We raise our replacement heifers also. Our children, Sarah (3 years), Keith (2 years), and Aaron (1 year) love to go out to the barn with us to milk.

They also love to eat this salad. They request it quite often. I have tried several different flavors of jello and they all were good. This gets eaten up quickly at our house.

We are a very blessed family. God has been good to us and daily supplies our needs. Let's give Him the honor due to His Name. Thanks for a good publication.

EVERYONE'S FAVORITE CINNAMON ROLLS

½ cup milk
¼ stick butter
2 tablespoons sugar
2 tablespoons brown sugar
½ teaspoon salt
1 package yeast
½ cup warm water
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons sour cream
4 to 5 cups of flour

Filling:

½ stick butter
4½ tablespoons brown sugar
½ cup chopped pecans or walnuts
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Heat milk until steaming; add butter, sugars, and salt. Cool. While that is cooling sprinkle yeast into ½ cup warm water and let set for 5 minutes. Stir eggs, sour cream, and milk into a large bowl and add yeast mixture. Stir 2 cups of flour into bowl and mix well. Keep adding flour 1 cup at a time and mix well until dough is not sticky anymore. Let rise until double in size; about 1 hour. Punch down and roll out on floured board. Spread dough with filling and roll up like a jellyroll and cut into slices 1-inch thick. Let rise until double in size. Bake in a greased pan at 400 degrees for 25 minutes until golden brown. Eat and Enjoy.

These don't get time to cool before they are eaten. When I worked at public work, I would make these and take along to work. Everyone enjoyed them so. My husband works away from home and also works on the farm. He says these rolls always taste good with a good cup of coffee. My grandmother would make cinnamon rolls for the weddings in our family. They didn't last long. They are so good.

Cindy Scott's grandson, Aden, enjoys drinking his milk from a calf bottle, a new one, Cindy assures us.

I enjoy all the recipes in the Lancaster Farming and I try many of them. But the old family recipes are always the best because they bring back alot of fond memories.

ICE CREAM PUDDING

1 pound oreo cookies, crushed
1 (8-ounce) cool whip
2 quarts vanilla ice cream, softened
1 heaping cup instant vanilla pudding

Layer cookie crumbs in 9×13-inch pan (reserve some for topping). Mix cool whip, vanilla ice cream, and pudding together until well blended. Pour over crumbs. Sprinkle with rest of crumbs. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

This recipe is very quick and easy to make and is one of our favorites. We do not live on a dairy farm but I enjoy cooking and always look forward to trying new recipes. My husband and I live on a small vegetable farmette. We raise different kinds of vegetables and also have a large flower greenhouse. We have two boys ages three and one.

CHERRY CHEESE PIE

¼ cup flour
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup butter, softened
1 can (21-ounce) cherry pie filling
1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese, softened
⅓ cup sugar
1 egg
1 teaspoon vanilla

In a bowl, combine the flour, sugar, and salt. Add butter; stir until combined. Press onto the bottom and up the sides of a 9-inch pie plate. Bake at 350 degrees for 10-12 minutes or until lightly browned.

Pour pie filling into crust. In a mixing bowl, beat cream cheese, sugar, egg, and vanilla until smooth. Carefully spread around outside edges of pie, leaving a 3-inch circle of cherries exposed in the center. Bake for 30-35 minutes or until edges begin to brown. Cool on wire rack. Refrigerate for several hours before serving. Makes 8 servings.

This is a quick, yummy recipe, and is very simple to make. We enjoy it with a bowl of ice cream.

My husband, David, and I, along with our 6-month-old son, Jordan Lee, rent a dairy farm in Mount Joy. We milk 50 cows. I always look forward for the recipes printed in June's issues of Lancaster Farming.

MOM'S POTLUCK POTATOES

4 large potatoes
¼ pound shredded sharp cheese
½ large onion, grated
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1½ cup milk

Cook potatoes in salted water for 15 minutes. Drain. Let cool. Shred potatoes to make about 4 cups. Mix potatoes, cheese, onion, salt, and pepper. Put in greased 10×6×1½-inch dish. Dot with butter. Pour milk over and bake at 300 degrees for 2 hours or until top is brown.

The children of Richard and Jeanette Rutt, Mount Joy, enjoy helping on the farm.

This is a great dish to make for church suppers. I'm kept very busy with my girls, a 20-month-old and a 3-year-old. I have a large garden and a candle making business I do from my home. I live on a farm with my husband close to Newburg.

BUTTERSCOTCH PUDDING

3 tablespoons butter
1½ cup brown sugar
3 eggs, beaten
4½ tablespoons flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
4½ cups milk
1½ teaspoon vanilla

In a 2-quart kettle, melt butter and brown very lightly. Add sugar and salt. Mix and slowly add 3 cups milk. Heat to almost boiling point (180 degrees). Mix remaining milk with flour to make a smooth paste. Using a wire whisk, add to the hot mixture, stirring constantly until it thickens. Remove from heat. Beat the eggs and add 1½ cup of hot pudding to the eggs. Mix then add them to the rest of the pudding. Return to heat and cook for 2 minutes. Remove from heat and add vanilla. Cool.

This pudding recipe has been Mom's favorite to make for Sunday dinner and now has been passed on to us to enjoy.

My husband, David, and I, and our 16-month-old daughter, Roseanna live on a small farm in northern Iowa. We grow a wide variety of produce and hope to help establish a new produce auction that has been built last summer. We have enjoyed the B-section for many years and look forward to more new recipes.

WIENER CHOWDER

4 medium potatoes, cubed
1 pint corn
1 small onion, chopped
1 tablespoon butter
4 hotdogs, thinly sliced
1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese
1 quart milk
salt and pepper to taste

In 3-quart saucepan combine cubed potatoes and frozen corn with some water. Cook until soft (about 15 minutes). Fry onion in butter, add hotdogs. Fry until lightly browned. Add cream cheese; stir until melted. Place all ingredients in crockpot on high for 1 hour or low for 2 hours.

A very good soup to come home to for a quick Sunday dinner. We have a great blessing from God to be able to grow up in the country on a dairy farm and then raise our children on a dairy farm as well.

We're all enjoying the beautiful springtime after the cold, snowy winter. Living in an area where we can see all four seasons is another God-given blessing.

EASY BAKED CORN

1 can creamed corn
1 can whole kernel corn, drained
8-ounce sour cream
6-ounce corn muffin mix
1 egg
5 tablespoons melted butter

Mix all together and bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Use a 8- or 9-inch pan.

Years ago I was a substitute in the cafeteria at a local school. Once a month all staff would bring in a dish and everyone would have lunch together. This recipe was brought in by one of the teachers and has been a favorite of ours ever since. When my two daughters left home they both had this recipe with them.

Aggressive Plans Underway For Summer Grilling Program

DENVER, Colo. — An aggressive campaign to move more beef during summer 2003 will be conducted through the beef checkoff's Summer Grilling promotion.

The intent of the promotion, aimed at increasing demand for all cuts of beef, including undervalued cuts from the chuck and round, is to convince current grill users to grill beef more often.

The integrated retail marketing program, which included radio advertising, in-store merchandising, and strong public relations activities, will be conducted on behalf of the Cattlemen's Beef Board by the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) and state beef councils. Extensive manufacturer and retailer tie-ins will significantly expand the campaign.

It is expected that more than 110 million coupons will be distributed through free-standing inserts in newspapers, and more than 22 million through in-store efforts. The coupon support completely funded by partner participation will drive consumers to purchase more beef.

EVERYBODY'S GOT ROOM FOR SECONDS CASSEROLE

1 (10-ounce) can chunk white chicken
4 cups broccoli cuts, frozen
1 can condensed cream of chicken soup
¼ cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon lemon juice
1 teaspoon curry powder
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese bread crumbs

Layer broccoli in a 7x11-inch baking dish. Top with chicken.

In a separate bowl, combine soup, mayonnaise, lemon juice, and curry powder.

Spread soup mixture evenly over chicken layer. Finish by sprinkling cheese on top and adding a light layer of bread crumbs. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 1 hour. If desired, place under broiler unit until lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

CHOCOLATE WHOOPIE PIES

2 cups occident flour
1 cup packed brown sugar
½ cup cocoa
1 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ cup vegetable oil
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup water
1 egg, beaten
⅓ cup milk
½ teaspoon vinegar

Filling:
1 cup shortening
2 teaspoons butter
¼ teaspoon real-lemon
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons whipped topping mix

Mix dry ingredients to remove all lumps. Add wet ingredients and stir with spoon till mixed. Chill dough. Bake on ungreased cookie sheets in a heated oven at 475 degrees for 7 to 10 minutes or till done. Cool. Fill and wrap soon to keep moist.

For filling: Mix all ingredients until fluffy. Chill. Add 1 cup (sifted) sugar or donut sugar. Mix again until fluffy. Add 1 teaspoon flour and mix. Chill. If filling is too stiff add 1 tablespoon more of oil.

This is a delicious and very moist whoopie pie and they never last long around our place. Thank you Lancaster Farming for a great paper!

MICROWAVE PIZZA HOT DISH

1 pound ground beef
1 small onion, minced
1 can (6-ounce) tomato paste
1 can (4-ounce) mushroom pieces, drained
½ to 1 cup (2- to 4-ounce) pepperoni
⅓ cup green pepper, diced
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon oregano
⅛ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup parmesan cheese
2 cups water
2 cups uncooked noodles
1 cup mozzarella cheese

Crumble ground beef and onion in microwave dish. Microwave for 5 to 6 minutes. Stir once. Drain grease. Mix remaining ingredients except mozzarella cheese. Microwave until noodles are tender (about 15 to 17 minutes). Put cheese on top, then microwave until cheese is melted (about 1 minute).

Our family loves this casserole and it is very easy to make. My husband, Richard, and I live in Mount Joy with our four children, Shane (11 years), Alex (9 years), Christine (6 years), and Dallas (14 months). Richard raises hogs and works at M.M. Weavers. I am a homemaker and I enjoy flower gardening, cooking, and reading. As a family, we enjoy camping, going to the mountains, fishing, and just being outdoors.

POTATO-EGG SUPPER

4 strips of bacon
4 cups diced cooked potatoes
6 hard cooked eggs
1 can cream of chicken soup
1 cup milk
½ teaspoon oregano
½ teaspoon onion salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon onion, diced fine
1 cup shredded cheddar cheese

Fry bacon till crisp; crumble. Brush 2-quart casserole with bacon drippings. Layer potatoes, bacon, and eggs in casserole. Blend soup, milk, oregano, onion, salt, and diced onion and pour over potato mixture. Sprinkle cheese on top. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes.

As our children were growing up I made many casseroles. We live out in the country on five acres, which keeps us busy with our three children not here anymore. We have six grandchildren and enjoy each one, when they come to visit us. I still clip recipes and enjoy this section of Lancaster Farming.

½ cup each, onion, celery, carrots (finely chopped)
¼ cup flour
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
4 cups milk (room temperature)
4 cups chicken broth
1 pound Velveeta cheese, cubed
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon baking soda
1 tablespoon parsley
pepper and paprika

Melt butter in heavy saucepan. Saute vegetables until tender. Stir in flour and cornstarch. Cook until bubbly. Gradually add broth and milk (1 cup at a time), blending into smooth sauce. Add soda and cheese. Stir until thickened. Add salt, parsley and pepper. Garnish with paprika.

My husband, Ron, and I both enjoy reading Lancaster Farming. We recently purchased my grandmother's property and we are busy with lots of lawn work. The house was built by my great-great grandfather and has never been owned by anyone but family. There are some remodeling projects we'd like to do eventually. We often enjoy "soup and salad" meals and here is one of our favorites.

SOUR CREAM COFFEE CAKE

½ cup butter
2 eggs
1 cup sugar
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
1 cup sour cream

Topping:
⅓ cup brown sugar
½ cup sugar
¼ cup chopped nuts
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Cream butter and sugar, add eggs. Sift dry ingredients and add alternately with cream. Add vanilla.

Place half the dough in greased 9x13-inch pan. Add half the topping, next rest of dough and rest of topping. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes.

Food helps keep families together! Cooking for the family is interesting. We have four sons and two daughters.

CANDY

1 cup butter
2 bags of large marshmallows
1 cup peanut butter

Melt butter; add marshmallows and stir until melted. Then add peanut butter.

Mix together raisins, peanuts, rice krispies, and little marshmallows to make 2 quarts. Add to above mixture. After cooled make into balls and dip in chocolate.

My husband and I live on a dairy farm. We have two children, Caleb (4 years), and Kaitlyn (2 years) and we all drink lots of milk.

CARROT DIP

1 package (8-ounce) cream cheese, softened
½ teaspoon grated onion
1 package George Washington seasoning
1 medium grated carrot

Mix all together and serve with snack crackers or fresh cut-up vegetables.

This is our favorite dip recipe. It is mild enough that even small children like it. We live on a dairy farm and have five children, Andrew (9 years), Ryan (7 years), twins, Amy and Alice (3 years), and Michael (1 year).

STICKY BUNS

2 tablespoons dry yeast
½ cup warm water
1¼ cup buttermilk or 5 tablespoons buttermilk sweet cream powder in 1¼ cup warm water
2 eggs
5½-6 cups bread flour
½ cup melted butter
½ cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
2 teaspoons salt

Caramel Part:
½ pound butter
1 quart sugar
1 cup milk

In a large mixing bowl dissolve yeast in warm water; add buttermilk, eggs, and 2½ cups flour and mix. Then add rest of ingredients, enough flour to make dough easy to handle. Let rise one hour, roll out in rectangle, put cinnamon and brown sugar on top before rolling like jellyroll. Cut in 1-inch pieces, put on top of caramel in two 9x13-inch pans. Let rise again and bake at 375 degrees for 20 minutes or till done.

For the caramel part: melt butter and sugar on low heat and slowly add milk. Do not boil. Done when all melted together.

This is a favorite in our family, so they never last long. They can easily be warmed in the oven the second day, if necessary. We enjoy the June dairy recipes although we never get to try them all. Have a good summer!

New Milk TV Spots Debut

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Two new entertaining and educational milk TV commercials have been developed by the dairy promotion checkoff program that will motivate kids to choose milk more often and to make milk a "want to have" beverage among kids.

The first commercial "Tumble" opens on a boy lovingly mixing his chocolate milk. After he carefully fills the glass to the top, he begins to walk down the hallway when his younger brother leaps out suddenly to scare him. The boy jumps back and tumbles comedically down the stairs and over the family room sofa. He appears from behind the sofa, unscathed, still holding the glass of chocolate milk perfectly upright. He has managed not to spill a single drop.

The second commercial "Ant" opens on a young girl having a snack in the yard. As she takes a sip of milk, she notices a message on the bottle, "The calcium in milk helps you grow." This gives her an idea to test this theory on some ants. Just when she pours a drop of milk onto one of the ants, her Mom calls her from the house. When she enters the kitchen her jaw drops at the sight of a giant ant through the kitchen window. She can't believe that her experiment actually worked. It is then revealed that the enlarged ant is not real at all. It's a giant fiberglass model of an ant on top of a pest control truck.

"These TV spots highlights the fun benefits kids can have as a result of drinking milk," said Scott Higgins, CEO for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program. "By utilizing commercials such as 'Tumble' and 'Ant,' the dairy checkoff is able to help increase dairy product demand among kids."

Both commercials are airing on Nickelodeon and the Cartoon Network.

Dairy's Role In Heart Health Profiled In Health Journal

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Journal of the National Medical Association, the official publication of the National Medical Association, recently published an article co-authored by nutrition researchers with the National Dairy Council (NDC), the nutrition education arm of the dairy promotion checkoff program, that profiles the role of dairy products in cardiovascular disease prevention.

The article, "Adequate Nutrient Intake Can Reduce Cardiovascular Disease Risk in African Americans," co-authored by NDC experts and staff, reviewed several risk factors for cardiovascular health, including hypertension, insulin resistance syndrome and diabetes, and obesity. It detailed extensive nutrition research that shows the role of dairy in helping reduce the risk of heart disease, hypertension and other serious health issues. The article concludes, "dairy products are an essential component of a nutritionally complete diet and have shown to be well-tolerated and clinically beneficial to African-Americans."

Goat's Milk Soap Offers Users A Clean Break From Commercial Alternatives

MICHELLE KUNJAPPU
Lancaster Farming Staff

Mohnton (Berks Co.) — Even though the public often hears about the nutritional benefits of drinking milk, the value of this dairy product goes beyond the internal, as Charlene Burkholder has discovered.

Burkholder has been making her own goats' milk soap for five years. "People think soap is soap, but it's not," she said. "It is the only soap that I use."

Since the ingredients will stain, Burkholder does the most of soap production outside. Here she pours the goat milk and lye and warmed lard together before she adds the remaining ingredients.

If Burkholder is making the soap in the summer and it is not mounding on the spoon after she has stirred it (which indicates that it has cooled to the proper temperature), she simply puts the bowl into the cold water of her pond.

Although many customers are a little leery of trying the soap, it quickly became popular among people with sensitive skin, according to Burkholder.

A friend of Burkholder's began giving the soap to people she knew who were getting cancer treatments, and they came back "wanting to buy a pile of soap," she said.

The soap that Burkholder makes does not have deodorant, preservatives or fixatives to retain scents, or fragrances.

The milk comes from a friend who milks goats and normally sells the milk to families with infants, however Burkholder manages to procure the occasional gallon for her soap, she said.

Wrapped in pieces of ribbon or tulle, the soap makes an attractive display. Burkholder sells the soap at her own "Thyme For Flowers" cut flower and herb stand.

She works on another batch "whenever I see it getting low," she said. The recipe will make a cake-pan-size block, however the soap can also be poured into molds.

"This is not a children's project, because hot lye will burn the skin," said Burkholder. Because of the strength of the lye, Burkholder does not use her soap-making equipment in the kitchen.

Items such as the wooden spoon could absorb the lye and should not be used in food preparation, she said.

Burkholder first warms the lard on a stove until it is completely melted. She uses store-bought vegetable shortening, but tallow purchased from the butcher can also be cooked down and strained to use in the soap.

At the same time she begins to warm the milk. Stirring constantly, she mixes the lye into the milk. The lye and milk mixture will boil as it is put together, so she then allows it to cool.

Since the ingredients will stain, Burkholder does the remainder of soap production outside.

She waits until they (the lye-and-milk and lard mixtures) are both the same temperature, about 90 degrees.

As the two elements reach the same temperature, she pours them together slowly, stirring constantly.

She then adds the remainder of the ingredients, which includes oatmeal which she grounds in the blender until desired coarseness. "It helps clean a little better and is good for the skin," she said. She would also like to try adding a little sand to make "gardener's soap."

Although the recipe calls for it, Burkholder does not use fragrance to accommodate sensitive skin. If the soap maker wants to use fragrance, "make sure it is safe for skin," she said.

Once the soap mixture has properly cooled, Burkholder pours it into a pan.

She wraps the blocks to sell at her cut flower stand, "Thyme For Flowers."

To buy the glycerine required in the recipe, Burkholder asks for it at the pharmacy.

She then stirs the mixture until it mounds on a spoon, then pours into the pan or molds. The pans — glass or stainless steel — should be lined with a plastic bag to protect the pan and make the soap easier to lift out.

After the soap is poured she wraps it up and keeps it warm for 24 hours by layering on a cloth, plastic, newspapers, and a heavy blanket.

After one day she slices the soap in a pan and leaves it in the pan, uncovered, for several days. Later she will take the soap blocks out and let them dry for at least three weeks before using.

When fat and lye are brought together under the right conditions, they react to make soap and glycerin in a process called "saponification."

This chemical process takes several weeks, the reason the homemade soap needs to sit and age before it can be used.

Soon after the soap is made, there is still free lye in it, making the fresh soap very harsh, so be careful when handling it, warned Burkholder. A bright orange color in the soap means that there is free lye, that "something didn't blend well, so don't use it," she said.

Her family includes her husband, Al, and two grown children.

Goats' Milk Soap

3 pints cold goat milk
12-ounce can lye
5 pounds lard
4 tablespoons Borax
1 dram scented oil without alcohol (optional)
2 cups ground oatmeal
2 ounces glycerine

On your stovetop, begin to warm milk. Mix lye into milk by sprinkling slowly and stirring constantly. The mixture will boil and turn orange. Cool to 90 degrees. It will change to a cream color after it cools down.

Warm lard to a corresponding 90 degrees, then put the two 90-degree mixtures together. Add all other ingredients gradually, stirring lowly into the combined mixture.

Pour the soap into a plastic bag-lined stainless steel or glass container. Molds of cookie cutters, lined with a layer of petroleum jelly, can also be used.

Keep soap covered with a cloth to keep warm for 24 hours.

Allow to set for 24 hours before cutting into bars. Let the bars set two weeks before removing from molds to make sure they are hard. Let the separate pieces air dry.

The soap must cure for three week before using or wrapping.

Food Preservation Class June 26

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — Remember those delicious home canned goods that Grandma used to put up from her backyard garden? Canning procedures have changed dramatically over the years, but many folks still look forward to eating the "fruits of their labor" over the winter months with home preserved foods.

To make sure you don't endanger your family's health by following out-of-date canning instructions, Penn State Cooperative Extension is offering a hands-on workshop to teach the proper methods of home canning.

The three-hour session will be on Thursday, June 26 at 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. or 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the Montgomery County 4-H Center on Rt. 113 in Creamery. Participants will learn the latest methods of using a boiling water bath and a pressure canner. They will receive a comprehensive cooperative extension canning book and take home two jars of properly processed fruits and vegetables.

Registration is required and class size is limited. There is a cost of $25 per person or $40 per couple. To register, call the extension office at (610) 489-4315.

You ask You answer

This column is for readers who have questions but don't know who to ask for answers.

"You Ask—You Answer" is for non-cooking questions. When a reader sends in a question, it will be printed in the paper. Readers who know the answer are asked to respond by mailing the answer, which will then be printed in the paper.

Questions and Answers to this column should be addressed to You Ask—You Answer, Lancaster Farming, P.O. Box 609, Ephrata, PA 17522. Attention: Lou Ann Good.

Or, you may e-mail questions and answers to LGOOD.EPH@LNPNEWS.COM

Please clarify what question you are answering when responding.

Do not send a self-addressed, stamped envelope for a reply. If we receive the answer, we will publish it as soon as possible. Please include your phone number because we sometimes need to contact the person to clarify details. We will not publish your phone number unless you request it. However, if your question requires someone to mail items to you, you must include your address or phone number for publishing.

Streams and Lakes — Great Father's Day Gift!

Stream MAPS

The STREAM MAP OF PENNSYLVANIA was completed in 1965 after a thirty-year effort by Howard Higbee, a former Penn State Professor

The map is known as the LOST STREAM MAP to some anglers.

Professor Higbee succeeded in creating a map of the highest detail possible. a map that shows every stream and lake. He painstakingly plotted by hand the location of 45,000 miles of streams onto a 3 by 5 foot map

The map sold extremely well--until it was lost several years later Incredibly, the printer entrusted with the original drawing and printing plates declared bankruptcy, then carelessly hauled Higbee's 30 years of work to a landfill

The few remaining dog-eared copies became a prized fisherman's possession Professor Higbee was offered $400 for one of his last maps. And state agencies were forced to keep their copies under lock and key.

Experts told Professor Higbee that reprints were impossible, because the maps were printed in non-photographic blue.

Then, in 1991, at the age of 91, Howard Higbee's dream came true. Computers made it possible to reprint the map. Howard said, "I never thought I'd live to see this day."

Why every angler and boater needs these maps

It is estimated that 10% of all the anglers catch 90% of the fish. Regardless of which group you fall into...there's a sure way to up your odds...simply try new fishing waters. Now, with this map you can find hidden streams and lakes.

Pennsylvania, New York, New England, New Jersey, Ohio and Maryland/Delaware are loaded with great fishing holes...many of them overlooked. Thousands of miles of streams, rivers and lakes are now easy-to-locate on one map.

The 3-foot-by-5-foot Pennsylvania map shows 45,000 miles of streams plus lakes. The 3 1/2-foot-by-4 1/2-foot New York map shows 65,000 miles of streams plus lakes. The 3-foot-by-4-foot New England map shows 36,000 miles of streams plus lakes. The 2 1/2-foot-by-3-foot New Jersey map shows 8,300 miles of streams plus lakes. The 3-foot-by-3-foot Ohio Map shows 29,000 miles of streams plus lakes. The 2-foot-by-3 1/2-foot Maryland/Delaware map shows 12,000 miles of streams plus lakes.

Professor Higbee's' Stream Maps are the first and only highly detailed maps of their kind.

RAVE REVIEWS

"It is amazingly detailed and names some creeks in the Mohawk Valley that can't even be found on topographic maps."
—John Pitarres, OBSERVER-DISPATCH, Utica

"If you're looking for the most definitive maps ever created depicting every single creek, river, stream, pond and lake then 'Professor Higbee's Stream Maps' are without question the finest "
—Howard Brant, THE NEWARK STAR-LEDGER

"It is in showing where to find out-of-the-way trout streams that makes the map such a treasure to the fisherman."
—Joe Gordon, TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT, Johnstown

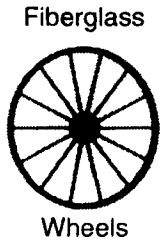
Fiberglass Wheels & Springs - Upholstery Fabric
Powder Coated and Zinc Plated Carriage Parts

700 Country Lane, Paradise, PA 17562 Hrs. Service (717) 627-7120

★ ★ New Products Now Available ★ ★

~ • The Advantages of the Fiberglass Wheels are: ~

Fiberglass



Wheels

- Very Low Maintenance Costs
  These wheels are built to last a lifetime and beyond without ever having to replace any parts on the wheels under normal use. The only maintenance required will be tightening up or replacing the tire or rubber.
- High Performance Regardless of the Elements
  Wheels stay tight even in hot, dry conditions -- No more loose rattling spokes -- ever!
- Rugged Heavy Duty Design
  It takes a major accident or impact to break or twist these wheels.
- Hard Durable Surface
  Resists scuffs and scratches, paint job stays shinier.
- Easier Cleaning
  Spokes have all rounded corners, no tight spots for dirt to get into.

~ • The Advantages of the Fiberglass Springs are: ~

Fiberglass

Springs

- Lightweight
  A fiberglass spring weighs 22 lbs. less than a steel spring, 44 lbs. less weight on the carriage.
- Durable One Piece Design
  No bolts to give out or wear.
- Better Performance With Heavy Loads
  The more weight, the better the ride, will not go flat and bottom out.
- No Rusting Ever
  Paint will not blister or peel off. No rust stains running out between the plys, providing a nicer appearance and much easier cleaning.
- A Lifetime Guarantee
  If these springs ever break under normal use, we will replace them free of charge.
- Stabilizer Kits -- Now Available
  For a smoother ride and less bounce

★ Install these wheels and springs on your next new carriage or replace your old ones ★

Golden Guernsey Collectibles Denote Breed's Rich History

Raymond and Alma Peachey collect milk bottles of all sizes and Guernsey memorabilia.

LOU ANN GOOD
Food And Family Features Editor

EAST EARL (Lancaster Co.) — Raymond and Elma Peachey have been told they have the largest collection of Guernsey memorabilia in the world.

"I don't know if that's true," Peachey said.

Maybe not. But one would be hard pressed to find another person more loyal and more knowledgeable of the Guernsey breed than the Peacheys.

"Guernsey milk is made to perfection," Peachey said. "People paid more for Golden Guernsey milk (which is higher in butterfat) than other milk (from other breeds), until the doctors came along and claimed it was no good," Peachey said of the nutritional push for low-fat versus high-fat diets.

"I always drank milk. I love (Guernsey) milk, and it never bothered me any."

Peachey is thrilled to hear that recent research is finding that dietary cholesterol may not be the culprit for heart attacks and other diseases linked to it.

"I'm sure Golden Guernsey will come back (in popularity) again," Peachey said.

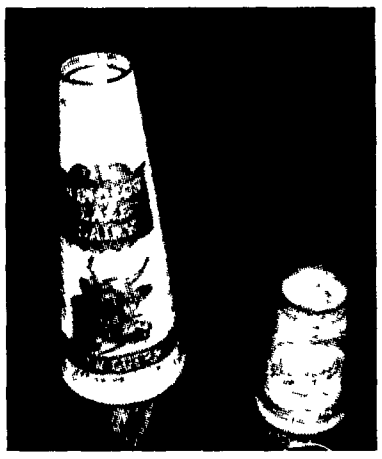
Because he is such an avid supporter of the Guernsey breed, it seems only natural for him to collect items related to the Guernsey cow.

In 1947 the Peacheys started farming in Chester County. They purchased about 30 head of Guernseys and developed a milk bottling and delivery business under the name Warwick Manor Farm.

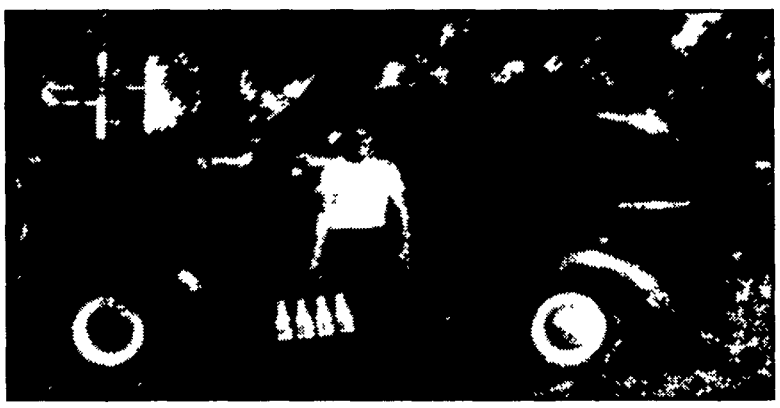
The Peacheys' slogan for selling milk: "You can't beat our milk, but you can whip our cream."

The Peacheys expanded their herd and operated a dairy for 45 years, selling the herd about 10 years ago.

"One of the hardest things I ever did was sell out," Peachey said, "I wouldn't have done it, but I contracted Lyme's Disease and couldn't keep milking."



These are the first paper cartons made in the 1940s during World War II. The larger one carries the Windsor Lake Dairy, Virginia logo. The smaller bottle is from Showalter's, Phoenixville.



Raymond Peachey is ready to deliver Golden Guernsey milk in this 1945 Chevrolet panel truck, the first of many used in his milk delivery business.

At 82 years of age, Peachey said that his Lyme's Disease symptoms are controlled and he is in relatively good health. He enjoys reminiscing about the days when Golden Guernsey milk was in great demand. He and his wife derive lots of satisfaction in searching for Guernsey memorabilia to add to their collection.

Their basement showcases the Guernsey treasures they have amassed for many years. In addition, they kept milk bottles and many items from their own bottling business. These serve as a historic account of the Peacheys' dairy and of the Guernsey breed as well.

They recently saw one of their dairy milk bottles sell for $200 at an auction.

Elma said, "The paper caps are rare and bring high prices now. After we stopped bottling milk, I burned cartons of the paper caps. If I would have only known. . . ."

Many sale promotional items are included in their collection. For example, they have a six-quart glass milk bottle dated 1890 that was used as a sales promotion.

It's difficult to assign dollar value to pieces unless the same item was sold at an auction. Of the 1890 milk bottle, Peachey said, "If someone offered me $500, they wouldn't get it."

Four bottles label the variety of milk the Guernsey breed offered: Golden Guernsey was the creamiest, followed by Guernsey Royal, Guernsey Gold, and Guernsey Skim.

One of the items the Peacheys continue to look for is a sugar bowl to match a creamer they have with the Guernsey logo.

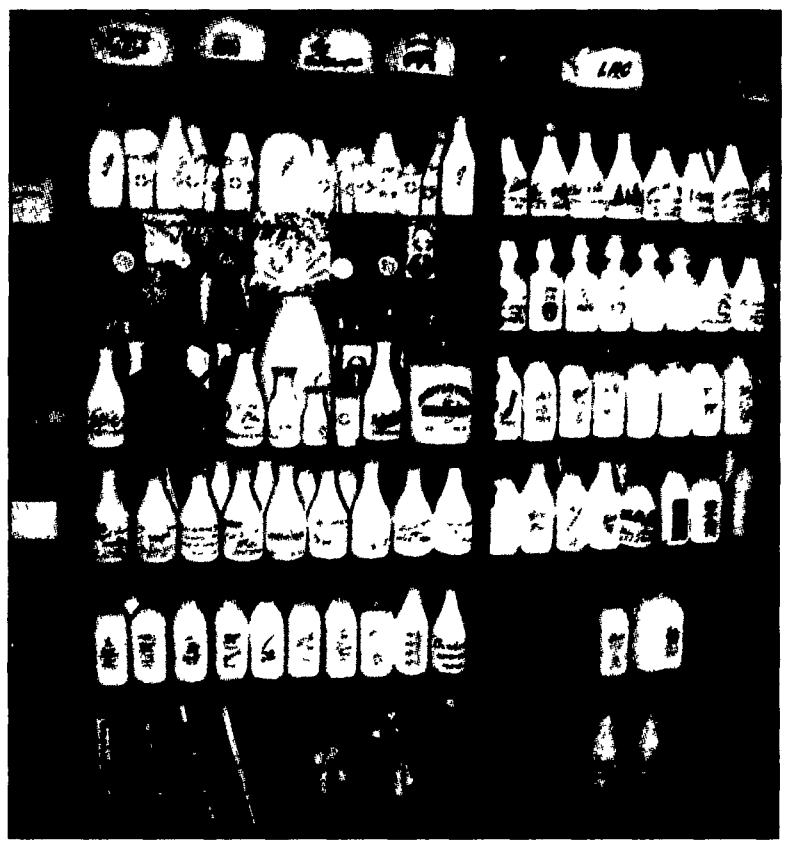
The Guernsey breed was established in Britain, and the Peacheys have several pieces stamped "Golden Guernsey from the Isle of Guernsey, England."

Like all farmers, Peachey has a collection of caps. His, of course, are partial to the Guernsey breed. He also has one of the white uniforms he used to deliver milk for his Warwick Dairy. Butter churns, milk bottle cartons, metal carrying cases, and other related items are also in the collection.

"When we started selling milk, we sold it for 17 cents a quart," Peachey said. His wife milked the cows and took care of the heifers while Peachey took care of the milk processing and home delivery to 120 customers in addition to farming the land.

Elma sold eggs that she cleaned, graded and boxed at night.

"I want people to know I had a good wife," Peachey said. "Proverbs (in the Bible) talks about a virtuous wife — I had one."



This is one section of the shelving that contains the Peacheys' milk bottle collection in their basement display. In addition to a variety of sizes in milk bottles, the Peacheys have 55-60 little creamers with logos printed on them. During the 1940s, many restaurants used the glass creamers to serve cream to customers who ordered coffee. Today, individual creamers sell for $75 and up.

Hard work, the couple believe, is necessary to make a business successful. Peachey said hard work should not be considered a negative side of owning one's own business.

"The problem isn't working too hard. It's not being content. If you enjoy your work and are content, you don't mind working long hours."

"We never took a vacation until our 50th wedding anniversary," Alma said.

The couple had three children. One died of a brain tumor about two years ago.

Look for a feature story in an upcoming June issue of Lancaster Farming on how the Peacheys' grandson Kevin Stoltzfus developed a Guernsey herd and national recognition by beginning with only two offspring from the Peacheys' herd.

Art Nouveau Items Can Be Auction Sleepers

It has been more than eight years since a major collection of Art Nouveau (1890-1910)) furniture and decorative accessories has come to auction and stirred up collector interest.

Yet, when single pieces come to market these days there are great opportunities and affordable prices. For those who like the look, keeping a wary eye on a generalized auction can pay off. A recent example was the James D. Julia Spring antique and fine arts auction.

Mixed in with a melange of Victorian and Arts and Crafts objects was an upholstered armchair with Art Nouveau style, mahogany carving. There was a hint in the description that it might have been done by Louis Majorelle, one of the noted French designers of Art Nouveau pieces, whose favorite wood was mahogany. For a knowledgible collector or dealer it would prove to be a bargain. It sold for $900, more than $600/$800 estimate.

Although many countries developed their own Art Nouveau styles, it is the French interpretation that is considered the most imaginative and finest, especially when done by such designers as Emile Gall'e and Louis Majorelle. What makes it so special are the floral, foliage and other naturalistic forms they shaped into furniture.

Gall'e, already famed for his work with glass, gave fantasy names to his furniture designs such as "dragonfly table" and "butterfly bed." Louis Majorelle, influenced by Gall'e trained first as an artist in Paris, then joined the family furniture production business.

CLUES: Majorelle used wood inlays in a variety of ways, including scenes as well as high-relief molding and gilt bronze mounts. Not everything that looks like Majorelle and Gall'e is. Much was commercially made by copiers.

Actually Art Nouveau isn't one but many design styles. Some of the influences were Gothic and rococco. Others borrowed from classical antiquity, as well as from the art of the Far East (especially Japan).

Touches of the Louis XV style show up as gilded carving on furniture and decorative pieces. Yet, when most of us think of Art Nouveau we visualize lamp and table bases as tree trunks and curving or serpentine furniture forms. One of the favored motifs was the peacock.

In the United States and England the French style was all but ignored.

The end result depended on the craftsman and the country he lived in. It was a time when architect-designers, such as Henry Van de Velde and Victor Horta of Belgium used exotic woods and experimented with such materials as precious stones and Oriental silks as well as curving forms. In Spain architect Antonio Gaudi designed pieces for his architectural clients. His furniture tho functional, was sculptural, using elaborately carved nature motifs, and gilding.

Of the many English art Nouveau designers, one of the best known is Charles Rennie Mackintosh, who actually worked and trained in Glasgow, Scotland. He used inlay, stained glass and paint to embellish his furniture. Some of his chairs, however were painted a dead white, which earned this designers school, the title, "Spook School."

There are still bargains for those who do their research.

Anita Gold Recounts Legend Of Blue Willow

My great aunt left us (my sister and I) several boxes of china in the Blue Willow pattern. Can you tell us anything about such pieces in this pattern, and how we can find out their value?

Vivian Carson, Decatur, Ill.

The willow pattern is one of the most popular and beloved decorative designs ever to grace table china. It pictures a Chinese landscape with exotic gardens, pagodas, a pair of mystical birds, and three quaint figures on an oriental bridge arched over a waterway. A wind-swept willow tree, among other fruit-laden trees, and a Chinese gondolier poling a boat may complete the picture, although the English pottery houses that produced the willow pattern showed variations in the design.

The earlier pieces can be recognized by the figures on the bridge, and an inner decorative border as well as an outer one on the plates. Later 19th century examples usually show no figures, and the plates do not have the inner border. Then too, the early china was always heavier then the later ware, and the design was always blue. Later examples were produced in other colors as well.

The design was put on the china by a process called "transfer printing," with the pattern first being deeply engraved on a copper plate, then with the aid of metallic inks, were ground in oil and printed on strong tissue. This tissue, in turn, was applied to the earthenware in a wet state, thus transferring the decoration to the china. If you look closely at the borders on these old plates and platters, you often can see where the pattern was cut off by the impression of the inked tissues in sections on the china, which adds to its charm. However, aside from its beauty, the most charming thing about the Blue Willow pattern is its bittersweet legend, transferred below.

The Legend of the Blue Willow

Once upon a time there was a rich mandarin who lived in a large, splendid house with his only daughter, Koong-se. One day the mandarin decided to retire from business, so he brought his secretary, Chang, to his home to put his accounts in order.

Upon meeting, Chang and Koong-se fell hopelessly in love. This angered the mandarin, and the couple was forced to meet in secret, with the help of Koong-se's maid. When the mandarin learned of their rendezvous, he built a high wall of wood at the water's edge to prevent Chang from coming to the house.

And he dismissed the maid and built for his daughter an elaborate suite of apartments that jutted over the water, where she could live under his constant watchful gaze. Soon afterward, the mandarin betrothed Koong-se to Ta-jin, a wealthy nobleman and scholar.

The wedding was to take place at "the fortunate age of the moon, when the peach tree would blossom in the spring and the willow blossoms dropped to the ground." Koong-se was brokenhearted, but one night while the mandarin and Ta-jin were feasting, Chang came to the house in disguise. Upon recognizing him, Koong-se quickly snatched up the box of jewels that Ta-jin had given her and fled with Chang across the bridge. The mandarin caught sight of the lovers during the crossing and ran after them to prevent their going.

Somehow the star-crossed couple escaped, but because of the furious rage of Ta-jin, they had to settle on a faraway island, where Chang cultivated a lovely garden and wrote a book on agriculture, which became famous. Through this book, Ta-jin discovered the couple's whereabouts and set out by boat to slay Chang and capture Koong-se.

When he reached the island, he did kill Chang but poor Koong-se, in despair, fled to her apartments, set them on fire, and perished in the flames. The gods enraged at Ta-jin, cursed him with an incurable disease and transformed Chang and lovely Koong-se into a pair of immortal turtledoves, the symbol of constancy.

Although it was Thomas Turner who first originated and introduced the Blue Willow pattern in 1780 at the Caughley Pottery Works in England, many other famous English pottery houses (such as Spode, Minton, Adams, Davenport, and Wedgwood) produced Blue Willow ware too. No other design was more copied and reproduced.

Grand L30 Series Tractors User Friendly

TORRANCE, Calif. — Kubota Tractor Corporation (KTC) presents the form of the future with the new Grand L30 Series compact tractors. Building on the tradition of Kubota innovation excellence, the Grand L30 Series incorporates a leading edge IntelliPanel™ communication tool with Kubota diesel technology, resulting in the most powerful and "smartest" compact tractor on the market.

Offering more power with greater comfort, while being exceptionally friendly to the user and environment, this series of remarkably responsive 31 to 50 horsepower Kubota tractors performs multiple operations with maximum results.

The IntelliPanel™ instrument panel accurately conveys systems data through a combination of digital letters, symbols, and industry standard indicators. These advise the operator of equipment status and warn of any circumstances exceeding normal operating limits.

The LCD (liquid crystal display) IntelliPanel™ can be easily read day-or-night. Standard indicators include hour meter, trip meter, mph travel speed, rear- and mid-PTO speed, fuel, temperature, and shift position.

The Grand L30 Series offers sophisticated factory cabs, a "first" for tractors in this class. Innovative mounting brackets allow for a tough, quiet, airtight cab. Curved glass throughout and frameless doors give the operator a spacious and unobstructed environment. Nine airflow ports control temperature and humidity levels.

Standard cab features include two doors, two cab mounted steps, air conditioner and heater with ventilation, windshield wiper, washer, rear defogger, front work lights, interior light, door mounted side mirrors, 55-amp alternator, lighter, ashtray, and deluxe cloth seat.

The Grand L30 Series has six models to choose from: L3130, L3430, L3830, L4330, L4630, and L5030. The Grand L30's E-TVCS Kubota diesel engine array provides stable output and high torque throughout the range. Model nomenclature reflects net horsepower by the first two numerals, with the "30" indicating series model classification.

Woods Equipment Announces Winner Of Oldest Batwing® Contest

OREGON, Ill. — Congratulations to Tom Welch of Barnesville, Ohio, winner of the Woods Oldest Batwing® Contest. Welch is the owner of the oldest Batwing — a model 180 with hydraulic wing motors that began production Nov. 12, 1963.

The durability of Welch's old Batwing is a testament to the quality that's built into every Woods product. Tom can now retire this old workhorse and start mowing with a new BW180 — his prize for winning the Woods Oldest Batwing contest. With his new BW180, Welch could be mowing with a Batwing at least another 30 years.

The winning entry was determined by Woods' Technical Service team using production records. Entries were received from Canada and all parts of the United States. The age of contestants' equipment ranged from 1963 to the early 1980's. "This contest was proof of the durable, hardworking mowers that Woods manufactures," said Randy Donaldson, Technical Service Supervisor.

Farmers Need To Avoid Spray Drift

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Farmers need to keep their sprays to themselves, says an Ohio State University agricultural engineer. Of the pesticide complaints the Ohio Department of Agriculture receives each year, 75 percent are related to spray drift.

"When spray drift occurs, if it falls on a field with the same type of crop, it's not a problem and no one complains," said Erdal Ozkan, who is a professor in the Department of Food, Agricultural, and Biological Engineering. "Unfortunately, it's not usually the same type of crop, which causes a problem and complaints."

If fields are close to urban areas, drift threatens yards, fruit trees and other valued landscape. The same situation occurs with drift from sprayed golf courses, Ozkan said. Some pesticides applied are deadly to plants bordering sprayed fields.

There are penalties for the farmer if it is a legitimate complaint. Some people may go directly to a lawyer and resulting litigations could be extremely costly. "If you need to make an error, it's better to have more weeds and lower yields than to have a lawyer knocking at your door," Ozkan said.

The key element in reducing spray drift is reducing the number of droplets that are small enough to be carried away by the wind. This can be done by reducing the pressure to get bigger droplets, mixing in spray drift retardant and by using better-designed nozzles that reduce the number of small droplets.

Drift also can be reduced by keeping the boom closer to the ground and by monitoring the weather. It is best to avoid spraying when there is high wind, low humidity, and high temperatures. On a day such as this, some of the liquid will evaporate, forming smaller particles that are easily blown onto neighboring fields, Ozkan said. For smaller sprayers including those used on golf courses, the boom can be covered with a shield to help reduce drift.

"Regardless of the strategy used, farmers may not win the battle if the weather conditions are not in their favor," Ozkan said. "It just depends on the day. A farmer could try all the strategies suggested to combat drift, and it still might not be effective. But attempting to reduce drift benefits the environment, the farmer and his neighbors, which is definitely worth something."

ABA Offers Tips For Beginning Farmers

LEBANON (Lebanon Co.) — When it comes to getting started, new farmers and ranchers might find bankers are their best friends. With state and national agricultural support programs shrinking, local banks have emerged as a funding source of choice for individuals launching their agricultural businesses.

To help young, beginning, and small (YBS) farmers plan on a successful future, the American Bankers Association is offering ten tips for sound financial practices. Getting to know your local banker is a key element of the list.

"Local bankers are sensitive to the needs of farmers," said Michael Firestine, senior vice president of Lebanon Valley Farmers Bank and member of the ABA Agricultural and Rural Bankers Committee. "They have knowledge of the farming conditions and understand your product and your needs."

With the high cost of getting into farming and ranching, YBS farmers may not enter the field because they don't know where to go for financing. Unlike established farmers, TBS farmers need to learn the basics of creating business relationships and what goes into making financial decisions.

ABA offers these ten tips to help first time farmers and ranchers towards a lifetime of financial success.

1. Sweat the small stuff. Keeping accurate and detailed records encourages both short-term and long-term financial planning. Not only does it help you stay organized, it makes it easier for your lender to assess your financial situation.

2. Develop a business and marketing plan. You will work smarter and improve your odds when you focus and organize your goals.

3. Evaluate your capital investments for profitability and payback. Keeping track of how long it will take to generate cash flows from a capital investment will help you make better financial decisions for the future.

4. Know your costs. When you consider your cost of living and expenditures, including depreciation and family living, you'll have a better understanding of your overall financial situation. Your local banker can provide guidelines to monitor your financial ratios.

5. Decide on what type of operation you want to run. New farmers and ranchers should either be very efficient, low-cost producers, or should add value that someone else will pay for.

6. Consider supplementing your operation with off-farm income until your operation is large enough to employ you profitably full-time.

7. Consider renting farm equipment or custom hiring instead of purchasing.

8. Shop around. Getting price quotes on supplies such as feed, fertilizer, and fuel can uncover lower cost sources. Your research might get you a discount from a local, preferred supplier that gives excellent service.

9. Ask your banker about how to get access to state and federal credit enhancement programs. Some banks also offer special benefits for first-time schedule F tax filers.

10. When in doubt, ask for help and guidance from someone you trust — an experienced farmer or rancher, a trusted adviser, or your local banker. You don't have to make these important financial decisions alone. For more information, visit www.aba.com.

Rep. Bunt Receives State Conservation Award

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Chairman of the House Agriculture and Rural Affairs Committee, Rep. Ray Bunt Jr. (R-Montgomery), received a Conservation Leadership Award from the Pennsylvania Land Trust Association at its annual Conservation Leadership Conference.

"I take immense pride in my work to preserve Pennsylvania's farmland," Bunt said. "I thank the members of the Pennsylvania Land Trust Association for recognizing Rep. Harper and I for this award, and we will only continue to fight for Pennsylvania farmers and farmland preservation."

Bunt was recognized along with Rep. Kate Harper (R-Montgomery) who was honored for her commitment to conservation leadership through achieving funding for the Environmental Stewardship Fund.

CLUTCHES/GEAR REDUCTION ASSEMBLIES

Our Specialty
We stock them, stock the parts, pinions, gears, bearings, seals & gaskets, splined out puts, shafts, housing adaptors/reducers, and pilot bearing holders. With little or no changes, these new clutch/gear reduction assemblies could fit your gas or diesel engine - 50-100hp. Five different gear ratios. A valuable link between your engine and power take-off shaft equipment.

CLUTCH / 5.8:1 Planetary Gear Reduction Assemblies

For 8-30 HP
Engines
Fits most — Honda, Robin, Kohler, Kawasaki, others (1–2 cyl.)

- Fits most standard crankshafts – 1", 1⅛", 1⅜"
- Aluminum Castings/Housings
- Ball & roller bearings, hardened gears

1 FARM EQUIPMENT

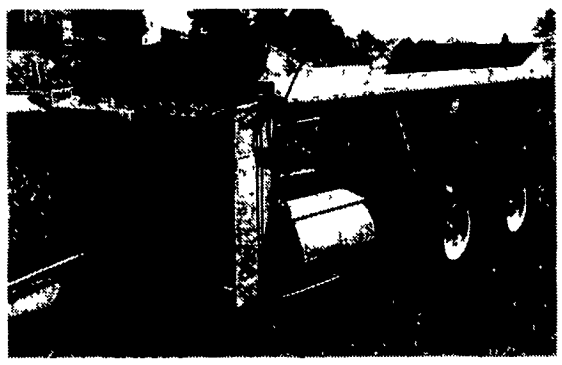
Binkley & Hurst Bros. Inc. Has A Heavy Duty KUHN KNIGHT In Stock For You!

Get the soil nutrients needed to grow your crop. If you have pen pack, sticky feed lot or slurry-type material that needs to be spread fast...and spread evenly, you need the KUHN KNIGHT PRO-TWIN SLINGER.

Model 300 Bu. 8014



Top dress wide spread or heavy application regulated by door opening. Material is pulverized by heavy duty hammers eliminating frozen chucks and piles of manure, good even thorough spreading commercial grade construction to give many years of trouble free spreading. With a Knight, twin patented auger you can circulate manure with door closed and not pushing material out over the front of the spreader.

Featuring This Design with Heavy Duty Impellers!

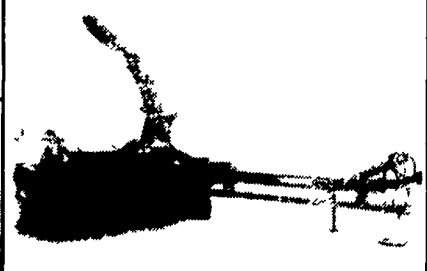
New Case IH FHX300 TOP-CAPACITY HARVESTING

Discover the productivity advantages of the new Case IH FHX300 forage harvester. This high capacity harvester makes fast work of your corn and hay acres, and quickly turns your forage crops into high-quality silage



Heavy-duty design. The FHX300 was expressly designed for use with high-horsepower tractors — those from 180 to 300 horsepower. The wide, 24.4 in (620 mm) that opening swallows your heaviest crops, while the 1000-rpm driveline, heavy-duty components and wide crop heads are made to harness big-tractor horsepower and turn it into high-capacity harvesting performance. You control FHX300 operations right from your tractor seat using electric standard hydraulic tongue swing.

NEW CASE IH 3X3X8 BIG SQUARE BALER MODEL LBX331 TANDEM AXLE AND SINGLE AXLE BALERS INSTOCK

3x3x8 instock

Lots of Features To Bale Your Crop The Way It Should Be! Equipped with Packer Cutter & Stuffer

The LBX331 packer cutter option allows you to use between two and six knives to adjust crop length from 4.5 to 10.5 in. You move the knives in and out of cutting position hydraulically from the tractor cab. Bale made with one of the Case IH pre-cutting systems are easier to break apart, mix and feed... and easier for livestock to digest. Using a cutting system also makes straw bales easier to spread and increase the straw's absorbency when used for livestock bedding.
Density Control, optional Work Lights, Knotter Fan to Keep Dirt Away from Knotters, 1 3/8 1000 PTO, Minimum Hp Required 110 HP.

DITCHBANK MOWER

DB150. Over 30 years of hydraulic mower design experience has made the Rhino® DB150 the preferred choice of experienced operators for the mowing of pond banks, levees, drainage ditches and hard-to-reach areas

The DB150 can extend to a maximum of 158 from the center line of the tractor allowing the 60 inch rotary head to cut areas that are difficult or impossible to reach with ordinary mowers By being hydraulically driven maintenance is greatly reduced with the absence of belts and pulleys The DB150 outperforms many competitive units with smaller hydraulic systems The DB150 utilizes a 60 gallon hydraulic system which allows the unit to run cooler in tough mowing conditions The large reservoir also serves as a counterweight and remains stationary on the mainframe, eliminating the potential traffic hazard of a movable counter-balance weight The DB150 features a heavy-duty three-point hitch using a lower double lug hitch system to fit a wide range of tractors To help insure a clean cut, the DB150 features updraft blades and a blade tip speed of 20,028 FPM

NOW IS A GREAT TIME TO TRIM BACK THOSE FENCE LINES WITH A RHINO BOOM MOWER

The Servis® 1548 hydraulic boom flail cutters are designed for mowing grass and cutting brush in hard-to-reach areas including roadsides, ditchbanks, ponds, and fence rows Large model with up to 15 foot horizontal reach and up to 4" diameter brush cutting

Portable Tractor Saw

Cut cordwood, pulpwood, firewood, ties or any other type of wood anywhere. Hook it up to your 3 point hitch, attach the PTO and move the Woodsman Saw to any location. As soon as you place a log on the sturdy 40" table, you'll get the feel of balanced-torque action. A light hand pressure moves the log into the blade, release the pressure and the spring loaded table rocks back on dual roller bearings, ready for the next cut. Built on a rugged steel frame, the Model 250 is engineered for years of heavy duty use.

Model 250 Specifications

Tractor hitch linkage	3-point hitch
Saw blade	30" diameter
Table	40" x 10 1/2", mounted on dual roller bearings
Operating speed	1300 RPM
PTO speed	450 RPM

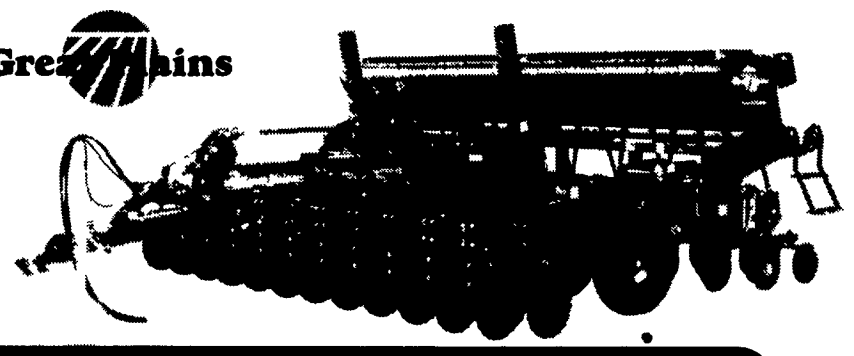
BETTER SEED PLACEMENT THAT'S PRECISELY THE POINT

- Great Plains Precision Seeding System Plants Corn, Soybeans and Small Grains
- Gives you the ability to singulate seed in the furrow while dramatically increasing seedbox capacity over traditional hopper-style planters
- The SingulatorPlus Meter™ sits directly on top of the double disc opener, and once the meter releases the seed, it has less distance to travel thus ensuring more accurate seed placement.



15' and 20' Widths Now In Stock!

Before you buy your next planter or drill, consider the following facts:

- ➤ If you overpopulate with either a planter or a drill, you increase your seed cost and decrease yields.
- ➤ Only Great Plains meets or exceeds planters on depth control and seed-to-soil contact for even emergence and maximum yield.
- ➤ Drilled beans canopy up to 3 weeks earlier than planted beans, dramatically reducing chemical cost.
- ➤ The earlier canopy of drilled beans saves precious moisture that can make or break a bean crop.

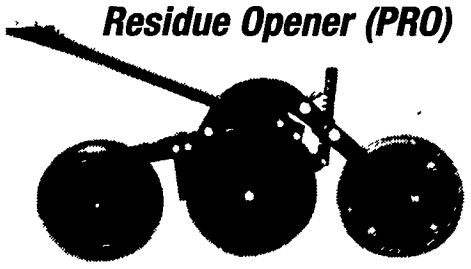
Krause PRO-System Grain Drills

Continuing the Long Line of Dependable Krause Products

KRAUSE

Krause has been engineering dependable equipment since 1916 when Henry Krause built his first one-way plow. The dependability and reliability that you've come to expect from Krause is also found in the line of Krause PRO-system drills from Hoober.

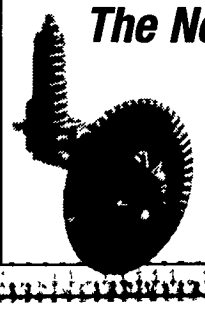
Precision Residue Opener (PRO)



Krause 5250 Series 13' PRO-System NT Grain Drills

- ➤ Staggered Rows
- ➤ 3"x13" Press Wheels
- ➤ ¾" Fluted N/T Coulters
- ➤ Small Grass Seed Attachment
- ➤ Acre Meter

The No-Til Coulter



leads the precision residue opener by only 24", which enhances tracking on hillsides and helps to ensure uniform seeding depth.

Hoober has 13' Krause PRO-System Drills In stock and ready for quick delivery!

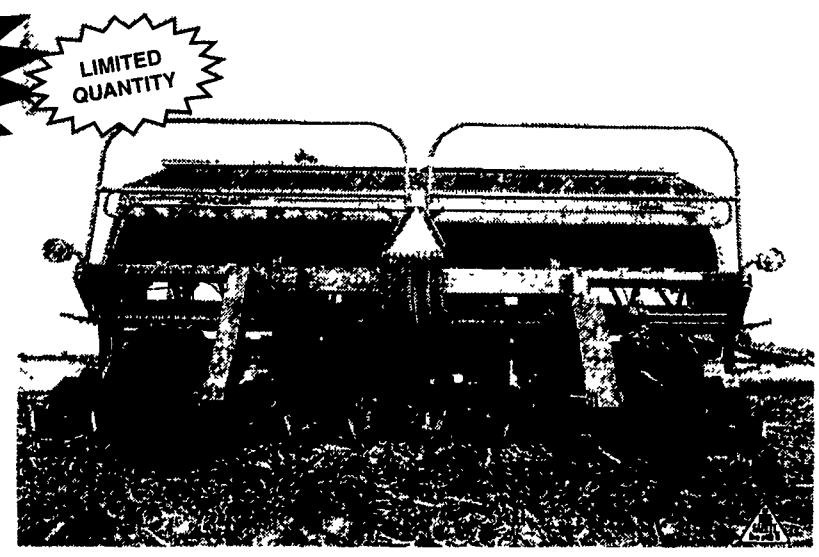
NEW 1590 NO-TILL DRILL

The best no-till drill for a reason

NO TIME TO WASTE FIELD READY 10' & 15' DRILLS IN STOCK

LIMITED QUANTITY



The new 1590 No-Till tops all other drills in its class for one simple reason: its new openers.

- Repositioned seedboot ensures seed is placed in the furrow
- One-piece seedboot is made of cast-iron for a long life
- Designed for no-till, but works well in all field conditions

See us today for details about the 1590 and its new openers.

KUHN GYRORAKES

Rotary Rakes : Best for Merging
- PTO Drive handles Heavy, wet Windrows
- No Stones in the windrow
- No wads & No roping=No slugging chopper
- Rakes corners & headlands other rakes can't

Rotary Rakes : Best for Drying
Most types of rakes roll the hay across the ground twisting it into a tight windrow that can't dry. Rotary rakes lift and carry hay "forkful by forkful" to form a light, fluffy windrow, which has maximum wind penetration. The result: Hay raked with a Kuhn rotary rake 8 hours after mowing generally has about a day less drying time, compared to unraked hay. And with less leaf loss than if raked when dry.

Meeting all your harvesting needs!

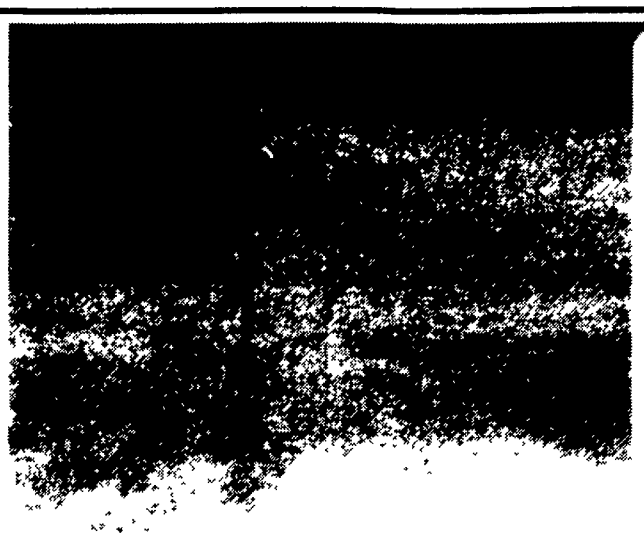
Leola, PA 17540 Phone: (717) 656-2321

Located: 4 miles West of New Holland on Rt. 23, 1-1/2 miles Northwest of Leola on the No. Groffdale Rd., 1 mile on the right, opposite Groffdale Mennonite Church.



Fewer parts, fewer problems, less downtime, more productivity. What could be simpler than that? The all-new MF 9000 Series Class VI and VII combines are so advanced, they're simple. In fact, there are only nine main machine drive belts, three drive chains and 66% fewer grease fittings than competitive combines. That means less time maintaining the machine, more time harvesting your crop. There's more. More header choices than anyone in the industry, and more in-cab visibility and comfort to watch 'em work.

See your Massey Ferguson Dealer today and ask about all the great features on the new MF 9000 combines.

Inner-City Children Spend A Fun Day On The Farm

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Seventy-five students ages 3 to 5 were given the unique opportunity to experience life on a fully functioning Lancaster County farm.

The K-3 and K-4 students, all members of the School District of Lancaster, visited the Country Barn Farm and Market, a fifth generation, 90-acre family farm managed by "Farmer Jim" Stauffer and his parents. The farm produces everything from eggs and beef to crops such as sweet corn, soybeans, potatoes, strawberries, and pumpkins.

The children got an excellent education in farming from "Farmer Jim," who taught them how a crop gets into the ground, how it's harvested, and the importance of the weather and proper soil management. "We've been doing school tours here at the farm for five years," said Mr. Stauffer.

The day was made possible by a local farm equipment dealer, Hoober Incorporated, Intercourse. Hoober funded the costs for the day and the transportation for the children.

Daryl Peifer, corporate sales manager for Hoober, remarked, "It was great to give these children the opportunity to learn about agriculture and what goes into producing the food that feeds them."

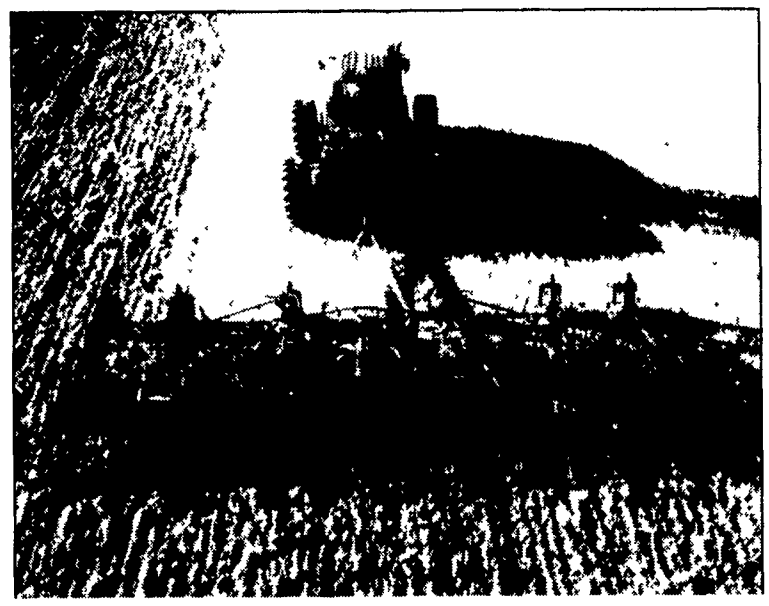
Case IH PTX Series Chisel Plows Set Standard For Precision Tillage

RACINE, Wis. — Primary tillage requires both heavy-duty performance and accuracy, and Case IH PTX Series chisel plows deliver both.

From the heavy-duty tubular frame construction, to single-cylinder depth control, to high residue clearance, the Case IH PTX300 and PTX600 chisel plows are designed to maximize producers' productivity. The rigid-frame PTX300 offers working widths between 24 and 40 feet with 24 to 40 shanks on 12-inch spacings. The flexible-frame PTX600 ranges from 26 to 62 feet with shank spacings of either 9 or 12 inches.

"Our customers know that good yields begin with good soil management," says Jacky Payne, marketing training manager for Case IH seeders and chisel plows. "Case IH PTX Series chisel plows maintain uniform depth and excellent soil penetration to break up soil clods and flatten crop residue to guard against erosion."

In-field performance is assured with easy-to-set, single-cylinder depth control and parallel lift (PTX600), which ensures accurate, uniform depth across the full working width.



The Case IH PTX600 precision chisel plow handles tough conditions and heavy residue with ease, especially when accompanied by a Case IH STX Series Steiger tractor.

In addition, four-by-four-inch tubular frame construction with dual walking beams handles both tough tillage conditions and heavy residue with ease. Transport dependability is assured on five section models with heavy-duty hubs, 17.5 tires and 8-bolt wheels. In variable terrain, Case IH PTX600 precision chisel plows offer an added advantage of a flexible frame and a floating hitch.

"No one in the industry can match the PTX600 chisel plow's land following ability," Payne says. "Front-to-back and side-to-side the PTX600 flexes to follow the variable contours of the land."

The precision performance of the PTX600 expands its versatility. Equipped with a Case IH manifold and air package, the PTX600 precision chisel plow can effectively be used for seeding and fertilizing applications.

ErReR Hill Farms Hosts Fourth Annual Angus Bull and Female Sale

BOSWELL (Somerset Co.) — ErReR Hill Farms, a division of Riggs Industries, Inc., hosted its fourth annual Performance Tested Angus Bull and Commercial Female Sale on April 19.

Close to 100 people from Pennsylvania and surrounding states attended the auction that took place at the farm in Lincoln Township. Several of the bulls sold at the auction were headed for as far off as Kentucky.

The auction, one of its only type in Somerset County, featured performance tested Angus bulls, cows, and commercial bred females.

The sale was auctioneered by Col. John Spiker of West Virginia, and by the end of the afternoon, 32 bulls, 15 heifers, and 12 cows and calves had been sold. The next event at the farm will be the Striving for Perfection Quality Female Production Sale on November 8.

ErReR Hill Farms, a well-known and respected breeder of Angus bulls, has been raising Angus cattle for over 40 years and currently has eleven bulls leased to AI stud cooperatives. The farm is owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney W. Riggs. Their registered and accredited Angus herd of cattle currently consists of approximately 10 bulls, 170 cows, and 70 replacement heifers.

Massey Ferguson 9790 Combine

Advanced Technology Boosts Capacity In New Massey Ferguson Combines

DULUTH, Ga. — New Massey Ferguson combines have increased harvest capacity over previous models thanks to advanced technology and design enhancements. The class VI MF 9690 and class VII MF 9790 combines feature improved fuel efficiency, more efficient and thorough grain threshing, greater visibility, and an enhanced cab environment. At the same time, combine operation and maintenance have become simpler, not more complex.

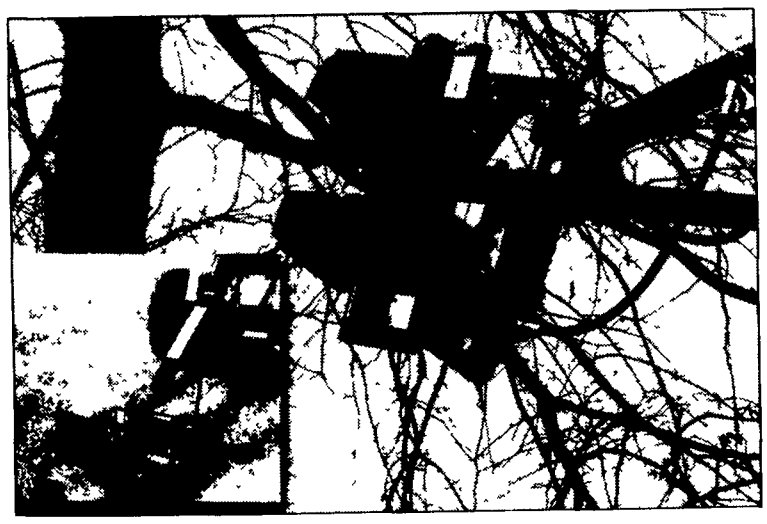
"The MF 9690 and MF 9790 are designed to adjust easily from one field to another or from one crop to another," said Tom Draper, general marketing manager, Massey Ferguson Harvesting Products. "In fact, our engineers work hard to create 'advanced simplicity' in every combine. That means fewer chains, fewer belts, fewer gearboxes, and fewer grease fittings than any other combine on the market. It also means superior harvesting capability and, with these machines, expanded harvest capacity."

Expanded capacity is a result of design modifications to Massey Ferguson's advanced technology and harvest system. Improvements involved the front beater, the rotor, and grain cleaning system.

Massey's proven grain-friendly cascade system shakes, separates and gently drops grain from one pan to another. Here, a minor change to the angle of the cleaning shoe and motion of the sieves and bottom pans contributes to increased cleaning capacity.

Increased capacity in threshing and cleaning means more grain in the tank. Storage capacity on the new MF 9690 and MF 9790 has increased to 300 bushels with new larger grain tanks.

"Even a minor change in design can make the best system even better," said Draper. "We increased the productivity in these combines not by changing a proven and successful system, but simply by enhancing several components."



New Tree Clipper from Worksaver

New Tree Clipper Simplifies Trimming Trees

LITCHFIELD, Ill. — The new Tree Clipper from Worksaver, Inc., solves the problem of trimming and cutting hard to reach tree branches or unwanted trees. It also eliminates the need to trim limbs with a chain saw from a loader bucket or ladder. The Tree Clipper can be mounted to either side of the main frame and provides excellent visibility.

Designed for use with a tractor loader or a skid steer, the Tree Clipper features rugged welded steel frame construction while the cutting blades are built from T-1 steel. Cutting head on the unit rotates 113°. Head rotator cylinder is 3"×10" and the cutting head cylinder is 5"×8".

The Tree Clipper is available in two models, Model TC8-FL and TC8-SS. Model TC8-FL is designed for use with a tractor loader and comes with standard pin type attachment brackets. This model requires a tractor with a minimum of 45 PTO HP. Front loader quick attach brackets are available. Model TC8-SS is designed for use with skid steers and uses a "universal" attachment system.

What's heat forming?

In metal roofing and siding it's the best way to go! Here is why. Everlast heats the paint very hot on their Everlast II product before they cut and form it into roofing and siding Tests have proven that heating paint before cutting and bending prevents virtually all microscopic cracks in the paint Ask our competition if they heat form. It's important. Normally manufacturers form and cut at room temperature. Unfortunately that cracks the paint causing early rust at formed bends and edges

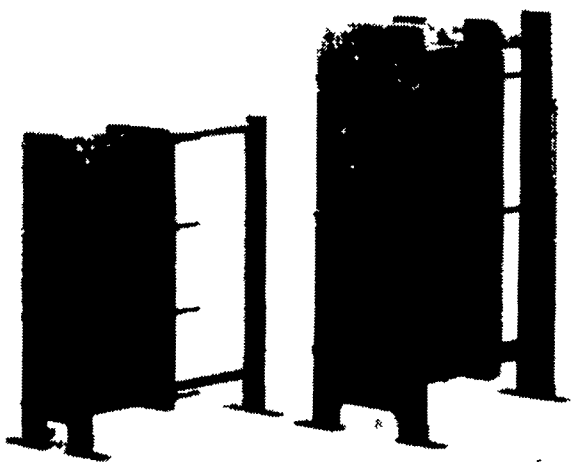
MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT


Having Problems Getting Milk Cold?
Consider a Mueller precooler. It's an excellent way to lower the cost of cooling milk. It reduces milk temperature with water pumped straight out of your well. Mueller® precoolers are available in sizes to work with any system. If lower electric bills would make your life easier, call us and ask for more information on Mueller precoolers.

Announcing:

Crude Soy Oil Now Available

With the addition of our new soybean processing facility, we now offer soybean oil as an animal nutrition product. Processing the soybeans ourselves allows us to utilize locally grown soybeans and support our local agricultural community!

Crude Soybean Oil

A product of Keystone's expelling process, this oil can be used in a wide variety of on farm applications Crude soy oil is a natural alternative to animal fats and provides needed energy in various rations

Uses of Crude Soy Oil Include:

- Use as a high energy feed ingredient in swine and poultry diets
- Especially useful in sow lactation diets, pig starter and grow/finish diets.
- Used as an added energy source in broiler, turkey and layer feeds.
- Can be used for dust control purposes
- Can be used as a lubricant for feeding systems.

Advantages of Crude Soy Oil:

- Use as a direct replacement for animal fat.
- Vegetable based product
- Holding tank does not need to be heated if temperature is above 30 degrees, which reduces storage and handling costs compared to animal fat.
- Bulk delivery, partial loads available direct to farm by Keystone Mills.
- Customer may pick up to save delivery costs.

Other Soy Products Available:

- Keystone offers Golden Pro 46 XP which is 46% protein - 6-7% oil, Golden Meal 40 which is 40% crude protein with 18% oil.

Keystone Mills Soybean Exchange Program

- We will take your soybeans in trade for Golden ProXP 46, Golden Meal 40.
- Contact Keystone Mills for details on our soybean exchange program featuring these quality nutritional products.

The Blessings That Remain

There are loved ones who are missing
From the fireside and the feast;
There are faces that have vanished,
There are voices that have ceased;
But we know they passed forever
From our mortal grief and pain,
And we thank Thee, O our Father,
For the blessings that remain.

FOR SALE BY OWNER
ONCE IN A LIFETIME OPPORTUNITY
1950's STYLE CAFE AND GARAGE

Unique cafe, garage, and home all in one. Cafe and garage is a newly constructed 3200 sq. ft. building built in 2001. The building is designed in the 50's style. Garage has a car lift and a wash/recon bay. Cafe has indoor seating for 41 and outside area for picnic tables. Cafe offers a full service menu with takeouts.

Included is a 2 story, 4 bedroom home and a recently renovated barn. House has a new well, roof, septic system and electric service. The property is fenced with a new hi-tensil, electric fence.

This established turnkey operation is located on 8 1/2 acres with over 1000 feet of creek frontage in a peaceful setting in beautiful Juniata County, Pa. The business would be ideal as a family operation. This is a great opportunity to live where you work. Alternately, the business could be operated and the house rented out for income. Has a lot of potential for growth such as a bed and breakfast and/or a campground by the creek. If you ever dreamed of owning your own business, don't miss this opportunity.

Owner is relocating. Will sacrifice all for $375,000. Phone 717-463-9900 Tues. thru Sun. 8am to 6pm for an appointment to see this mini-estate. Ask for Connie.
